SMITH FACES DEFEAT ON REPEAL

Today

Whirling Round the Sun
Clamoring for Beer
Much In a Thousand Words
The Great Treasure, Fire

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

WE KNOW how the world around us looks. How do WE look to one of the cosmic beings, that, presumably, surround us in space?

He sees our sun, a small star, one million times smaller than some other suns, rolling in its mysterious journey toward the great star Vega above our heads. Around our sun he sees little planets, following the sun as newly hatched chickens follow their mother, traveling in a spiral round and round the sun.

IF HE HAD a very powerful telescope, with microscopic attachment, he might see us and our little works, bridges, houses, canals, railways, banks, prisons and libraries.

Looking even more closely, to read newspaper headings about things that interest us, he would say:

"Queer little creatures."

ALL OVER THIS country, the cosmic ear would hear men clamoring for beer, with August A. Busch, of St. Louis, Col. Pabst and the Uihlein Brothers, of Milwaukee, and Jacob Ruppert, of New York, offering to spend twenty million dollars on new equipment, and hire thousands of men. The observant mind would ask:

"Why are those little things so much excited about beer? Does it help them to think?"

Imagine his surprise when told:

"No, it helps them NOT to think, and that is what they want, in a world of worry."

CONCENTRATION ON beer would interest the observing mind in America, and concentration on gold in France. That well managed country has more gold than it has ever had in its history, more than ONE HUNDRED PER CENT OF GOLD BACK OF ITS CURRENCY.

The sidereal spirit, asking the French: "Why your violent interest in gold? You can't eat it," would be told:

"No, but with it we can buy things to kill our enemies."

OUR COSMIC visitor, compared to whom the greatest mortal would be, in the language of the English scientist, "like a black beetle compared with God Almighty," would see a collection of human microbes gathered in Chicago, seeking somebody fit to run for President.

In far away Siam he probably would find the pleasant little King Prajadhipok and his family held prisoners by rebels on a warship, the King wondering why he went all the way to America to have cataracts taken from his eyes, if he was to behold the end of Siam's monarchy.

Rebels, probably, will not harm the royal family. Unlike the French and Russians, Siamese look on their royalty as worker ants look up to their queen.

DEMOCRATS IN Chicago want to write a platform that will reveal their plan to save the country in as few words as possible. But when nobody knows just what is the matter with the country, few or many words will hardly tell what to do. Democrats call Republicanism the chief evil, but they may be wrong.

The effort to write a platform in "not more than one thousand words" ought to succeed. The first chapter of Genesis tells about the creation of the world, and everything in it, in fewer words than that.

THE DEMOCRATIC convention rule, which makes it impossible for less than a two-thirds majority to nominate a presidential candidate, is a tricky political rule, but with respectable antecedents. Andrew Jackson used it, to force the nomination of Martin Van Buren.

But Gov. Roosevelt is supposed to have a majority of delegates. And if he really has them, they can abolish the two-thirds rule and nominate him.

Frank Hague, Mayor of Jersey City, a powerful personality, calls Gov. Roosevelt "the only Democrat that could not win." More about that will be known in November.

THE SALE of votive candles is now forbidden in all churches in Rome by Cardinal Marchetti-Selvaggiani, vicar general. He says the candles placed burning before altars of the saints by those praying for help, or giving thanks, "can easily take on the appearance of superstition." Says the cardinal:

"One mass well heard, one communion well received, will obtain more heavenly grace than thousands of candles lighted every day."

The rule does not forbid lighting of candles in churches provided they are bought outside the churches.

CANDLE LIGHTING dates back to days when man's most important task was to keep fire burning. There were no matches, flint or steel, and to let the fire go out was the greatest of calamities. In many religions, maintaining the sacred fire has been considered meritorious.

Ancient Rome's vestal virgins, keeping the sacred fire burning, could have nothing to do with men. Death was the penalty for taking their minds off the fire.

A VESTAL found guilty of unchastity was shut up in an underground cell, covered with earth and smothered. Each vestal, beginning her term of service, had her hair cut off, the locks hung on a certain tree.

For hundreds of generations fire was the most sacred possession of the human race, and, therefore, supposed to be a most acceptable religious offering.

GROSS GIVEN ONE YEAR IN JURY 'FIX'

Fined $400 by Butler Judge; Plea for Mercy Brings Criticism From Jurist

BULLETIN.

Mrs. May Scott, wife of a Pittsburgh policeman, who pleaded no defense to embracery charges in the Kline-Succop case, has been sentenced to four months in jail, $400 fine and one-half the costs. She was paroled for two years on a conspiracy charge. Her brother, Bert Dougherty, received a similar sentence on two counts of embracery and on the conspiracy charge. The case against W. H. Cook was nolle prossed on motion of District Attorney E. H. Negley.

By E. C. SYKES
Staff Correspondent.

BUTLER, Pa., June 25.—Howard Frank Gross, convicted of embracery in the Kline-Succop case, today was sentenced to one year in Butler County Jail and fined $400 by Judge Thomas Datson.

The sentence was close to the limit, which may be given for the offense. The maximum is a fine of $500 and a year in jail.

Gross, before the sentence, absolved the city administration from any connection with his acts in approaching jurors.

CLEARS ADMINISTRATION

Judge Watson asked:

"Was the offer made from your source of employment?"

Gross answered:

"No sir."

Attorney James F. Callahan, in his plea for Gross, asked that justice be tempered with mercy. He pointed to Gross' war record of 36 months overseas, and his family of four children.

Judge Watson replied:

"I don't care what his record may be. When he attempts to poison the springs of justice, we must deal with him as severely as we know how. He should have had better sense than to come into Butler County as he did."

CITY EMPLOYE

Gross was a stationary engineer reporting at No. 6 Police Station. He had been employed for 18 years by the city. Gross was accused specifically of visiting Miss Elizabeth Gormley, a prospective juror, and praising Mayor Charles H. Kline.

Others who signed pleas of no defense, Mrs. Mary Scott, wife of a Pittsburgh policeman; her brother, Bert Dougherty, and W. H. Cook, of Hilliard, Pa., are to be sentenced today.

Perkins, Out In 37, Bags Golf Lead

FRESH MEADOW COUNTRY CLUB, FLUSHING, N. Y.—June 25.—T. Phillip Perkins, former British amateur champion, tied with Jose Jurado, Argentine star, at 145 at the end of the second round yesterday, gained a one-stroke edge in the first nine holes of the third round of the United States Open golf championship here today.

Perkins went out in 37 to 38 for Jurado.

Hilty Menaced by Girl's Friends; Gives Bail

As Marlin E. Hilty, 35, dismissed Latimer Junior High School teacher, left Alderman Thomas D. Joness courtroom on the South Side last night, he was threatened by friends of a 15-year-old girl student after waiving hearing on a statutory charge brought by the mother of the girl.

Hilty was held for court on $2,000 bail and released a few minutes after he had been taken to the county jail.

A friend of the girl lunged at Hilty as he was being led from the courtroom by Constable Hymie Cohen.

Hilty, represented by Attorneys Harry J. Thomas and James McGill Boyer, appeared wan and haggard after four days in jail following his arrest on complaint of his wife, Catherine Brown Hilty. Mrs. Hilty, who is the teacher's third wife, did not attend the hearing. The girl, a student in Hilty's class in social science, was accompanied by her mother and father.

GARAGE FLAMES BURN MECHANIC

An automobile mechanic was severely burned and a garage in the exclusive Edgeworth section was damaged to the extent of $3,000 when a machine owned by Horton Semple caught fire this morning.

The six-car garage on the property of Dr. Robert Milliken, Chestnut road, Sewickley Heights, Edgeworth, is used by Milliken, the Semples and Horton Singer. Carl F. Coyne, of 773 Mt. Clair street, Pittsburgh, a mechanic for the Packard company, was draining the Semple machine in preparation for shipping the car out of town, when it caught fire. Coyne, burned on the face, hands and body, was rescued by Charles Sickler, superintendent of the Singer estate, and chauffeurs who were near the garage, and taken to Valley Hospital, Sewickley. Five other machines were driven to safety from the burning garage.

Edgeworth Fire Department fought the blaze for more than an hour.

LOS ANGELES, June 25.—(AP.)—A divorce from Steven Kingsbury Simkovitch, scenario writer, was awarded today to Allen Mercedes, actress and dancer.

BLEDSOE CASE NEARS JURY

UNIONTOWN, Pa., June 25.—The fate of R. C. Bledsoe and Cosmo Stengoni, was to be placed in the hands of a jury of eight men and four women today. Judge S. John Morrow, at the opening of court today delivered his charge to the jury, which for three weeks has listened to the evidence in the Donohoe murder case. District Attorney Wade K. Newell concluded the state's argument last evening.

Nearly 10 hours were consumed by E. J. McDaniel, defense counsel, and District Attorney Wade K. Newell. Newell bitterly scored attorneys for the defense for their veiled attacks upon his office. Much of his talk was in defense of his actions in bringing Tony Bell back to Uniontown and his zeal in assembling other evidence to establish a case against Bledsoe and Stengoni.

McDaniel branded Bell as a coward, a confessed perjurer and murderer and a bare-faced liar.

Speaking of Mrs. Elsie Ritenour, former sweetheart of Bledsoe, who testified against him, the attorney shouted that she did not take the part of a woman scorned, but a woman who tired of Bledsoe.

The general impression is that the verdict will be for acquittal.

Bledsoe and Stengoni are among the most lively prisoners in the Fayette County Jail. They are confident of a favorable verdict.

Curtis Lawyer Asks Full Facts on Charge

FLEMINGTON, N. J., June 25.—(INS.)—Full details of the charge of obstructing justice in connection with the Lindbergh case against John H. Curtis, Norfolk (Va.) ship builder, who will be placed on trial Monday, will be demanded, Lloyd Fisher, his counsel, said today.

Curtis recently repudiated his confession that his negotiations in the baby-kidnaping investigation were a hoax. Curtis' daughter, Constance, 11, and his Virginia lawyer, W. C. Pender, will be present at the trial.

TRUCK TIEUP HALTS WORK ON ROAD

Bowser Paid 74 Cents, While They Get 24, Drivers Say; Welfare Employes Idle

Forty-one welfare road workers were out of a job today because of a strike of truck drivers hauling gravel for surfacing State Route 240 in Springdale Township. When the drivers, who furnished their own trucks, refused to haul the gravel for 24 cents a ton, work on road was tied up. They point out that the state pays the contractor 74 cents a ton.

The striking drivers were picketing the road today.

The strikers say that Watson Bowser, Kittanning contractor, who collected $200,000 for hauling at the City-County airport, was awarded the hauling contract at 74 cents a ton. The drivers say there is a fair profit for both Bowser and themselves at 40 cents a ton, but their demands have been refused.

30 CENTS OVER COST

Jack Pierce, of New Kensington, said:

"I tried it one day and had 30 cents left after I paid for gas and oil. My wages, wear and tear on equipment and interest on investment netted me 30 cents. Bowser is getting 74 cents a ton and I got 24."

Bowser, at the William Penn Hotel, today admitted the men had been getting 24 cents a ton and the contractor 74 cents.

He said:

"The rate we have been paying is fair. There are a lot of overhead charges that have to be figured in on the contract. I think the trouble will be over by Monday."

FAIL TO MAKE PROFIT

E. Bandi, of New Kensington; W. M. Garlow, of Unity; the McQuisten Company, of Butler, and J. L. Mackrell, of Tarentum, were reported to have found it impossible to make ends meet on 24 cents. About 15 trucks have been employed on the job.

The men say the loading charge is about 10 cents a ton, making Bowser's outlay 34 cents, and leaving 40 cents a ton for him.

Bowser was shown, in the county audit last March, to have received $200,000 from the county for truck hire, being paid at the rate of 60 cents a ton.

Ziegfeld Gains After Critical Illness

NEW YORK, June 25.—(AP.)—Florenz Ziegfeld, theatrical producer, was recuperating today from the effects of an influenza attack which he suffered last February and from which he did not completely recover.

His wife, Billie Burke, said his condition was considered critical for a time Thursday night, but he was much improved today.

Wife Sues Robeson, Names English Girl

LONDON, June 25.—(INS.)—Mrs. Paul Robeson, wife of the internationally famous Negro singer, informed International News Service today that she has filed suit for divorce.

Mrs. Robeson named an English girl as co-respondent. She refused to disclose the latter's identity.

The Policy of the Hearst Papers

To the Editor of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph:

PLEASE MAKE YOUR editorials in conformity with the following definite declaration of the Hearst publications:

The Democratic party,—to use the historic language of Samuel J. Tilden,—can win if it has the courage to be democratic.

The Hearst papers are not trying to dictate candidates.

They favor Speaker Garner on account of his sound Democratic record; and a record of PERFORMANCE means more than any number of PROFESSIONS and PROMISES.

However, the Hearst papers will support any genuine Democrat, and will NOT support any Wall Street Democrat,—if there can be any such hyphenated hybrid.

NOR WILL THE Hearst papers support any candidate of the international bankers nominated to perpetuate the betrayal of the interests of our country and of our people which these bankers and their puppets in office have hitherto practiced.

The Hearst papers believe that the Democratic party should be democratic in deed as well as in name.

It should respect the wishes of the people, and comply with the will of the people as expressed in majority rule.

It should serve the interests of the people by nominating a candidate who will, if elected, represent the whole people and not merely the special interests.

The Democratic party has only to prove its democracy to be overwhelmingly elected.

BUT IF IT BETRAYS the best interests of the American people and submits to the dictation of Wall Street, it will be defeated, and will deserve to be defeated.

And the Hearst papers will do their best to help defeat it.

If we must have a Wall Street President in this country, let it be a Republican Wall Street President.

There is nothing anomalous or incongruous in that.

And let the people await the day when the Democratic party shall have "the courage to be democratic."

Hoover's New Attack Spurs Relief Battle

Job Aid Supporters Irked at Repeated Charges of 'Pork'

By WILLIAM S. NEIL
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—A new battle over jobless relief legislation was precipitated today as a result of President Hoover's demand that Congress rewrite the Garner and Warner programs, each carrying $2,300,000,000 to prevent suffering and provide employment.

Mr. Hoover's statement created a clear-cut issue between himself and Congress over the proposal to inaugurate a huge federal works program to put men to work.

BATTLE FORECAST

With both Senate and House on record for this method of relief, a fight to pass a jobless relief measure over a presidential veto was forecast.

The President's attack, together with the Senate debacle on the $150,000,000 economy bill, blasted all hopes of early adjournment of Congress.

While Mr. Hoover particularly attacked the public works program, he also criticised the pro-

Cheers for Walker, Amelia Cause Panic, Says Gibbons

By FLOYD GIBBONS

(Copyright, 1932, International News Service, Inc.)

CHICAGO, June 25.—(INS.)—Hello everybody!

Something like a dozen Democratic presidential candidates are down with the jitters. It's been the worst 24 hours of their lives.

Yesterday morning they were all smiling and confident. Peacefully calling each other names. Optimism had reached a new high.

And then, in flew Amelia. Chicago forgot its guests parked in the spare bedrooms and bolted to Lady Lindy. And by the time the candidates were up, the news had gotten around that Amelia had been nominated for President by acclamation.

Well, a good stiff sedative eased off that shock. But, by noon a newsboy upset everything again. He was yelling about Jimmy Walker's invasion. Rumor was that he had gone to the stadium, called a convention of his admirers and had accepted the presidency without waiting for an election.

One barber told me Alfalfa Bill Murray came busting into the shop and got his first shave this week.

On top of all that, Gov. Albert Ritchie got in town just in time to horn in on the noise and cheering.

So hitch up the husky-dogs, boys and girls. Rush that tonic relief.

ROOSEVELT FOR VOTE ON ISSUE

Governor Controls Platform Group as Wrangle Over Prohibition Issue Starts

CHICAGO, June 25.—(AP.)—The all absorbing prohibition issue came up for public debate today before a Democratic resolutions committee already agreed on the general form of a repeal submission plank.

Even as the rival leaders of the organized drys and anti-drys prepared for an hour and a half of argument, late in the day, the Roosevelt-controlled subcommittee appointed to draft the platform was at work behind closed doors.

Several tentative prohibition declarations were pending, but it was the consensus of the all-star cast of party leaders on the resolutions committee that the plank would be a short, concise assertion in favor of submitting to the states a repeal amendment.

FIGHT OVER REPEAL

A fight was expected on the attempt of Alfred E. Smith to pledge the party in favor of repeal, but the party spokesmen from all sections said the submission declaration is the limit.

At least that was the view of the dominant Roosevelt group and the forces of the New York Governor took over full command of the platform-writing sub-committee.

William G. McAdoo, California's member of the committee, got the jump on the Rooseveltians by proposing appointment of the subcommittee. It entitled him to a place upon it, and he got it. He went further today and insisted upon a meeting, although Chairman Hitchcock could not be present to preside.

Other members of the subcommittee include Senators Wheeler, of Montana, and Hull, of Tennessee, Roosevelt supporters; Glass, of Virginia, and Walsh, of Massachusetts; A. Mitchell Palmer, of the District of Columbia; William V. Comstock, of Michigan, and Joseph O'Mahoney, of Wyoming.

Meanwhile a situation tense with uncertainty provoked a furious drive for delegates by opposing leaders. With accredited convention voters arriving hourly, chieftains in the rival camps were doing their utmost to line up ballots and obtain some accurate tabulation with which to gauge the

DEMOCRATIC FACTIONS IN FIGHT OVER PROHIBITION STAND

SMITH REPEAL DEMAND FACES OPPOSITION

Gov. Roosevelt's Forces In Control of Committee To Formulate Platform

BIG ISSUES

These involved: The first prize of next week's gathering—the nomination; the fight to lay aside the venerable two-thirds rule, and the bitter controversy over whether the permanent convention chairmanship shall go to Senator Walsh, of Montana, a Roosevelt supporter, or Jouett Shouse, an anti-Roosevelt leader.

All were quick to express confidence that their particular cause would prevail, but the checking of delegate rosters went on nevertheless and in many cases men espousing the same side could not agree as to how many votes their faction controlled.

There was, moreover, a general feeling that the first dependable line on the situation would not come until Tuesday's roll call on the chairmanship. Three days intervene to be filled with intensive campaigning for the elusive convention votes that ultimately will settle the issue.

With the warfare at a peak of bitterness, Senator Harrison, guardian of Democratic peace in Congress, proposed a compromise, only to have it firmly and flatly rejected by Roosevelt managers and spokesmen for the combination of candidates opposing the New Yorker.

Predicting Roosevelt's nomination on the first ballot, he urged the Governor's followers to abandon their campaign for elimination of the two-thirds rule in the interest of party harmony, and that Shouse be given an opportunity to make a "ringing speech" with Walsh thereafter taking over the chairmanship.

Harrison said:

"I never opposed the abolition of the two-thirds rule, but I have always felt that we ought not to change the rules while in the middle of the game. If to change the two-thirds rule is done merely to win a temporary victory, it will affect us in the campaign. I think it much wiser to forego that necessity.

"It is most foolhardy and assinine for the Democrats in their convention to do anything that will embarrass or affect our chances in November."

FARLEY TO FIGHT

Almost immediatedly, James A. Farley, chief Roosevelt tactician, announced the fight against the two-thirds rule would go on with undiminished intensity. He said:

"When we make a move we go straight through."

Meanwhile, the Democratic presidential candidate in 1920, former Gov. James M. Cox, of Ohio, was aligned with the forces opposed to the proposed change of the rule. Newton D. Baker also joined in the fight to retain the rule.

Smith was adamant in turning down the Harrison proposition. He said he would go onto the convention floor, take off his coat and fight, if necessary, to retain the two-thirds rule. His reaction to Harrison's way of settling the Shouse-Walsh row he summed up with:

"You can't compromise with principle. There is a principle in the Shouse-Walsh fight. The principle involved is keeping your word."

The anti-Roosevelt camp contends the New York Governor broke faith in attempting to make Walsh chairman. It claims that Roosevelt agreed upon Shouse for this post as part of a compromise making Senator Barkley, of Kentucky, keynoter.

However doubtful Roosevelt's hold upon the convention may be, his followers are in firm control of the convention committees. They demonstrated this early last evening by tentatively seating Roosevelt delegations from Louisiana, Minnesota and Porto Rico, over the objection of groups opposing the Governor and claiming they legally represent the Democrats of the two states and the island dependency.

LOUISIANA ROW

The Louisiana row involved the confused political situation in that state. The delegation headed by the spectacular Senator Huey Long was recognized, and two opposing groups rejected. There is every indication this dispute will be carried to the convention floor and provide another bitter controversy to be settled there.

Dr. Ernest Cherrington, head of the board of strategy of the prohibition forces, has taken charge of the prohibition side of the contest before the resolutions committee, while Pierre S. du Pont, chairman of the United Repeal Council, is heading the anti-prohibition group.

Raskob's Son Fined As Speeder in Ohio

Said Smith to M'Adoo Said M'Adoo to Smith

CHICAGO, June 25.—(INS.)—The most tantalizing mystery of the Democratic pre-convention period was solved today when International News Service learned what was said when former Gov. Alfred E. Smith, of New York, and former Secretary of the Treasury William Gibbs McAdoo ended an eight-year feud at their surprise peace conference Thursday.

The two great leaders, whose forces battled for 103 deadlocked ballots at the famous Madison Square Garden convention in 1924, have buried their political hatchets. They united here in a drive to keep Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt from being nominated—though for different reasons. Smith is fighting for his own nomination; McAdoo to nominate Speaker John N. Garner, of Texas. They have shaken hands and forgiven the past. An approximate transcript of their conversation, when McAdoo called on Smith, as recalled by both today, follows:

McADOO—Hello, Governor.

SMITH—Hello, Mr. Secretary.

McADOO—I just dropped in to pay you my respects.

SMITH—I'm glad to see you. Sit down.

McADOO—I'm making the rounds of the headquarters, Governor, and I wanted to greet you.

SMITH—Fine. I'm glad you dropped in.

McADOO—It's been a long time since we last met.

SMITH—That's right. I haven't seen you since we met at the Garden in 1924.

McADOO—I guess you're right. We had quite a contest there, didn't we?

SMITH—I'd say we did. We had quite a time of it.

McADOO—Well, that's all over now.

SMITH—It's all over with me.

McADOO—It was eight years ago and a lot has happened since then.

SMITH—No one knows that any better than I do.

McADOO—It's a good thing we have a sense of humor, isn't it?

SMITH—It sure is.

McADOO—Well, I'm glad to have seen you, Governor. Good-day.

SMITH—Good-bye. Call again, any time.

Chicago Police Raid 21 Liquor Resorts

CHICAGO, June 25.—(AP.)—Prohibition agents raided 21 alleged liquor establishments in Chicago late last night. All of the raids, with one exception, were made outside of the Loop. Deputy Prohibition Administrator A. E. Aman said the action of the raiders was to "clean up the small fry." He added that most of the larger liquor houses had been closed by recent raids.

Asked if the raids had any connection with an attempt to "dry up" liquor sources during the Democratic national convention, Aman said that they had not, describing them as "regular routine."

FIGHT ON SMITH MEN IN STATE THREATENS

Contest Over 2 Delegates From Philadelphia Seen As Penna. Group Gathers

By MARK SHIELDS
Political Editor.

CHICAGO, June 25.—Pennsylvania delegates to the Democratic national convention began gathering in Chicago today to the news of a threat of a contest in the Sixth Congressional District, Philadelphia, against two delegates instructed for Alfred E. Smith. Those against whom the contest may be aimed are Thomas A. Logue and James J. Blisard.

The nature of the contest could not be learned, the only information being that their right to sit might be challenged by John O'Donnell, Roosevelt leader in the East.

VICTORY FOR ROOSEVELT

The Roosevelt people won a Pennsylvania contest before a credentials committee last night when Dr. Leo C. Mundy, of Wilkes-Barre, an elected delegate, was challenged by Peter J. McCormick. The committee placed the name of Mundy, a Roosevelt delegate, on the temporary roll. McCormick contended that Mundy had enrolled as a Republican in the primary and thus was not eligible to sit in a Democratic convention.

State Chairman Warren Van Dyke defended Mundy. He asserted the Wilkes-Barre man was a lifelong Democrat and had entered the Republican primary only in order to assist in the election of his brother to county office. Mundy, he said, had just been elected Democratic county chairman.

BENEDUM'S DEMAND

M. L. Benedum, Pittsburgh oil man, appeared before the resolutions committee yesterday in behalf of a plank in the platform giving government protection to all bank deposits. The protection, Benedum declared, would induce people to replace their money in the banks and would help restore confidence.

Pennsylvania Delegates Leave for Chicago

HARRISBURG, June 25.—(INS.)—United only in a demand for repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, the Pennsylvania delegation leaves today for the Democratic national convention at Chicago.

Their support divided between Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt and Alfred E. Smith, the Keystone representatives will arrive in Chicago early tomorrow for their caucus before the convention begins.

The seven-car special train will leave Philadelphia with the Eastern Pennsylvania delegates at 2:03 this afternoon, stopping at Lancaster before arriving in Harrisburg about 4:15. From here the special coaches will proceed to Pittsburgh to pick up delegates for the western section of the state.

While Warren Van Dyke, Pennsylvania state chairman, claimed that Gov. Roosevelt would receive at least 60 of the state's 76 votes, Thomas A. Logue, acknowledged Smith leader in Philadelphia, asserted the "Happy Warrior" will collect 34 votes from Pennsylvania on the first ballot.

What Chief Candidates Are Doing

Associated Press.

FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT

The Governor, reported to be confident of victory, prepared to spend the week-end at Hyde Park home. By telephone and amplifier, he thanked his leaders at Chicago for their efforts.

ALFRED E. SMITH

In the thick of the fray at Chicago, he prepared to take the floor Tuesday to fight Roosevelt forces' attempt to abrogate two-thirds rule. He said:

"I don't think it will be abrogated."

ALBERT C. RITCHIE

The Maryland Governor, after tumultuous reception at Chicago in which he was shorn of a shoe, reiterated stand for repeal and opposed change in two-thirds rule now.

JOHN N. GARNER

As Speaker of the House he remained at Washington, fighting for his unemployment relief plans. He also laid the cornerstone of new $6,600,000 House Office Building.

JAMES A. REED

The former Senator from Missouri, opposing project to abrogate the two-thirds rule, said at Chicago:

"The rule was good enough for Andrew Jackson and it should be good enough for 1932."

WILLIAM H. MURRAY

The Oklahoma Governor, widely known as "Alfalfa Bill," added his voice to the defense of the two-thirds rule. He said:

"Why, we'll destroy our party if we destroy the rule."

GEORGE WHITE

The Governor, Ohio's favorite son, who favors a submission of a repeal amendment, said "Republican indifference" to law enforcement had made federal prohibition incapable of enforcement at present.

GARNER LEADER SEES GAINS

By SEYMOUR BERKSON
Universal Service.

CHICAGO, June 25.—Representative Sam Rayburn, of Texas, general of the forces that will fight to win the Democratic presidential nomination for John N. Garner, today assumed command of the speaker's headquarter's along "presidential row" in the Congress Hotel.

As national campaign manager for the Democratic cohorts booming the Texan as "the logical compromise" man for the nomination, Rayburn declared there is nationwide sentiment in behalf of Garner. He said:

"I believe the people of the United States have come to realize that what we need most in a president at this time is experience in national affairs.

"None of the candidates in the field has had Garner's experience in national affairs. As a member of Congress for 30 years and more recently as Speaker of the House during a critical period, he has proven his ability.

"One of President Hoover's principle defects as Chief Executive of the United States has been his inability to handle problems of statesmanship and national politics. Speaker Garner's long training has made him preeminently capable of handling those very problems."

Church to Attend Democrat Convention

President and Mrs. Samuel Harden Church, of Carnegie Institute, plan to leave Pittsburgh tomorrow evening for Chicago to confer with Democratic leaders concerning an out-and-out prohibition repeal plank and other principles advocated by the Liberal party. President Church, a lifelong Republican and a leader of the Liberal party, has been invited to attend the Democratic convention by party leaders.

SENATE SCORED FOR ECONOMY BILL SNAG

Congress Pay Cut Provision Held Reason for Attacks On U. S. Savings Program

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—Growing more unpopular at every turn of its march and counter-march through Congress, the omnibus economy bill was back today in conference committee.

Senate sponsors of the bill, fearing its final defeat, moved to recommit it for a generous overhauling.

Senator Jones (Rep.), of Washington, chairman of the Senate conferees, was hopeful at least part of the $150,000,000 estimated savings for the next fiscal year would be finally enacted. Representative McDuffie (Dem.), of Alabama, chairman of the House conferees, said:

"It looks like the Senate wants to destroy any economy at this session. The House conferees are not going to yield. If the Senate wants to take the responsibility of preventing economy at this session, let it do so."

No action in conference was expected until McDuffie and others return next week from the Democratic National Convention in Chicago.

Senate foes of the bill centered their fire upon the provision which the House inserted and the conferees approved, providing that where a married couple are in federal employ the husband or the wife shall be discharged in any reduction of personnel.

The House provision for compulsory retirement of federal workers on reaching the age limit was hotly assailed.

One of the main reasons for the bill's unpopularity, according to several senators, is the 10 per cent pay cut for members of Congress. This provision has scarcely been mentioned in the debate.

The conferees now will have to reopen the question of a flat pay cut for federal employes, during the next fiscal year, or the furlough plan embodied in the conference report which the Senate rejected.

Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, predicted a "protracted contest" was in prospect.

The Senate resumed consideration of the independent offices appropriation bill today, in the hope of approving this billion dollar grant during the afternoon.

HOOVER RENEWS RELIEF ATTACK

visions for loans of $300,000.00 to states and loans by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

Mr. Hoover's statement said:

"I intensely regret that these major provisions for relief of unemployment in both the Garner and the Wagner bills should have been made the vehicle for committing the federal Treasury to the expenditure of from $500,000,000 to $1,200,000,000 for non-productive public works, as these provisions have the triple vice of being a charge on the taxpayer, of unbalancing the budget and of providing only a small amount of employment—and that to a large extent in localities where it is not needed.

PORK BARREL CHARGE

"Any study of many of these public works provisions will indicate plainly their pork-barrel characteristics. A large part of the expenditures proposed are wasteful in the present times.

"They impose tremendous future costs on the people for maintenance; they are not economically needed. Much of it represents a squandering of public money."

The whole relief question was taken up today by Senate and House conferees on the Wagner-Garner bill, with efforts being made to harmonize the two measures and bring them to final passage next week.

Senator Wagner (Dem.), of New York, stung by the unexpected severity of Mr. Hoover's denunciation, planned to take the Senate floor with an answer. Democratic leaders of the Senate and Speaker Garner, of the House, were plainly angered by the White House statement.

Speaker Garner was determined to force action on a bill which, in his opinion, would meet both calls of distress and provide jobs.

German Railroader Goes to Convention

David A. Lochte, president of the Mainz division of the German railways, who spent yesterday in Pittsburgh as guest of Pennsylvania Railroad officials, left last night for Chicago. He expects to attend the opening of the Democratic convention next week.

To rail officials here he declared condition of German railroads is much worse than those of the United States.

Husband Entertained Woman, Wife Says

George L. Farrell, Elizabeth Township gasoline station owner, was entertaining another woman in his home when his wife, Mary R. Farrell, of Large, returned from a visit, she testified before Judge S. J. Snee in Common Pleas Court. Farrell beat her and chased her from the house in her night clothes, she said.

NURSE SUING AIMEE'S MATE TELLS OF GIN PARTY IN HOME

ADMITS HAVING SUITORS OTHER THAN HUTTON

Had to Throw Guests Out, She Relates, but Denies Drinking; Seeks $200,000

LOS ANGELES, June 25.—(AP.)—Admissions of "other men" in the life of Myrtle St. Pierre were forced from her yesterday by defense lawyers in the trial of her "heart balm" suit against the baritone of Angelus Temple, David Hutton, husband of the pastor, the Rev. Aimee Semple McPherson Hutton.

The brunette nurse told of a gin cocktail party at her home in the fall of 1930, at which she finally "had to throw out" her guests, and admitted going many places with men other than Hutton. She denied she drank at the gin party.

In tears and sobs at the thrusts of the defense lawyer, Mark Jones, she told of her last meetings with Hutton, whom she is suing for $200,000 for breaking her heart and health by forsaking her and marrying the evangelist.

DENIES CARESSES

Hutton, it seemed, passed out of her life along with "The Strange Death of President Harding." The Angelus Temple chorister had lent her the book. The last time she saw him as single man was when he visited her to recover the volume, she testified.

Jones asked:

"Didn't he kiss or hug you?

"No, no, no!"

"Never even called you dear—or anything like that?"

"No-o-o-o-o-o!"

Miss St. Pierre collapsed and a recess had to be called.

Questioned about treatments she claimed she gave Hutton in her health salon in Pasadena, she told of giving him alcohol rubs.

ATTENDED PARTIES

Diverting the examination to her alleged illness over Hutton's waning love, Jones asked:

"Did you attend any parties at your sister's home during that time?"

"Yes, I attended parties at Mrs. Cassel's, my sister. I took Mr. Lloyd Curry there once."

"Did you go horseback riding with Mr. Curry?"

"Yes, in a riding party."

"You were with Curry very much during June, weren't you?"

"Yes, at parties."

"And you were with a Mr. Addington and Mr. Eben, weren't you?"

"I refuse to answer that. We have discussed that before."

She had testified previously that she once had a romance with Edgar Eben, theater organist.

Court recessed over Saturday. Miss St. Pierre is to return to the stand Monday.

YOUTH DROWNS IN LOCK RAPIDS

Joseph Haller

Joseph Haller, 16, of 803 Carpenter way, North Side, was drowned, another boy was rescued and a third swam to safety when their home made boat capsized in swirling waters of the Allegheny River at Lock No. 1 late yesterday.

Haller and James Boyd, 11, of 864 Sawmill way, and Stanley Cardell, 15, of 898 Sawmill way, fell into the whirlpool when the boat sank. Boyd grabbed a wicket and held fast until Lafayette Wills, the lockmaster, and Elmer Wilson, also a lock employe, rescued him. Cardell swam to shore.

Haller's body was recovered by River Patrolman Charles Snyder a short time later. Efforts at resuscitation proved futile.

FLYING TO LEAD WOMEN'S B. E. F.

MRS. GEORGE HUEY GEORGE HUEY, JR. CYRUS A. DAVIS

Mrs. Huey, 5445 Penn avenue, and her 7-year-old son inspecting the plane in which they were to take off today to fly to Washington, D. C., to head the women's division of the B. E. F. Mrs. Huey's husband has been in the bonus camp for the past two weeks. Mr. Davis, attorney and pilot, will fly the ship. This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

VET OUTBREAK SCARE FALSE

WASHINGTON, June 25.—(AP.)—All policemen in Washington were ordered last night by Pelham D. Glassford, superintendent of police, to hold themselves in readiness for duty in case of disturbances among the bonus army, but the instructions later were cancelled.

Early in the evening men off duty were required to contact their precincts each half hour in case of need. As no signs of trouble developed, the close watch of police was relaxed.

Officials said dissatisfaction among certain groups with the leadership of the army of approximately 20,000 seeking payment of the soldiers' bonus had brought growing discord in the last few days. Minority groups have talked of forcibly overthrowing the dominance of W. W. Waters, of Portland, Oregon, commander-in-chief of the veterans.

Disabled Vets Elect, Push Bonus Demand

SAN DIEGO, Cal., June 25.—(AP.)—William E. Conley, of Los Angeles, was elected national commander, to succeed E. Claude Babcock, of Washington, at the convention of the Disabled Veterans of the World War yesterday.

Shortly before the election began, the convention reiterated its demand upon Congress for immediate and full cash payment of the bonus.

Fall on Steps Kills North Side Woman

Mrs. Anna Balla, 33, of 96 Lecky way, North Side, mother of five children, was killed when she fell down the cellar steps of her home last night. The body was found by her daughter, Rose, 14. Mrs. Balla suffered a fractured skull.

FALL KILLS KIN OF ENVOY

BRUSSELS, June 25.—(INS.)—Maj. Guy Reyntiens, brother-in-law of Hugh S. Gibson, American ambassador to Belgium, was accidentally killed today when he fell from a second-story window of the bedroom of his home near the embassy here.

The fall was believed due to a dizzy spell. Maj. Reyntiens, who was 55, was a cavalryman in the World War, in which he was seriously wounded. A popular member of Brussels society, he leaves his wife and two children.

Ambassador Gibson now is heading the American disarmament delegation at Geneva.

STREET BROADCASTING

BROADCASTING TODAY FOR PASSING CROWDS ON FIFTH AVE.

TROLLEY PASS ENDS SUNDAY

The weekly street car pass in the first fare zone of the Pittsburgh Railways Company will go out of effect at 5 a. m. tomorrow.

Ordinarily the pass, which cost $1.50 and provided unlimited transportation with the first zone, would be offered today for the next week.

A weekly pass still remains in effect in the McKeesport district and at Washington, Pa. The Sunday pass has not been changed.

There will be no other fare changes for the present aside from the elimination of the weekly pass, according to Thomas Fitzgerald, vice president of the railways company. The Traction Conference Board has allowed the removal of the pass for a trial period to determine effect on revenues.

Ousted Caddymaster Accuses Applicant

Louis Cerar, Broughton, one of the applicants for the vacant post of South Park caddymaster, will be given a hearing Monday night before Justice of the Peace J. M. O'Rourke, of Broughton, on a charge of disorderly conduct.

Information was made by "Midget Mike" Moran, former bantamweight boxer, recently removed by the County Commissioners as caddymaster on the petition of a number of caddies. Moran charged Cerar took from William Nestor a petition bearing more than 100 names, urging Moran's reappointment. South Park police said Cerar admitted burning the paper.

Washington Fetes Banned for Economy

Deeming it improper to spend money for celebrations during the business depression, the Allegheny County Washington Bicentennial Committee yesterday declared it would sponsor no more observances involving expense. The action was taken at a meeting of the executive board of the bicentennial committee in the Chamber of Commerece.

The committee called upon civic, patriotic and fraternal organizations represented in the general bicentennial committee, to send delegations to dedicatory ceremonies at the reconstructed Fort Necessity, near Uniontown, July 3 and 4.

Pope Hears Dublin Services on Radio

VATICAN CITY, June 25.—(AP.)—Pope Pius listened on the radio last night to a broadcast of the Eucharistic Congress ceremonies in Dublin. The broadcast was received in the Pope's private library, with Father Gianfranceschi, director of the Vatican radio station, presiding over the dials.

Reception from Dublin was excellent, but there was some difficulty when an experiment was made in transmitting to the Irish capital. Another test was planned today to determine whether it will be possible for the Pope to broadcast a message to the congress Sunday.

North Side Woman Arrested in Theft

Charged with the theft of $220 and a parrot from the home of Charles Herbst, of Rostcock street, while she was being entertained there, Mary Langsky, alias Agnes Garret, 27, of West Stockton avenue, was arrested early today by North Side police. Herbst recognized the woman when he saw her at West Stockton avenue and Federal street last night. Ben Miller, 22, of 1439 Adams street, a companion of the woman, also was taken into custody. Police said Miller told them the woman had sold a parrot.

ARMY LEADERS IN CONTROL OF SIAM

King, Queen Held Prisoners While Officers Oust Royal Cabinet After Revolution

International News Service.

BANGKOK, Siam, June 25.—Army and Navy leaders today were in complete control of the Siamese government, following a virtually bloodless one-day revolution, which ended one of the last two important absolute monarchies on earth.

King Prajadhipok, who regarded his people as his children and who had planned to give them a voice in the government "when they were ready," was forced to agree to a constitutional monarchy with himself as its head.

His former cabinet of princes and members of the royal house was forced to resign, and the ministerial posts were seized by the army and navy officers.

Thus the man who, with Haile Selassie, emperor of Ethiopia, was one of the only two absolute monarchs of important countries left in the world, became relegated to the obscure position of the present-day king.

The King and Queen Rambai Barnai, who were vacationing at Huahin when the revolt broke out, were seized and brought back to the capital aboard a warship. They were believed to be held prisoners in the palace today.

Lieut. Gen. Phyra Siharaj Dejojai, chief of the general staff, was shot to death when he resisted the subversive movement. This was the only casualty.

Prince Paribatra, the king's brother and heir to the throne, and Prince Purachatra, minister of communications, were taken as hostages as the rebels seized the royal palace.

The revolt was carried out without participation by the public, which remained quiet throughout.

King Prajadhipok, who with his queen and a large retinue visited the United States last year for an operation upon his eye, was educated in England, and had given his people many of the benefits of western civilization. Although his power was absolute, it was benevolent and paternal.

Aimee Sued, Court May Go to Bedside

LOS ANGELES, June 25.—(AP.)—A $10,000 damage action brought against Aimee Semple McPherson Hutton, evangelist, and J. Roy Stewart, film director, by John R. Gates, scenario writer, has been ordered to trial.

A motion by Mrs. Hutton's attorney to postpone the trial because of her illness was denied by Superior Judge Arthur Crum. He said court may be held at the bedside of the evangelist in a Bay district sanitarium. Gates charged he wrote a scenario which was to have been produced by Mrs. Hutton and Stewart and that they failed to pay him.

Shamokin Man Heads Spanish War Vets

BRADFORD, Pa., June 25.—(AP.)—Joseph V. Maus, of Shamokin, was elected state commander of the United Spanish War Veterans at the closing session of the annual Pennsylvania encampment yesterday. Mrs. Mary V. McKinley, of Philadelphia, was named president of the state auxiliary.

Other officers elected by the veterans include R. P. O'Connor, Greenville, senior vice department commander; Joseph Gray, Barnesboro, junior vice department commander; Martin Kmuth, Scranton, chaplain; Charles F. Armstrong, Pittsburgh, department inspector.

TAPE GREETING FOR PHILANTHROPIST

Unique Tribute Will Honor Birthday of Henry Kaufmann

"Uncle" Henry Kaufmann, Pittsburgh's philanthropist, now sojourning in Europe, will receive something unique for his 72d birthday, which he will celebrate in Paris.

A token, in the form of a ticker tape, already 500 feet long, will be the gift from members of the Irene Kaufmann Settlement.

Explaining the ticker tape, Max Rothschild, member of the board of trustees of the settlement, said that it is in "appreciation of the services and value of Uncle Henry Kaufmann, which are inseparably linked to the welfare of Pittssburgh."

Two Men Get Terms For B.-L. Looting

Prison terms late yesterday were imposed on Howard E. Wandless, 45, of Avalon, and Charles Donkin, 60, of New York, who entered guilty pleas to charges involving embezzlement of $96,000 of the funds of the Modern Building and Loan Association. Judge Elder W Marshall sentenced Wandless six to 12 years in jail, and Donkin, 15 to 30 years in the penitentiary.

Wandless, who two weeks ago, entered a plea of guilty, turned state's evidence against Donkin. The latter went on trial last Monday and later changed his plea to guilty.

CRASH IN RACE KILLS FLIER

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., June 25.—(INS.)—A last-minute change in his plans today had brought death to Richard Bennett, 38, Binghampton aviator.

After withdrawing from the contest to return home, Bennett, manager of the Binghampton airport, changed his mind and flew in the free-for-all race at the intenational air meet here yesterday. He lost his flying speed as he turned a pylon, crashed from an altitude of 200 feet and was killed.

Race officials said explosion of his motor caused Bennett's crash.

Harold Newton, Moline, Ill., won the event at a distance of 20 miles. His time was 9 minutes and 14 seconds. Arthur Chester, Joliet, Ill., was second, Lee Chase, Buffalo, was third and R. Hoffman, Rochester, fourth.

The meet, sanctioned by the National Aeronautic Association, will continue today and tomorrow.

Five Hurt as Bus Sideswipes Trolley

Five persons were injured slightly when they were showered by flying glass after the driver of a Harmony-New Castle bus sideswiped an Etna street car in attempting to pass it in East Ohio street, near Millvale, shortly before last midnight, according to police.

Mrs. M. Freund, of 42 Vilsack street; J. E. Shaffer, of Greenville road; J. Heiter and his wife, of Freeport road, all of Millvale, were treated by physicians for cuts about the head. All were passengers on the street car. I. Gerlach, of New Castle, driver of the bus, also suffered cuts.

CATHOLIC MEET DRAWS 100,000 CHILDREN

White-Clad Throng Crowds Dublin Park; Eucharistic Congress Ends Tomorrow

DUBLIN, June 25.—(AP.)—A shrill cascade of starch and bright eyes—white dresses and white ribbons and white sashes—spilled into the majestic, colorful pageant of the Eucharistic Congress today.

It was the children's day.

From all over Ireland, and some from far lands away, they came, a stream of childish treble until 100,000 stood in orderly groups before the white high altar in Phoenix Park.

By 10 a. m.—an hour before the solemn pontifical high mass began—Dublin seemed a city of children and the avenue leading to the park was almost a solid stream of bobbing heads of motor cars filled with them.

In the park, Cardinal Lauri, the Pope's representative at the congress, celebrated the mass. Before that the children sang in Gaelic the hymn, "Soul of my Saviour," led by a choir of 500 children.

After the mass the cardinal moved among the miniature battalions which stood stiffly in their places until he returned to the altar. Then a blast of trumpets dismissed them.

Tomorrow the congress will end with a pontifical high mass which 1,000,000 persons are expected to attend. After the mass the congregation will march in procession and a blessing will be given on O'Connell Bridge in the heart of Dublin.

The Americans here for the congress attended a pontifical high mass in the Church of St. Andrew this morning, celebrated by Bishop Joseph Schrembs, Cleveland.

5 HELD IN AUTO THEFT ATTEMPT

Five youths, three of them said by police to have recently been paroled from Allegheny and Washington county workhouses, waived hearing for court this morning before Justice of the Peace E. B. Bishop after it was charged they attempted to steal an automobile in Atlanta and Maybrick avenues.

Police said three of the youths were arrested by Motorcycle Officer Scott Hamilton as they were attempting to drive away in the machine of L. G. Galliker, of 410 Meadowcroft avenue, Mt. Lebanon. They were Paul Colledge, 21, of Logan road, Library, paroled, police said, from the Allegheny County Workhouse June 14, after serving one and a half years of a three-year sentence for an automobile theft; William Smith, 18, of Library, on parole from Washington County for a similar theft, and Fred Hubert, 18, of Bridgeville, also on parole.

William Hoover, 21, of Venetia, and Robert Smith, brother of William, said to have accompanied the three to Mt. Lebanon, fled at the approach of Hamilton and were arrested in Library a short time later. Police said a five-gallon gasoline can and a hose, believed used to siphon gasoline from parked machines, and a set of automobile keys were found in possession of the youths.

Synod Meets in '33 At Beaver College

GROVE CITY, Pa., June 25.—(AP.)—The Pennsylvania Synod of the Presbyterian Church decided to hold the 1933 meeting at Beaver College, Jenkinstown, Pa.

Dr. Charles W. Kerr, moderator of the general assembly admonished ministers and laymen alike today to "be encouragers—there are plenty of pessimists now."

In chronological order, Dr. Kerr reviewed the depressions of the past, and said the threatened destruction never came.

'Christian Science' To Be Sermon Topic

"Christian Science" will be the subject of the lesson-sermon to be read tomorrow in all Christian Science Churches. The golden text will be, "When ye received the word of God, which ye heard from us, ye received it not as the word of men, but as it is in truth, the word of God, which effectually worketh also in you that believe."

WAR VETERAN WILL SAY HIS FIRST MASS

Former Buddies to Honor The Rev. F. L. Martin in Castle Shannon Church

Former buddies of the Rev. Frank L. Martin will be present when he celebrates his first mass at 10:30 a. m. tomorrow in St. Ann's Church, Castle Shannon.

Father Martin, who was ordained to the priesthood at St. Vincent's College, Latrobe, Pa., last Sunday, fought in the World War as a member of Battery B, 110th Field Artillery, 29th Division, being one of the few veterans who took up ecclesiastical studies at the conclusion of the war. He will achieve a life-long ambition when he says mass in his neighborhood parish.

TO MARCH TO CHURCH

Col. James L. Costella will be grand marshal of a military parade which will precede the church service, the procession starting from the municipal building.

Death robbed his parents of their oft-expressed wish to witness the event but three brothers and two sisters of Father Martin will be present, one of them, Miss Margaret Martin, organist of St. Anne's.

The Rev. Father A. C. Angel, pastor of St. Anne's, will officiate as arch priest; the Rev. Steven N. Schneider, of St. Martin's, West End, will act as deacon; Father Austin, O. M. Cap., sub-deacon, and the Rev. Louis Meinwiser, of the Bronx, N. Y., will be master of ceremonies. The Rev. D. E. Fitzpatrick will preach the sermon. Three Duquesne University students will take part in the ceremonies, and a Girard, Pa., student will be cross bearer.

FIRST MASSES

Patricia Pitt's Comment on Society Events

LUDWICK WEDDING TODAY

In Mayfair
—With—
Patricia Pitt

Before an altar of ferns and foliage and summer garden flowers, arranged on the tree-shaded spacious lawns of the Ludwick home, Louise Ludwick, pretty daughter of the Frank L. Ludwicks, of East Brady, Pa., will become the bride of Richard Ely, only son of Gov. and Mrs. Joseph B. Ely, of Massachusetts, at 5 o'clock, eastern standard time.

The Rev. H. T. Chisholm, pastor of the East Brady Presbyterian Church, will officiate the the ceremony, to be attended only by members of the two families and close friends.

A period gown of antique satin trimmed in Alencon lace and a veil of tulle cascading from a cap of the lace and orange blossoms, will be worn by the bride, to be given in marriage by her father. She will carry gardenias and white orchids, showered with lillies of the valley.

Sister's Attendant

Her only attendant will be her sister, Marion Ludwick, as maid of honor, who will wear a flax blue satin gown having a brief cape of the satin fastened high in front and a Juliet turban of flax blue tulle. She will carry a sheaf of deep blue larkspur and talisman roses.

The bride's mother will wear aquamarine blue crepe, trimmed in lace, a hat to match, and the bridegroom's mother, ashes of roses crepe with a hat to match, and both will have corsages of roses.

Serving as best man will be William Parks, of Norton, Mass.

After a small reception, the bride and bridegroom left for the East, and will sail Tuesday for Bermuda. After September 1, they will be at home in Cambridge, Mass.

In Golf Tourney

The seventh invitation golf tournament for women at the Allegheny Country Club yesterday brought all of Pittsburgh and Sewickley's smart set out, either as spectators or players.

Golf clothes this year are smarter, more elaborate than ever, in a galaxy of new cotton materials.

Mrs. T. J. Hilliard, looked particularly smart in a cotton crepe frock in narrow red and white candy stripes, with a red, wide-waled cotton jacket, and red cotton hat. And she had her monogram embroidered in blue on a pocket.

In White Pique

Mrs. Dudley Livingston chose white pique with a meshknit yoke, and Mrs. Harvey Childs III, who played, wore a cotton crepe in brown and white stripes. Catherine Suydam was among the spectators sitting about on the clubhouse lawn. She wore red boucle with a matching turban, and I saw Mrs. George H. Love in white silk jersey and Mrs. Stuart Brown, Jr., in yellow.

Representing the younger set in both the tournament and the driving contest later, were Laura Childs, in pink boucle, and Althea Robinson in shell pink crepe, with a row of blue buttons matching her blue hat.

Georgianna Collin wore white with a paddy green jacket, and Margaret Holdship, chose white and Mrs. F. C. Irish, who was in the tournament, wore white crepe, with a scarlet scarf and white hat.

Wears Green

I saw Mrs. J. Henry O'Neill, in a green boucle skirt with a yellow brushed wool sweater, and Katherine Collin playing tennis, in a white crepe frock with a sun-tan back, and green sweater. Mrs. John H. Ricketson, III, wearing white boucle with a white hat was chatting with Mrs. James O. Flower and Mrs William H. Trimble. Mrs. Flower was in blue pique with a white hat, and Mrs. Trimble had chosen a white frock with a red wool jacket, and Genevieve Bell was in white.

Mrs. Gordon Fisher, Jr., wearing a white skirt and sweater with a white turban, was playing with Mrs. Harold Miller, who wore a skirt of green and white zig-zag stripes and a white sweater.

Watching Players

Virginia Willock was among the players too, wearing a blue skirt with a white sweater, and blue turban, and with her was Rosamound Fitch, in a blue cotton frock.

Mrs. J. M. Schoonmaker chose white crepe, and Mrs. Raymond Ford Moreland, a tanbark and white printed cotton. Mrs. George L. Craig, Jr., who also was playing, wore a white skirt with a brown brushed wool sweater. I saw Mrs. Lewis A. Park in a blue pique frock with a shell pink sweater, and Anjeannette Hunter, who played in both golf events, in yellow sleeveless pique frock. Mrs. J. Bernd Rose wore a white cotton frock with a brown straw hat, and Mrs. Charles A. Duff wore white. Ruth Willock chose a yellow boucle frock with a blue turban. With her was Mary Elizabeth Floyd in white.

Engaged To Marry

Another of Pittsburgh's best looking and most popular bachelors is going to be married. And that will mean another vacancy on the Pittsburgh cotillion committee.

Mrs. Henry Curtis Selden, of Minneapolis, Minn., is announcing the engagement of her daughter, Mary Ellen Selden, to James Verner Scaife, Jr. By the way, Mr. Scaife's mother and his fiancee's mother went to boarding school together.

Married In Home

The marriage of Miss Laura Horner Moye, daughter of Mrs. E. A. Moye, of Zara street, to Stanley Sheffer Manifold, son of the Rev. and Mrs. J. H. C. Manifold, was solemnized Wednesday evening in the Moye home by the bridegroom's father.

The bride, given in marriage by her uncle, Charles J. Moye, wore white satin and carried white roses and lilies of the valley. Miss Louise Moye was her cousin's maid of honor, and Hubert Manifold was his brother's best man. Mrs. H. W. Taudte, an aunt of the bride, played the wedding music.

After an eastern trip, Mr. and Mrs. Manifold will be at home in Jeannette.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Punsky, of Warren, Pa., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Anna Punsky, to Dr. George Schugar, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Schugar, of Murray avenue. Dr. Schugar is a graduate of the dental school of the University of Pittsburgh.

Carnegie Woman's Club Observes Its 30th Anniversary With Luncheon and Program

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

Thirty milestones along the highway of club history have passed by the Carnegie Woman's Club and, to celebrate, the members met yesterday for luncheon in the United Presbyterian Church. It was one of the prettiest and most original celebrations this club chronicler has ever seen. One that involved an immense amount of work, too, for the church room had been transformed into a garden.

Over high white lattices—against walls, pillars and archways—were trained hundreds of roses. The "stage" was bordered solidly with every variety of garden flower and in tall vases at the side stood great lengths of delphinium—all from the gardens of the members. On the table little pots of ivy—the place favors—trailed their lengths around vases of other blossoms.

Musical Program

Into this garden, to music by Miss Ruth Fulton, came all the past presidents, or their representatives, each one repeating the verse that had been written for her by the versatile Mrs. C. C. Fulton. Then there was a musical program by Lino Bartoli, violin, with Mrs. Hazel Drake Paar at the piano.

Incidentally, the Carnegie Woman's Club is one of the few clubs that knows how to listen to music, for, oddly enough, too many of them seem to regard the musical portion of their programs as mere background for their own conversation.

To complete the afternoon's entertainment the Girls' Glee Club from the high school presented "The Nifty Shop," an operetta, under the supervision of George Bryan, director of music in the public schools and with Helen Braswell at the piano. The important roles were taken, and very acceptably, by Ruth Fulton, Virginia Wilson, Eve Ludy, Mary Provost, Winona Holmes, Eugenia Paulino and Betty Jean Heathcote, daughter of the hostess club's new president, Mrs. Fred L. Heathcote, who presided yesterday.

Books Issued

The newly issued year books of the McKeesport Woman's Club are among the most compact that have found their way to the club editor's desk this season. It's a fine year the committee has arranged for 1932-33, beginning with president's day and an address on Gothic cathedrals by Howard C. McElroy, October 7. Under "Economic Life" and "Building a Better Economic Life" have been assigned such topics as "Economic Behaviors," "Colonial Economic Background," "Modern Machine Age," "Trends in Legislation," "New Social Responsibilities" and "Workers' Education."

This brings the meetings up to the Thanksgiving session, the program for which has been arranged in the form of a menu. The Christmas meeting and a birthday party are December events.

House Warming

A guest day, with the Rev. Frank E. Smith as speaker, and an afternoon devoted to "New Education" are slated for January, "Some of America's Greatest Women" will furnish material for one February program and "Mexico" for the other. Also, the Rev. J. F. C. Green is to speak on Mexico at a March meeting, the month being divided between this and four papers on "Gold and Precious Gems," which topic carries over into April.

A guest day pageant is the second spring event. A review of the year, the annual meeting and the June outing are the concluding activities.

Mrs. W. H. Coleman is the new president of the organization; Mrs. J. A. Caughey and Mrs. V. W. Cowan are vice presidents; Mrs. H. C. Cope, recording, and Mrs. E. Y. Ord, corresponding secretaries, and Mrs. J. L. Hammitt is treasurer.

Miss Mewhinney

Miss M. Alice Mewhinney, of Central Branch Young Women's Christian Association's health educational staff, is attending the American Red Cross Institute at Chautauque.

* * *

Next Saturday afternoon the Beechview Women's Civic Club will have a curb, bake sale at 1552 Beechview avenue with Mrs. Frank Astornio in charge.

* * *

Mrs. Rollins A. Haddock, Jr., will return from her summer home at the Chautauqua Assembly Grounds to attend the Hurlbut Memorial benefit garden party which Lincoln Park C. L. S. C. will have on Monday at Mrs. A. E. Bergquist's home, Brown's place, Squirrel Hill. Entertainment will include a talk on contract bridge by Mrs. I. W. England, contralto solos by Mrs. Vida McCullough McClure and readings by Mrs. Frank Corby and the Bergquist twins, Wilma and Erna.

* * *

College Club News

With one benefit scarcely more than crossed off the calendar, the College Club is already planning another. And it's to be an entirely different one. On July 13 the members and their guests and families will go to "Overlook Farm," the W. W. Martin place near Bakerstown, for an all-day picnic. Swimming will be an attraction for the younger guests. Of course there will be bridge and luncheon will be buffet.

* * *

Proceeds from the concert to be given Monday night at the home of Mrs. Edgar M. Hicks, Brookside Farms, will go to the welfare department of the Brookside Woman's Clubs. The concert will be presented by the Lyons' Club Quartet.

* * *

The annual Zionist reunion and picnic is to be held tomorrow in Turner's Grove, Perrysville road. The proceeds will be contributed to the Jewish national fund, the land purchasing agency of the Zionist organization.

* * *

The class of 1926 of the West Penn Hospital Nurses Training School will hold its first reunion tonight at a dinner in the Garden tea room.

ON THE AIR

Radio Programs; News of Studios

Floyd Gibbons And Shouse On WCAE

Two outstanding pre-Democratic convention talks are scheduled on WCAE tonight.

Mr. Shouse

Jouett Shouse, chairman of the executive committee of the national committee, discusses "Prospective Policies of the Democratic Party" and outlines planks which probably will be incorporated into the party platform, when he speaks over a coast-to-coast NBC network, including WCAE, tonight at 7:15. The broadcast originates in Chicago.

On the same station at 11:15 tonight, Floyd Gibbons, ace news reporter and "headline hunter" of radio, whose stories on proceedings and developments of the Democratic national convention will be a feature of the Sun-Telegraph, is heard from Chicago.

A male chorus of 2,000 voices, a 60-piece symphony orchestra and Paul Althouse, tenor soloist, are heard over a nation-wide NBC network, including KDKA, tonight at 10:30, during a broadcast of the Northwest Saengerfest. The program, originating in the St. Paul Auditorium, St. Paul, Minn., also is heard by European listeners via short-wave.

Tunes to delight the dancers are scheduled on late programs on WCAE tonight. Beginning at 10, George Olsen and his orchestra are heard during the cigaret dance hour, featuring Bert Lahr, the hilarious Broadway comedian. Music by Russ Columbo and his orchestra, playing from the Woodmansten Inn, is scheduled at 11, with Paul Whiteman's Orchestra taking the air waves from 11:30 to midnight.

* * *

Program Pointers

Elmina Mantor, author of "Free Gold," presents the work in dramatized form during a broadcast from WWSW tonight at 9. It is based on Miss Mantor's own experiences in the far north during her travels into the Arctic Circle and the frozen spaces of Alaska . . . An all-Scotch program, especially arranged at the request of friends of Aneurin Bodycombe, KDKA pianist, who are residing in Scotland, is presented by the Homey and Old Fashioned Quartet at 10. The shortwave facilities of KDKA carry the program overseas.

Miss Mantor

Pittsburgh juveniles are featured in two programs from KQV today. The Magidson Twins go on the air at 5:30, followed by Rita Claire Layton, Pittsburgh's "Little Sophie Tucker," at 5:45.

Ruth Etting includes on her program tonight "By the Fireside" and "Auf Wiedersehen," in addition to a revival of one of her old favorites, with Nat Shilkret's orchestra over WJAS at 10.

"Incognito," a sparking college comedy starring June Meredith, Don Ameche and Clifford Soubier, is the First Nighter presentation on KDKA at 9:30.

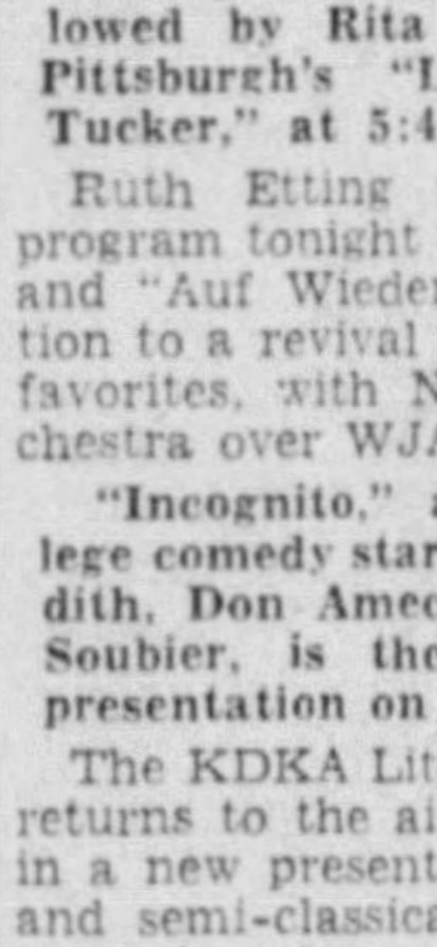
The KDKA Little German Band returns to the air tonight at 6:30 in a new presentation of German and semi-classical selections. The band has been augmented by a group of string instruments and a comedy team composed of Gus Schmalz, the leader, and Heinie.

"The Spy School," another authentic story of secret service operations during the World War, is told by "K-7" over WCAE tonight at 8:30.

* * *

Fan Fare

Isobel Carothers, who is "Lu" of "Clara, Lu 'n' Em," is famed among her friends for her delicious fudge cookies . . . Ben Grauer, the announcer appeared in the movies at the age of 8 . . . Frank Munn, the singer, used to be a machinist . . . Chandler Goldwaite, organist heard during the "Our Daily Food" programs, is known as the "flying organist" . . . He usually travels by plane for concert engagements in different cities, and is a pioneer air pilot, having flown the Canadian Fire Patrol.



Miss Carothers

Harry Horlick, director of the Gypsies orchestra, closes his eyes and turns his face toward the ceiling when he leads the music . . . Hugo Mariani directs from a high stool . . . Rudy Vallee holds a saxophone . . . Buddy Rogers caresses a trumpet . . . William Merrigan Daly leads with his arms and fingers . . . so does Louis Katzman, director of the McCravy brothers' orchestra.

Before he became an entertainer, Al Cameron, of Al and Pete, was a railroad clerk in Indiana . . . His partner, Pete Bontsema, was a bank teller.

Marathon Dancers Point for Record

Passing the mark of 400 hours, the dancers in the marathon and endurance test in progress at Motor Square Garden were looking forward to creating a new Pittsburgh record, that of 533 hours. Fourteen couples and three girl soloists are still in the contest. The three soloists, Marie Mahoney, Lucy Denicola and Florence Franchina, have given no indication of leaving the contest. Miss Mahoney, who has been dancing alone for eight days, has selected "All Alone" as her favorite dance selection.

BALANCE SHEET SHOWS TRADE UPTURN NEAR

Statistician Asserts Four Preludes to Recovery Have Been Accomplished

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, June 25.—After drawing up a balance sheet for American business, Ray Vance, economic statistician, concludes:

"This period of depression is drawing to a close from natural causes and will probably show improvement before the end of the year without any legislative aids."

Mr. Rukeyser

The time to impose effective control, Mr. Vance says, is before the damage resulting from an unbridled boom has been done. The late Paul M. Warburg expressed the same idea in saying that the way to cure a depression is to sit on the bulge.

BROKER LOANS CUT

Mr. Vance, in the Nation, asserts that four preludes to recovery have already been accomplished, namely:

"1. A liquidation of speculative positions in securities. With brokers' loans below $400,000,000 (a decrease of more than 95 per cent from the peak) we need worry no more about this factor.

"2. Current debts have been sharply decreased. Total bank loans were off over 75 per cent by the end of 1931 and reporting member banks indicate a further decline to 33 per cent by May 1, 1932. Debts on open book accounts and installment purchases are reduced even more sharply.

"3. The supply of goods available for consumption has been sharply reduced.

"4. Wage rates and the general overhead of business concerns have been curtailed to a point where profits could be made on relatively small volume of business."

PROFIT POSSIBLE

Mr. Vance points out, however, that three important things have not yet been accomplished, namely:

"1. An adjustment between long-term, or 'capital,' debts and general price levels. In the rush to do this with intergovernmental debts, we overlook its impossibility for privately owned bonds and mortgages without wholesale bankruptcies. This will be an overhanging cloud until some inflation, or 'reflation,' has intervened.

"2. With the exception of Great Britain no large nation has readjusted its budget to current conditions.

"3. Owners of hoarded capital must be convinced that they face an opportunity for profit in its use."

SEES BETTER OUTLOOK

I met Julius Barnes, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, and he expressed the view that the outlook seemed somewhat better. He thought that President Hoover's arms reduction proposal might create a better background for realistically reconsidering the problem of inter-allied debts and reparations.

In connection with the investment of American capital in projects in foreign countries, there has naturally been some native resentment against so-called foreign imperialism. If aliens desire they can at prevailing prices purchase shares in such enterprises as American and Foreign Power and International Telephone and Telegraph on a vastly more favorable basis than the American owners did. Incidentally, these vast holding companies normally seek to assuage local pride by setting up subsidiary operating companies manned primarily by natives.

Incidentally, in spite of prevailing travail, James S. Carson, vice president, American and Foreign Power, thinks that the chief field of investment for American capital in the next two decades will be Latin America. His own company's chief difficulty at present is in converting local income into dollars. The company has also had rate problems, but reports progress toward working them out.

Lake Park Claims Record for Red-Heads

CONNEAUT LAKE PARK, Pa., June 25.—(AP.)—A red-head haven, is Conneaut Lake Park and the authorities have figures to prove it.

A challenge was flung at any community in America to show more red-head girls, proportionally, than reside in this city. Ralph Jackson, commissioner of Crawford County, made the declaration at a meeting of the Park Board of Trade.

Detectives Arrest Youth at Drug Store

Private detectives early today arrested a youth as he stood beneath an open transom leading to the Wall Drug Company at 645 Fifth avenue. The suspect, who gave his name as Kenneth Martin, 21, of 204 Second avenue, Homestead, later changed it to Andy Kowalski, of 211 Ann street, Homestead. He was charged with being a suspicious person.

WORLD TRADING CORPORATION FORMED

Swiss Chartered Concern To Assist in Barter of Goods Frozen by Tariffs

NEW YORK, June 25.—The International Commodities Trading Corporation has just been formed with a Swiss charter to effect international exchanges of commodities which have been impeded by the control of foreign exchanges in many countries. The company, which was organized by B. Coles Neidecker, of Neidecker & Cie, bankers, with offices in Paris, Geneva, London, Brussels and Buenos Aires, will operate extensively in Latin America and Central Europe, effecting necessary trades of industrial and agricultural products both across and within national borderlines and will deal with governments and with individuals.

WHEAT, COFFEE DEALS

The corporation is negotiating to take over substantial portions of the coffee held by the Coffee Institute of Brazil, wheat and cotton held by the United States Farm Board, textiles held in reserve in Japan, as well as other basic commodities which will be delivered in accordance with credit arrangements now being worked out.

In addition to acting as principal in such transactions as the offer of industrial goods for agricultural goods to countries preeminently agricultural, the I. C. T. C. will also act as purchasing agent for companies which have funds tied up in foreign countries. The corporation will also act as broker in the international transfer of securities, offering and accepting selected securities in exchange for commodities.

SALES TO AMERICA

Arrangements are now being made through the New York office of Neidecker & Cie, with a group of American importers for the sale to them of selected commodities in exchange for American securities. Since in many countries tariffs do not apply to barter transactions, the operations of the trading company may become a factor in inter-governmental tariff negotiations.

Neidecker & Cie, initiated the negotiation for buying substantial portions of our wheat surplus from the Farm Board. Collaborators in the International Commodities Trading Corporation are the Amsterdam Trading Corporation, the European Grain Cartel and the American Foreign Discount Corporation.

WEEKLY BANK CLEARINGS

NEW YORK, June 25.—(AP.)—Bank clearings are again somewhat improved with the earlier returns. The total this week, for all leading cities in the United States, as reported to Dun's Review, of $4,788,749,000, was 31.2 per cent less than a year ago. At New York City, clearings were $3,289,747,000, a decline of 35.1 per cent, while the total for the cities outside of New York of $1,499,002,000, was 31.5 per cent smaller.

Here again clearings exceed those of the preceding week by $585,086,000, whereas a year ago there was a reduction in the comparison between these two weeks of $1,609,703,000. In part this changed situation reflects settlements in the week this year of the heavy corporation taxes due at this time. At most of these cities, particularly those at the South, the reduction in bank clearings compared with a year ago is not so heavy as it has been for several months past.

Clearings at leading cities as compiled by R. G. Dunn & Co., showing decreases as compared with same period a year ago follow (totals in thousands):

MILLS CUTTING STOCKS OF INGOTS

Orders Taken From Yards Indicate More Business Than Operations Suggest

By B. E. V. LUTY

Following its recent custom, steel ingot production declined approximately 1 point this week, to a rate of about 15 per cent. In the last few weeks the ingot producing rate has been somewhat misleading as mills have been reducing stocks of ingots and semi-finished steel whereby finished steel production and shipments are at above their usual relationship to ingot production. Last February, when ingot production was at its highest point since November, there was some accumulation of steel so that in a double respect actual steel business has not decreased as much as ingot production would suggest.

The major part of the steel trade has lately had no expectation of much improvement in demand before September, the usual month for seasonal improvement. Some, however, have expected July to run above June, quite contrary to precedent. This view has not been accentuated in the last week.

Several decreases have already ended in rails and track material and in steel for farm implements and mechanical refrigerators. The automobile industry outside of Ford is now taking very little steel, while Ford expects to maintain the recent production rate of 5,000 units daily through July at least.

PRICES UNCHANGED

Operations at fabricated structural steel shops recently reached a very low rate, leaving strong chances of the next change being upward as there have been fair sized bookings recently and some releases on old contracts are expected.

Finished steel prices show no change, but in several products certain low priced contracts which have been extended longer than expected are to be canceled by mills at the end of this month except for such tonnage as may be specified for July shipment. The lines involved are the heavy rolled products, bars, shapes and plates, and some descriptions of sheets. Wire products and tubular goods have long been rigid at regular prices.

TIN PLATE HOLDS UP

Tin plate production, at fully 50 per cent, is holding up better than usual for the time of year, uncertainties in canning prospects having delayed the season. Vegetable packs will be larger than the lowest of the guesses made in the trade two or three months ago.

Prospects of increased steel demand during the remainder of the year hinge on three factors, more attention to upkeep of numerous facilities in which wear and tear have not lately been covered, improvement in business generally, and buying by farmers, some of whom still have a little money, when there is realization on the crops.

Chicago Quickly Follows New York's Reduction Of Bank Rate

Chicago's Reserve Bank promptly followed the cut in New York by lopping a full per cent from its rate, and bankers pointed out that some of the other leading central institutions might join the movement in an effort to push excess reserves from plentifully supplied centers into districts where the need is greater. The chief response to the New York rediscount cut was in bill rate reductions, including a sharp downward readjustment by the Federal Reserve in its own buying rate. Otherwise money markets were unchanged. In addition to dividend uncertainties, brokerage quarters mentioned small Chicago bank closings as among the factors that probably made their impression on the stock market.

About the only feature of the market yesterday, except for the extreme sluggishness of trading, was found in the character of the stocks which made new lows. Consideration of impending dividend meetings was doubtless a factor back of the dribbling liquidation which appeared in those issues, but the caliber of the stocks sold was interpreted in some quarters as probably indicating effort on the part of some people to raise funds necessary to meet their July 1 requirements. Principal among the active stocks which slipped into new record low territory were Steel common and preferred, American Can, Atchison, International Harvester, Allied Chemical and Continental Can.

Dividend action on Food Machinery Corporation Class A preferred stock for the months of July, August and September probably will be taken about the middle of next month, according to company officials. On March 21 dividends for April, May and June were declared, prior to which time disbursements were voted monthly. The stock is on an annual basis of $6.50 a share, $1 being paid in December, and officials are definite in the statement that the rate will be maintained. It is improbable that action will be taken on a dividend on the common stock prior to the close of the company's fiscal year, which ends September 30.

Common stocks of the 10 leading automobile companies, exclusive of Ford and General Motors, are now valued in the market for a total of $119,200,000. This group, which does about 30 per cent of the total passenger car business and owns plants capable of producing more than 2,000,000 cars a year, holds cash and securities alone in excess of this market valuation, which does not include senior securities outstanding. According to latest figures, cash assets of the 10 companies total $130,241,886, while their combined working capital is $184,420,000. The shares are backed by an aggregate of $385,798,158 in net tangible assets. Obligations prior to these issues have a combined par value of $72,190,000.

Among food companies, Beech-Nut Packing Company has been doing relatively well, its net income in the first quarter of this year being about 8 per cent below that in the corresponding period of 1931, and covering present dividend requirements by a substantial margin. The common stock currently is selling around the lowest levels of the past 10 years. Dividends on common (at the rate of $3 annually since the beginning of 1929) have been paid continuously since 1902. A small preferred issue, 45 shares, ranks ahead of common stock, and there is no funded debt.

Business in wholesale and retail branches and to some extent in manufacturing lines was stimulated last week by a fairly general move on the part of buyers to anticipate the new federal excise taxes, according to the weekly mercantile reviews. There was a noticeable increase in business during the week, said Dun's, which was not confined to retail trade, but favored industry as well, and there appears to be a growing feeling that conditions are showing a slight upward trend; that the readjustments and liquidations which have been under way for months, now are giving evidence of tangible results. Bradstreet's expressed a more conservative view, asserting that its reports from leading centers reflect the "between seasons" lull.

Submarine Boat Liquidation Near

NEW YORK, June 25.—In a letter to creditors and stockholders of the Submarine Boat Corporation and Transmarine Corporation, the receivers, William L. Dill and Henry R. Sutphen, state that all tangible assets have been disposed of; that claims of creditors have been filed in the aggregate of approximately $1,964,792 and that this total may be augmented by further claims on the part of maritime lienors. It is apparent that stockholders will realize nothing on liquidation and that the stock of the company is therefore valueless, the receivers say.

Big Accessory Companies Operating on Profitable Basis So Far This Year

CHICAGO, June 25.—Bendix Aviation Corporation and Borg-Warner Corporation, leading automobile accessory manufacturers in the Chicago area, have operated at profit levels so far in 1932. While June is ordinarily dull for this business, both companies seem likely to continue their money making into the sixth month, to finish the first half of the current year in the black.

Prospects for the second half are brightened by the fact that June automobile retail sales have passed the point where a seasonal decline in purchases usually develops, and current sales are being maintained at a pace consistent with the past two months.

AGGRESSIVE SELLING

Borg and Bendix can claim a good share of the outstanding improvements which characterize the 1932 models, and both companies appear in position to benefit, in increasing degree, from the demand for innovations which contribute to the motorist's satisfaction. Not only have they pushed aggressively their numerous products, but the motor car builders are also instilling a wider demand for new driving and mechanical accessories which are advertised as exclusive or semi-exclusive feature. Many of the devices being offered by individual manufacturers are supplied by Borg and Bendix who alone possess the patent and production facilities for their manufacture.

CURRENT EARNINGS

For the first five months of 1932, Borg-Warner earned about $340,000 after all charges, or around 20 cents a share after allowing preferred dividend coverage for the period. For the first quarter a net of $170,220, or 9 cents a share was reported, indicating that business during April and May contributed about an equal amount.

Bendix probably will have a better second quarter than the first, for which the company reported a net profit of $26,374 before taxes. It is anticipated officially that June operations will continue in the black. Earnings to date, however, fall far short of providing the approximately $830,000 already distributed to stockholders in 1932. Latter figure consists of one 25-cent and one 15-cent quarterly payment.

CHICAGO BANK RATE CUT

WASHINGTON, June 25.—(INS.)—Effective today, the rediscount rate of the Chicago Federal Reserve Bank will be 2½ per cent instead of 3½ per cent, which it established October 17.

The New York Federal Reserve Bank dropped its rate yesterday from 3 to 2½ per cent, while all the other reserve banks continue on a 3½ per cent level.

Schwab Stock Suit Lost by Promoters

NEW YORK, June 25.—Two Wall street promoters lost their suit against August Belmont and Company and Speyer and Company to collect commissions allegedly due them for arranging the purchase of Charles M. Schwab's holdings in the Chicago Pneumatic Tool Company yesterday when Supreme Court Justice Frankenthaler directed a verdict for the defendants. The plaintiffs, Victor Soskice and Michael Kay, said they would appeal from the dismissal of their $140,000 claim.

Pittsburgh Gage Exchange Offered

Holders of the remaining $150,000 first mortgage 6 per cent serial bonds of Pittsburgh Gage and Supply Company, due July 1, are being asked to exchange their holdings for a new closed first mortgage 6 per cent issue, with sinking fund provisions, dated July 1 and due July 1, 1942, since the company will be unable to meet the maturity this year. Provided there is 80 per cent assent to the plan by June 29, the July 1 interest will be paid and the plan declared effective.

STOCK MARKET MOVEMENT IRREGULAR

Pivotal Shares Stiffen After Opening Decline; Auburn Slips 3 Points

NEW YORK, June 25.—(AP.)—The stock market sagged further in spots at the opening today, but stiffened during the first half hour.

Santa Fe diped ⅝ to a new low at 22, then rebounded to 23. United States Steel sagged a fraction, then recovered. American Telephone regained part of an early loss of ¾. Liggett and Myers "B" rose ½, while American Tobacco "B" sagged 1. While Sante Fe stiffened, Union Pacific turned rather heavy. Auburn dropped 3 points.

The market was watched closely for signs of support, in view of the fact that the sinking spell of the previous session had reduced the averages to close to the June 1 low. Many chart readers had concluded that the spring decline had been terminated with the lows of June 1, and a break through those levels would be interpreted as a bad sign.

On the whole, stock market quarters were somewhat discouraged at the end of the week. Talk of a rally on the adjournment of Congress had proven premature, as the session was delayed by the relief controversy. Tangible developments at Lausanne, furthermore, had failed to materialize, although not much had been hoped for from that quarter as yet. What with next week's dividend meetings, final action on the relief measure, and the Democratic convention, most observers felt that market was entering a rather crucial period.

The dollar sagged in the opening transactions in the foreign exchange market. Sterling cables rose 1 cent to $2.62, and French francs, 3-16 of a point to 3.93 7-16 cents.

Corticelli Silk Will Merge With Belding

NEW YORK, June 25.—Stockholders of the Corticelli Silk Company will meet on June 29 at New London, Conn., to ratify a merger of the company with the Belding Hemingway Company, it was announced today. Stockholders of the latter have informally approved a consolidation. If the deal is effected, R. C. Kramer, president of Belding Hemingway, will head the combined companies.

Producers Withdraw Steel Price Boost

The price of $28 for sheet bars, billets and slabs intended for the third-quarter has been withdrawn by producers, according to Daily Metal Trade.

Iron and steel scrap quotations average 25c a ton lower in the Youngstown market. No. 1 heavy melting steel has been reduced to $8.50 to $9 delivered mill.

Hog Prices Advance In Chicago Market

CHICAGO, June 25.—(INS.)—Steady advance of hog prices during the last 12 days encouraged farmers of the Middlewest. Cattle prices also have advanced on the livestock markets.

Hogs sold at $4.50 per hundred pounds here yesterday, 36 per cent above the low prices earlier in June. Best steers brought $8.25 per hundredweight, compared with $7.65 last week.

Large Short Interests Covering Committments

NEW YORK, June 25.—(INS.)—Some liquidation and fear of more to come sent stocks back on their ears yesterday.

At the close they were near enough to the bear market lows to see the bull-bear battle lines forming. There were, of course, a lot of stories around to account for the sinking spell but it was significant that they weren't taken seriously in informed quarters.

Of significance, too, was the report around after the close that there was some news brewing in Washington that might knock the lid off things, perhaps paralleling the bulge a year ago.

At any rate, important short covering, which has been going on for several days, is understood to be continuing.

One leading house that has been sour on the market for several months is said to have been covering American Can, Union Pacific and United States Steel in the last three days. Of course, everyone is bearish on Can now just as they were all bullish on it early last year. It seems to be an accepted cinch that all one has to do to make money is to sell Can and then take your time about covering. Along with this are predictions of all kinds of prices on the downside. Yet it's curious that interests close to the company are more inclined to the buy than the sell side; and Can in the past has proved itself a firebrand on the up side. Weakness in Atchison due to reports the dividend will be omitted next week was responsible for most of the selling in Union Pacific.

RETAIL TRADE MORE ACTIVE

Retail trade has been more active this week, summer merchandise moving fairly well, and there has been quite an active demand for such lines of merchandise as will be affected by the new tax bill, says Dun's review of the Pittsburgh district. Movement of men's clothing and shoes and straw hats is rather light, although sales of the cheaper grades is at a slightly higher rate. Some lines of hardware have been moving more freely this month, although builders hardware is very slow, and the demand for agricultural implements has been materially below normal.

Industrial operations have fallen off to some further extent, with steel plants operating at the lowest rate in many years and the same situation prevails in the glass industry. Refrigerator sales have been comparatively large, but the volume of business in radios is considerably lower than a year ago.

Production of bituminous coal continues at the lowest rate in years, and the demand is very light.

There has been no particular change in the collection situation in this district, the average still continuing slow.

Doherty Company Faces Iowa Suit

DES MOINES, Ia., June 25.—(AP.)—Henry L. Doherty & Co. must stand trial in Iowa courts on actions brought by buyers of Cities Service stock to recover on shares sold before the company was licensed in Iowa, Supreme Court held in a ruling handed down Friday.

The opinion was given in a test case carried to the court from a municipal court suit brought by W. S. Davidson in Des Moines. The decision of the lower court, which denied the contentions of the defendant company that Doherty was not a resident of Iowa and could therefore not be sued in Iowa courts, was affirmed.

May Copper Exports Gain; Imports Lower

NEW YORK, June 25.—Copper imported by the United States in May totaled 14,751 short tons, compared with 14,975 tons in April, and 19,895 in March, according to the American Bureau of Metal Statistics.

Exports of copper in May were 14,130 tons, against 12,835 in April and 12,464 in March.

Dr. Rush S. Rhees, president of the University of Rochester, has been elected a director of the Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburgh Railway, succeeding the late George Eastman. Officers were re-elected.

TO PRORATE ORANGE SHIPMENTS

Shippers representing 90 per cent of California's Valencia orange crop have signified their intention of signing an agreement to prorate shipments this summer.

OIL MEN NAME ZOOK HEAD

BRADFORD, Pa., June 25.—(AP.)—New problems laid before the oil industry by the economic situation were discussed yesterday at the annual meeting of the Pennsylvania Grade Crude Oil Association.

Approximately 250 producers, refiners and marketers attended the session. They came from all sections of the Pennsylvania area, which includes Western New York, West Virginia, Eastern Ohio in addition to Pennsylvania.

R. T. Zook, of Bradford, was elected president, succeeding Forest Dorn, of Bradford, who served in the chair for three years.

The association voted to increase its board of directors to 21 members. The board now includes:

R. T. Zook, Forest D. Dorn, Otto Koch and E. C. Emery, all of Bradford; Samuel Messer, E. C. Breene and C. L. Suhr, of Oil City; H. Logan and Harry R. Lewis, of Warren; M. M. Lyons, of Philadelphia; H. D. Atha, of Logan, O.; John A. Beck, of Butler; J. P. Flynn, of Sistersville, W. Va.; J. D. Dinsmoor, of St. Marys, W. Va.; D. M. Wilson, of New York; J. P. Herrick, of Olean, N. Y.; D. B. McCalmont, of Franklin, Pa.; D. J. Sweeney, of Buffalo, N. Y.; John McCoy, of Marietta, O.; Edward Craig, of Freedom, Pa., and R. T. Eastell, of Pittsburgh.

BUSINESS

Production Shows No Change but Reserve Adds to Credit Volume

—By GEORGE H. SNYDER—

THE PACE OF BUSINESS activity is gradually slackening as midsummer approaches. Steel mill activity has dropped to less than 16 per cent of capacity. This reflects the condition of general business, and particularly the reduction in automobile output.

Viewing the business outlook in its broader aspects, it is possible to find favorable changes in fundamental conditions, but no improvement can be observed at present in the actual rate of industrial production or in the sales of the important distributing organizations.

Business has been drifting during the present year. There has been no indication of a change, so far as actual operating results indicate. Industrial operations have been slowly reduced and declining payrolls have contributed to further contraction in purchasing power. This eventually is reflected in additional contraction in payrolls and further slumps in purchasing power.

Federal Reserve Policy Important

THE FEDERAL RESERVE Board has gone out of its way to improve the credit situation. Its open market policy has resulted in the pumping of hundreds of millions of dollars into circulation. While this has been going on the Reserve System has withstood an unprecedented run on its gold reserves by other central banks.

A further step in the direction of easier credits was taken during the past week when the New York Federal Reserve Bank reduced its rediscount rate to 2½ per cent.

* * *

Cheap Credit Is Not Only Recovery Factor

THE ACTION OF the Federal Reserve Board has been directed entirely along the line of producing cheap credit. The program is important in so far as it will make the next upward movement in business more rapid. Cheap and easy money cannot produce prosperity, but it certainly can make the path of prosperity easier. It is with this idea that the Federal Reserve System is attempting to work.

INSULL UNITS CUT RATES

CHICAGO, June 25.—James Simpson, new board chairman of the utility companies formerly headed by Samuel Insull, announced quarterly dividend reductions for the Commonwealth-Edison Company, the People's Gas Light and Coke Company and the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois.

For the Commonwealth-Edison and People's Gas Companies, dividends of $1.25 are payable July 15 to stockholders of record July 5. The Public Service of Northern Illinois dividend is 75 cents. The companies have been on an $8 annual basis.

Simpson said preferred stock dividends are to be maintained. The reductions, he said, are being made to "safeguard the current positions" of the companies, "even though their earnings for the year ended March 31, 1932, were satisfactory."

Rolling Mill Gets Refund of $705,638

CINCINNATI, June 25.—The American Rolling Mill Company has received a tax refund from the United States Treasury for $705,638 representing an overpayment of taxes, with interest, made by the Ashland Iron and Mining Company several years ago, before its absorption by the American Rolling Mill Company.

George M. Verity, chairman of the board of American Rolling Mill Company, says the refund will be lodged in the surplus account.

Commercial Loans Increased in May

NEW YORK, June 25.—Reports received by the New York Federal Reserve Bank from commercial paper dealers show $111,100,000 of open market commercial paper outstanding on May 31 compared to $108,000,000 at the end of April and $305,000,000 on May 31, 1931.

Inland Steel Gets $480,087 Tax Credit

WASHINGTON, June 25.—The Bureau of Internal Revenue announces a credit of $480,087 against future payment of taxes, on account of an overassessment in 1919 and in the years 1921-24, inclusive, to the Inland Steel Company, of Chicago.

Rosenwald Estate Not Selling Stock

CHICAGO, June 25.—The estate of Julius Rosenwald holds 789,238 shares of Sears Roebuck & Co. stock, attorneys for the estate state that no sales of stock have been made nor will be made for purposes of paying taxes or other commitments of the estate, which is estimated at $50,000,000.

Curb Market Short Interest Declines

NEW YORK, June 25.—The short interest in all securities on the New York Curb Exchange on June 15 totaled 33,628 shares, compared to 41,790 shares on May 31.

TRADING DULL ON LOCAL MARKET

Short Week-End Session Brings No Changes in General Market Levels

Moderate trading volume marked the dealings on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange in the short week-end session today. Prices were inclined to sag, but the selling pressure was insufficient to force the list beyond small fractional recessions. Lone Star Gas opened off slightly, dipped a little and then rallied, at no time being more than a half-point away from the $4 level at which it has been selling or several weeks. Arkansas Gas preferred appeared on the board at 2¾ for a small lot of the stock.

In the industrial section the same dullness noted all week was again in evidence. Interest in this section of the market was at low ebb and prices were practically unchanged.

United Gas Gets Loan Extension

NEW YORK, June 25.—Bank loans of the United Gas Corporation amounting to $21,250,000 have been extended one year from July 20, the maturity date, it was announced today. Electric Power and Light Company, which controls United Gas, in the 12 months ended April 30, earned 88 cents a share on the common stock outstanding at the end of the period, compared with $2.86 a share for the previous 12 months.

Walter Winchell ON BROADWAY

Logic

I thank you but I cannot be your friend,
Who once was more than anyone to you;
Far better, dear, that this should be the end
And I find fresher, fairer things to do.

You claim that when a romance breathes its last
That two can meet as calmly as before,
Nor give a thought to rapture that is past—
But I prefer the locked and bolted door.

Oh, we are through, I'll gladly grant you that—
But I am sick of sleepless nights abed;
Right now the town is most absurdly flat
So get this through your charming little head:

To rid myself of my pronounced dejection
I do not need a friend—I need affection!

—Don Wahn.

Sweet Girl, Tho

Walter O'Keefe was witnessing a rehearsal of a new musical show and his attention was focused on a show girl. Show girls, you probably know, are those lassies in a musical production who have practically nothing to do. At any rate, this one's left knee had a ribbon around it.

"Why," asked Walter, "have you that ribbon around only one shaft?"

"Well," was the devastating retort, "when the stage director tells me to start with my left leg, I don't want to waste any time thinking."

Political Note

The same clown says that the Republicans will get on the back of the Elephant—the Democrats will get on the back of the Donkey and the Socialists will get on the back of Heywood Broun.

Reason Enough

Gene Fowler, the author of "The Great Mouthpiece" and other novels, amazed his intimates when he suddenly chucked his Hollywood job which paid him $100,000 per annum.

When one of us asked him why he spurned all that money in these difficult times, Fowler chirped:

"Because one morning I awoke and found the flag of my intelligence flying at half-mast!"

Incidentally

It reminded us of the time Ina Claire (who has also renounced the movie colony) saw "Once In a Lifetime," the devastating satire on the flicker business.

"Can you think of anything funnier than this show about Hollywood?" she was asked.

"Yes," snapped Ina, "Hollywood!"

On the Other Hand

When Adolph Zukor, the movie magnate, went to see the same show he didn't smile, chuckle or even titter at it.

"Everybody finds this the funniest show in town," Zukor was told. "How can you sit there like that without enjoying it?"

"How can I laugh at something," was the mournful reply, "that I've cried about for years?"

Big-Hearted Gus

Gus Driffel, of Driffel & Driffel, the vaudeville team, couldn't get a job for years. In the meantime his wife supported him. Recently a rich uncle folded up and left Driffel a mess of coin.

"Well, old boy," said a pal, "you're in the money now. You sure ought to be nice to the wife."

"Nice to her?" driffed Driffel. "I told her that everything she made from now on—she could keep herself."

Portrait of a Girl

Her name is Geraldine Dvorak and she's no kin to Ann, the movie star. For three years the MGM company hired Geraldine to double for Garbo because she resembles Greta so much it is not easy to tell them apart. They even used her out there to attract crowds, in the exploitation manner—and now Greta is done, so is Geraldine, so far as Hollywood is concerned.

So she has come to town to study with Mme. Rasch and will show girl it for Billy Rose's forthcoming revusical. There must be something dizzy about an industry that considers a girl capable enough to double for the nation's most popular screen heroine—but doesn't find a spot for her charms. Instead, they go to the old country regularly to import women who "look something like Garbo."

I give up.

Broadway's Like That

The Astor Hotel's chiropodist has handled some of Broadway's better known pedals in his time. And so when he was juggling the corns of this or that theatrical producer he would say:

"I wish one of you fellows would read a play one of my relatives has written. It would be a hit."

His listeners, all of whom rate high as hit-pickers, always dismissed the corn doctor's suggestion with:

"Okay, some other time. I'll let you know."

This went on for years.

Finally, the chiropodist (and what do they know about shows, anyhow?) met an outsider, who was interested and produced it.

It is "Another Language," New York's outstanding legitimate hit!

Of All Cracks!

One of those types was sitting around a Hollywood studio day after day—never saying anything. She finally got on Wilson Mizner's nerves.

"Say!" thundered Mizner, "how are you gonna tell when that dame's dead?"

Not Polly Moran?

David Murray reports that his brother is an unlucky bird. The other day he married Miss America—Miss America of 1904.

The Only Real Sock

Well, far be it from us to try and make our voice heard over the booing which still goes on over the decision that gave the championship to Mr. J. Sharkey. But Gunboat Smith, the referee, ankled into a Times Square spot after the alleged fight, he walked over to a table at which several gamblers were grouped.

"Harya?" said the referee affably. "Did ja see the fight?"

"Yeah," growled one of them. "Did you?"

Higgins' Last Day To Be Broadcast

NEW YORK, June 25.—(Universal.)—Dorothy Roe, staff writer for Universal Service, has chosen the title and subject "The Last 24 Hours of Vannie Higgins—the Passing of a Gangster" for tomorrow's installment of her news drama, "Adventures of a Girl Reporter," heard over the air from station WINS in New York City at 7:45 p. m. Eastern Daylight time.

Miss Roe has brought before the WINS microphone each week a story of unusual interest of the current week in drama form as seen through her eyes from a woman's viewpoint. Among the presentations on previous programs have been "The Bonus Army" and "The Trial of Gaston B. Means."

Nobody Will Be For Anybody When Democrats Meet

By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

We can hardly believe that Alfalfa Bill Murray called his brother Democrats a bunch of hoodlums.

That's crowding a little too much sincerity into the platform.

The convention doesn't start until next week and the boys are fighting already. Al Smith has hooked up with McAdoo. Politics makes strange bedfellows, but these two boys are safer with insomnia.

Mayor Hague, of Jersey City, says Gov. Roosevelt isn't strong enough to snap a safety pin. Nobody is going to be for anybody at the Democratic convention.

Al Smith isn't wearing his brown derby because he wants to sneak up on some of the candidates in disguise.

Al can read a Democrat's mind, but he can't stop him from changing it.

If the boys don't cease their squabbling a stranger will step into the Chicago Stadium and walk off with the nomination. Right now we predict the ticket will be the janitor of the Stadium and Santa Claus.

Follies Girl Is Success in Movies

By HARRISON CARROLL

(Copyright, 1932, King Features Synd., Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, June 25.

Hollywood is doing nip-ups over Irene Ware, who was chosen "Miss America" several years ago and who dazzled the public more recently in Earl Carroll's "Vanities."

Besides being a great social success, the beauty contest winner will go into the leading role opposite Edmund Lowe in "Chandu The Magician." And this is only one of several important parts that the Fox company has in mind for her.

A striking brunette, Miss Ware has bowled over the bachelor contingent in the film colony. Within a few days, she has been at the Frolics with James Dunn, at the Winfield Sheehan party with Eddie Grainger and at the Cocoanut Grove with Carl Laemmle, Jr.

Bela Lugosi

Her first picture, "Chandu The Magician," is the film version of one of the most popular radio mystery thrillers. Besides Edmund Lowe, her fellow players will include Bela Lugosi and Herbert Mundin. Marcel Varnel and William Cameron Menzies will co-direct.

BOULEVARD TALK

With a Fox contract safely stored away, Lita Grey Chaplin leaves here Monday for Denver, where she will complete a three-weeks' personal appearance tour. Her two sons, who also are under contract to act for the movies, will leave Nice on June 30 or July 8, depending upon what boat connections they can make. In the meanwhile Charlie maintains his silence.

Paramount finally agreed Jack Oakie should play the part of Dr. Lewis in "Once In A Lifetime," but not before Jack had stood in the middle of the studio fountain and expressed his opinion of various executives. It's all smoothed over now, however, and the comedian has reported for work at Universal.

If you can believe Greta Nissen and Weldon Heyburn, their disagreement was only a lovers' quarrel after all. Hollywood rumor had them headed for a divorce . . . Dick Arlen is carrying a chip on his shoulder again because of his first role under his new contract . . . Alibis are being offered by Spencer Tracy. Out riding in the hills with Baron Takeichie Nishi, of the Japanese Olympic team, his horse shied and practically sat on him. Patient is doing nicely though, with only a few scratches to show for the embarrassing experience.

Greta Nissen

It's getting to be a regular thing with Virginia Cherrill and Tommy Lee . . . Another pair dancing at the Cocoanut Grove the other evening were Loretta Young and George Brent . . . Mr. and Mrs. Clark Gable also gathering plenty of stares.

ESTELLE HAS OFFERS

Those stage offers to Estelle Taylor will have to go begging for a while. The former Mrs. Jack Dempsey has just signed with C. C. Burr to take a leading role in "Western Limited." It will be her third talkie. Others in the cast of this Monogram picture will be Edmund Burns, Gertrude Astor and Ivan Lebedeff.

It looks as if Cecil B. De Mille's search for an actress to play the Christian girl in "The Sign of the Cross" will end today.

Sylvia Sidney, one of Paramount's major stars, took a test for the part yesterday. It is generally conceded that she will get it.

Among the actresses who have been suggested for the role to date were Ann Harding, Miriam Hopkins, Ann Dvorak, Loretta Young, Gloria Stewart and Karen Morley.

If Miss Sidney is chosen, she will again play opposite Frederic March. Th pair were teamed in "Merrily We Go to Hell.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal.,
June 25.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Well, Mr. Hoover's disarmament plan fell, just like all of 'em have. Nations that have none say it's "fine," but the ones that are well armed say it's terrible.

Will Rogers

I have been to every one of those disarmament conferences, both here and in Europe, and if there is one thing that has been absolutely proven that can't be done, it's to get countries to agree on what constitutes protection. We can make some fine proposals over here, for Mexico and Canada are not so strong, but you put us over there in the midst of that mess, and brother, we would go out and buy another gun, too. We ought to set by a day of thanksgiving, blessing the Atlantic and Pacific oceans for their splendid judgment in locating where they did. Yours, WILL.

BITS OF LIFE
All in a Day
By Mark Hellinger

"TIME AND again," writes Irving Rokofsky, "I notice you've placed in your column letters and gags from some of your readers, I, too, would like to see my name there in order to feel the thrill of seeing it in print. I want to make my friends envious and to go around boasting that I am a writer. Imagine with what joy I would clip the article from the 5,000 copies I would buy.

"Now, Mark, after learning of all the joy you can bring me, I know you'll never be able to refuse my simple request. Knowing your time is limited, I'll come to the point. For months, I have wracked my brain in an attempt to think up a real funny gag, or story. I've remained awake at nights. I've even gone so far as to buy a joke book. But, sadly enough, I can think of nothing funny to say.

"Here, then, is the favor I desire of you. No need to exert yourself, but write something funny and send it along to me. I'll put my name on it, send it back to you—and then you can print it in your column. If I could get you to write that, I'd be a writer, too, wouldn't I?"

No, sir. You'd be a magician."

* * *

PERCY JANGLE," writes Dave Murray, of Bridgeport, Conn., "is one guy who gets on my nerves. Every time I run across him, he comes galloping over to me and insists on telling me old jokes. He embarrasses me.

"The other day, Percy cornered me as I was entering a restaurant. He insisted upon eating with me. And since I was in too much of a hurry to look around for another restaurant, I said I was agreeable.

"Once the meal was before us, Percy began to unfold his confounded jokes. He told me why a chicken crosses the road, and all the generally known adventures of the farmer's daughter. For a few minutes, Percy even went so far as to tell me some ancient episodes concerning Pat and Mike.

"'Say,' I finally exploded, 'Don't you know any really new gags?'

"'Well,' said Percy, 'I've got one that I've been saving. It seems that two men met on the street. 'Hello, George,' said the first, 'who was that lady I saw you with last night?' 'That was no lady,' the second replied, 'that was my——'"

"At that point, I lost my patience. I gritted by teeth and looked into his eyes.

"'Percy,' I snarled, 'do you know what you should do?'

"'What?' he asked.

"'You should tell jokes over the radio,' I muttered.

"'I do,' said Percy." . . .

COX AIR CIRCUS TOMORROW

An afternoon of thrills is promised for the thousands who will go to Bettis Field tomorrow afternoon where a great air circus is to be put on for the benefit of the Father Cox unemployment relief fund.

The affair is in charge of Earl Dean, "Mayor of Coxtown," and the program will include air races, stunt flying and a 20,000-foot parachute leap by William D. McGill, former Army flier. McGill says that it will be the highest jump he has ever tried—approximately four miles.

Father Cox will get another check from the Sun-Telegraph Monday covering his commissions for additional subscriptions for the Sun-Telegraph sent in on the special Father Cox-Sun-Telegraph Home Delivery Drive subscription blanks.

Incidentally Father Cox is in debt more than $25,000 on account of his relief activities, and he looks to his friends and admirers to substantially reduce this debt through Sun-Telegraph subscriptions. You will find a blank on this page. Clip it out, fill it in and mail it today.

Good Picture In Davis

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

"The Blonde Captive" is not the title of some sensational melodramatic film, but is the tag affixed to an interesting exploration movie in the Davis that clicks more loudly than would be indicated in describing it as an ethnological exhibition, which is what it really is. It is a picturesque portrayal of the scenes caught by the camera on a jaunt to the wilds of Australia—scientific in purpose—in search of a living specimen of the Neanderthal man, held to be just above the "missing link" in the supposed connection between the human and ape families.

To get that part of it over with, it may be stated that the explorers did find an aborigine in the country "down under" that resembled the bust scientists have reconstructed from the skull of that Neanderthal chap. They also purported to have found a white woman, supposed to be the widow of a shipwrecked mariner, living as the wife of a bushman in true cave-man style. Well, it possibly could happen. Anyway, it makes a snappy title, but if the woman is white, you now know where to go to get a good, deep sun-tan.

Before you get to Australia you see native dancing in many islands of the South Seas, and when you do get there, you see many strange sights, including weird animals and huge turtles. Throughout the showing of the film there is a descriptive talk by Lowell Thomas, and in some scenes there is local atmospheric sound, vocal and instrumental. It is well worth seeing.

Jungle Love At Warner

By MARGARET RUSSELL

"Thunder Below" at the Warner this week, is a picture for adults. Based on a novel by Thomas Rourke, the story deals with a volcanic seething mass of human emotions, pent up in the narrow confines of a jungle town.

Tullulah Bankhead is "Susan," the pale-faced exotic wife of "Walt," the he-man boss of an engineering unit, Charles Bickford. The only white woman for miles around, she has an intoxicating influence on the boss's right hand man, and best friend, "Ken," played by Paul Lukas.

Urged by Susan, Ken decides to tell Walt about himself and Susan. But Walt's approaching blindness deters him in the telling. The latent passions of all three smolder for a time. Matters are precipitated when Susan runs away from the irksome monotony of life with a blind man, a young newcomer. The faithful Ken goes after her, to bring her back to his friend, Walt. The tragic Susan prefers not to return, and solves the triangular problem in a way that distresses the local sea gulls.

To counterbalance the heavy drama of "Thunder Below" there is a two-reel comedy, "Rule 'Em and Weep," presented by the Masquerade Club of Hollywood, with Sam Hardy, Glen Tryon and Jimmy Gleason; an E. L. Newman travelogue, "When in Rome," and a Vitaphone cartoon, "Boscoe's Dog Race."

Youth Has Its New Code In Penn

By GEORGE SEIBEL

While the viewpoint of the younger generation has been exploited very fully, and sometimes very rawly, there is a vivid and true portrayal of this age-old conflict in the picture at the Penn, called "New Morals for Old," with John Van Druten as the dramatic originator. This was his play, "After All," changed from an English background to an American, and somewhat toned down in its more plain-spoken phases. But the moral contrast and conflict are not hidden altogether nor is the lesson pounded in with crude preachments.

Mr. Seibel

Besides there is a cast that is just about perfect—Robert Young and Margaret Perry, Lewis Stone and Laura Hope Crews. Nothing is overdone—nothing is skimped. The studio scenes laid in Paris are especially convincing. Lewis Stone does some of his very best acting, which is very good indeed. Among the pictures that aim to stick to the facts of life, instead of the tawdry fictions that too often are dished up as life, "New Morals for Old" must be ranked very high.

There is a Walt Disney cartoon comedy and a Hal Roach farce that are uproariously clever and ingenious, a Laurel and Hardy sketch that is as funny as it can be, and the Schmeling-Sharkey fight is shown round by round, so everybody can make his own decision.

Kennywood Engages Stanley Talent

Several entertainers from the Stanley Theater will participate in the novelty concerts to be given tomorrow afternoon and evening in Kennywood Park. Among the entertainers will be Ralph Harrison and his orchestra; Bernie Armstrong, organist; Dorothy Bushey, vocal artist; David Broudy, orchestra director, and Pat Haley, entertainer. Dancing this afternoon and evening will be to Lee Crosley's band and on Monday Paul Tremaine and his 15-piece band will play in the dance pavilion. Carver's Diving Horses are also on the park's bill.

Patio's Floor Show Held Over

The current floor show in the Patio, where Bernie Armstrong and Dorothy Bushey are being featured, has been held over for another week. In addition to the leading performers, the show includes The Dades, Collette and the Diana Sisters.

MORE ELECTION CASES QUASHED

Additional Third Ward election cases were quashed yesterday when the prosecution was unable to find witnesses, presumably as a result of peace between political factons.

Those freed were Arthur Dula and W. H. Smith, election officers in the Seventh District, and A. B. Poole, vote machine inspector, charged with permitting improper assistance to voters; Lillian Wilson, charged with electioneering in the Tenth District, and Tony Siano, charged with bribing a voter in the aldermanic fight.

March, Sidney On Stanley Screen

By EDWARD W. GOSS

"Merrily We Go to Hell," Stanley feature, has a strong tendency to make the customers wish the principals would quickly get to the place designated in this title or hit the sawdust trail to the mourners' bench.

The picture gives the impression of laboring to make a great point and then becoming so entangled in a maze of booze parties that the point is forgotten.

The principals are Sylvia Sydney and Frederic March. March portrays a newspaperman. Sylvia, the daughter of a millionaire. March, true to the Hollywood newspaperman type, is a great booze-head. Sylvia, a sweet fille, marries the drunk. Sylvia's old man, not caring for the way March pitches, gives him the cold eye.

March does fairly well as a husband until he writes a play and gets it produced. Here enters the leading lady for his play and lo and behold, the leading lady is an old flame of March's, who long ago gave her the go-by. Now it develops March has carried her memory in his mind through all the years and it is the memory of this leading lady that he loves and not his sweet, good little wifie—what a guy!

Now the cameras begin to rtain on the liquor parties. The audience sees March and that huzzy of an actress going the pace, while Sylvia does her darndest with her good influence to no avail.

Things right themselves at the finale, of course. The cast does well enough. Skeets Gallagher draws several laughs in his role of pal and fellow-drinker to March.

PIRATES FACE REDS IN DOUBLEHEADER

TWO TIED FOR OPEN LEAD

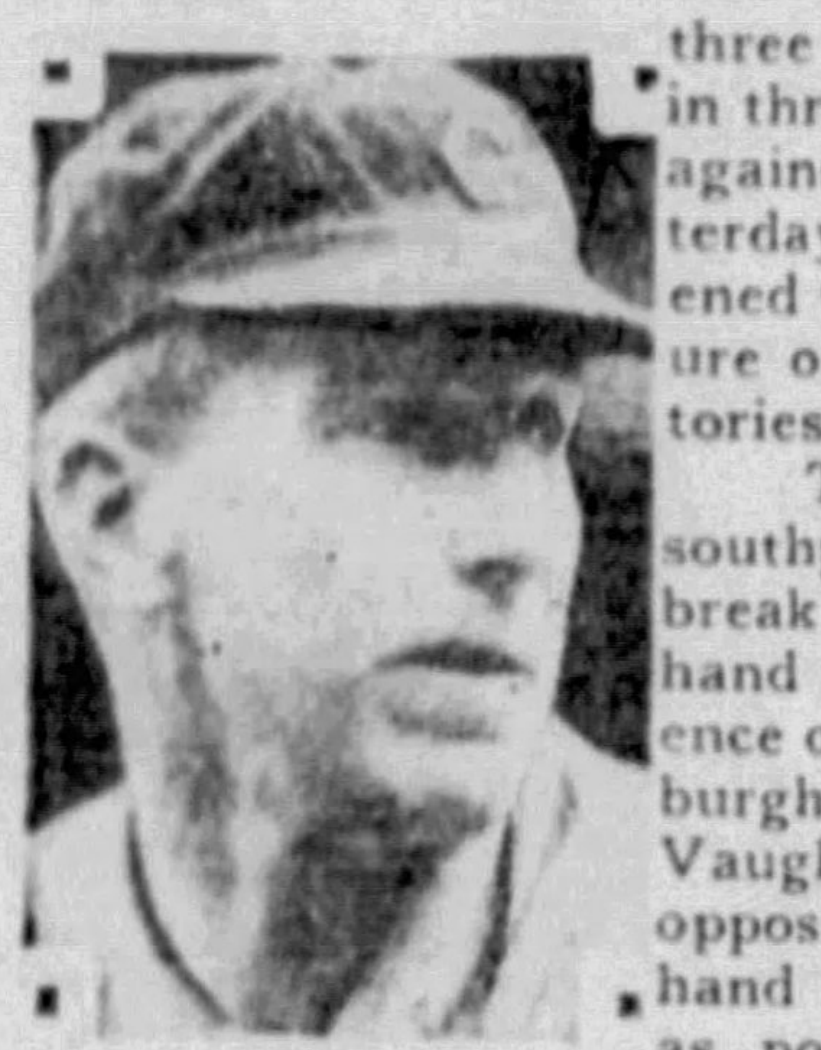
SPORT COMMENT

By James J. Long

Again Mastering Rixey.
Grace Big Buc Factor.
Grove's Mishap Costly.
Ladies' Day Good Move.
Still Count on Nurmi.
Warner Alters System.

ROVERS BREAK EVEN WITH SOUTHPAWS

A MASTERY HELD in 1931 that had appeared to be slipping away this year was regained by the Pirates in their victory over Eppa Rixey yesterday. Last season Rixey didn't win a game from the Pittsburgh club. The Bucs beat him three times and drove him from the hill in three other games in which he started against them. This year, prior to yesterday, the big left-hander had threatened to turn the tables, taking the measure of the Gibbons twice, the only victories in his 1932 record.



Eppy Rixey

The defeat of the 41-year-old southpaw also gave the Rovers an even break up to date in their tilts with left-hand pitchers. On account of the presence of five left-hand hitters in the Pittsburgh batting order—the two Waners, Vaughan, Suhr and Grace—managers of opposing clubs have been shooting fork-hand hurlers against the locals as often as possible. Instead of showing any particular weakness against that kind of flinger, however, the Corsairs have held their own in fifty-fifty fashion, winning eight games and losing the same number. They have defeated Joe Shaute three times, and Bill Hallahan, Ed Brandt, Watty Clark, Roy Hansen and Rixey once each, while losing twice to Rixey and once each to Hallahan, Clark, Hansen, and Jumbo Elliott, Bill Walker and Fred Heimach.

NO INDIVIDUAL PLAYER has contributed more to the improved showing of the Pirates during the last six weeks than Catcher Earl Grace. The fine work of the pitchers has been due largely to his excellent handling, and he has done much to keep the club as a whole going smoothly.

Grace isn't a player of the type to attract more attention than his mates on the field or in the box score. That's because he's a team worker, a hustler who just makes himself part of the machine and gives everything he has for the success of the outfit, the while spurring on and encouraging the rest of the crew.

OTHER PIRATES ARE quick to praise Grace for the part he has played in their advance. They predict he will become one of the best catchers in the National League and say he has improved almost with each succeeding game this year.

Grace's hitting is not to be overlooked, either. He has been one of the steadiest producers on the club. In only seven of his last 29 games has he failed to hit safely, and at no time in that stretch has he gone hitless two games in succession.

IT IS UNLIKELY that Connie Mack will permit any more chasing of flies in the outfield during practice by star pitchers. The wrenched ankle that Lefty Grove suffered in that fashion in the middle of the Western trip after he had won 11 games in a row was costly to the A's, as it kept Lefty from pitching in either Chicago or St. Louis. He has not appeared on the hill since June 13, his longest absence from duty since a 15-day-off spell early in 1931. The loss of his services would have been even more serious to the Macks if George Earnshaw had not taken a sufficient brace to win his last three contests.

Sam Leslie

FEELING THAT HE'S not yet fragile enough to require a special understudy at first base—in two and a half seasons he has missed only one full game and part of another—Manager Bill Terry, of the Giants, is trying to convert Sam Leslie from a first sacker into an outfielder.

Every day Leslie is working out at Freddie Lindstrom's elbow in center field. Lindy himself learned to play the grass patrol only last year, but now Terry considers him good enough to act as a professor. Bill hopes to have Leslie ready to do an occasional outfield turn when the Giants start on their Western trip. He says Sam is too good a natural hitter to be wasting his time on the bench.

ANOTHER BIG PROGRESSIVE step must be credited to the board of directors of the Pittsburgh baseball club in deciding, as a tribute to the chairman, Mrs. Barney Dreyfuss, to establish a weekly Ladies' Day at Forbes Field, whereby women will be admitted to the grandstand at Thursday games without admission charge.

It is a commendable gesture that is certain to prove popular, and one more forward stride for the good of the game. With two free days for children and one for women each week, the Pittsburgh management is doing as much for baseball and the fans as any other club in the country.

THE HULLABALOO THAT has followed the Schmeling-Sharkey thing, with protests and accusations, denials and retractions, will work out in a fashion to mean vast additional financial profits to all concerned. There is a made-to-order setting for a return match that will pack any arena, and with the public all steamed up, both in this country and Europe, the moving pictures of the affair will be worth many times more than they would have been ordinarily, not by reason of any appeal in the fight itself, for it was anything but a thrilling spectacle, but because the storm following the decision has made the fans in this country and Germany eager to see for themselves whether or not Schmeling was wronged.

SPEAKING OF MOVING pictures, something new in that line cropped out on the Schmeling-Sharkey battle front, in the form of bootleg cameras. The owners of these tried to muscle in on the fight by planting their motion picture cameras on the roofs of apartment houses across the street from the bowl.

Tipped off to the set-up, the company that had purchased the exclusive right to the pictures of the bout blocked the game by placing giant searchlights on the rim of the bowl and directing their glare at the spots where the bootleggers' cameras were supposed to be located.

THAT FINLAND STILL has hopes the ban on Paavo Nurmi will be lifted—and those knowing what he means as a drawing card and a box office attraction have never doubted his eventual reinstatement—is indicated by the fact that that great racing machine will be in the first party of Finnish Olympic athletes to reach this country.

The group will be made up of 10 runners and will arrive at New York on July 8. The rest of the team, composed chiefly of jumpers and weight men, and aggregating 40, will get here July 13.

Pop Warner

FOOTBALL MIGHT BE termed an unseasonable subject, but with Stanford booked to play here next fall, the Pitt Panthers and their followers perhaps will find something of interest in the movements of Pop Warner as reported from Palo Alto. The Old Fox has abandoned "C" formation, for one thing; for another thing he has changed his attack in several important details, especially his so-called shift, and finally he has decided no longer to use the double fullback. His 1932 quarterback will be a more versatile type of player than in Pop's past seasons at Pitt or Stanford, and instead of being principally a blocker or interferer will take his full share in the attack.

L. WANER HITS HOMER; BUCS WIN, 4-3

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

The double-header season of Pittsburgh baseball will get under way at Forbes Field this afternoon when the Pirates clash twice with the Cincinnati Reds. Bargain hunting being in harmony with the times, the twin bill is likely to attract a big audience. Play in the opening fight will start at 1:45 o'clock.

Lloyd Waner

Repelling the Reds yesterday, the Oaklanders closed in forcibly on the runnerup Braves, who were trimmed by the Dodgers. The Buccos are less than one-half of a full game below Bill McKechnie's Tribe. The latest triumph of the Pittsburghers represented another gain on the first-place Cubs, who were idle. Gibby's entry is just two and one-half games beneath the pacesetters.

SWETONIC, KREMER SET

Manager Gibson stated this morning he would call upon Steve Swetonic and Remy Kremer to heckle Dan Howley's crew this afternoon. Red Lucas will twirl one of the games for the Rhinelanders. Silas Johnson may face the Buccos in the nightcap.

With Brother Lloyd making a solo skit out of the Waner act, the Pirates, with Heine Meine up, were able to get a hairline 4-to-3 decision over the Reds yesterday. Lloyd socked a round-tripper to the right-center flagpole to break a deadlock in the seventh. The run was just the edge the Prince of Luxemburg needed to record his third victory of the season.

Eppa Jeppa Rixey, two-time winner over the Pirates, stopped the Waner production, but the straight man stole the show from Funnyman Paul, who probably experienced a big thrill in the doings of his little brother. Barbee, Vaughan and Piet, with two safeties each, added to the Pirate gaiety.

Something like 5,000 little boys parked in the rightfield stands had a wonderful time as their favorites won. Guests of the management, the Knothole Gang was on hand early and when Brother Lloyd rapped the ball to the fence to score the winning run, the kids' cheering reached a new high.

BUCS TAKE LEAD

The Bucs romped into the lead in the second inning. Barbee nicked Rixey for a smashing double to left center. Singles by Piet and Meine sent two runs across. Rixey walked to open the third and Eppa tallied on Grantham's single, a walk and a force play.

Grantham, who was big on the offensive with four wallops, struck a triple in the fifth that proved the pivotal punch in two runs. Two singles, a long fly and a fumble tied the score.

Meine was careful as he entered the ninth with a one-run lead, but Lucas, batting for Rixey, doubled. Grantham failed to advance the important run and Meine took out the next two batters to end the game.

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: THE CHAMPION OPTIMIST—For 23 years, A. E. Rump, of 6243 Columbia avenue, St. Louis, has been unable to move any part of his body except his eyes and mouth—yet he makes his own living and keeps two employes to assist him in his business of selling insurance and magazine subscriptions. In 1909, the champion optimist was struck by a bundle of newspapers thrown from a train, and the accident caused a disease known as ankylosis, or knitting together of all the bones of the body, which paralyzed him completely. But, in the face of such obstacles and discouragement, he hung up a small sign, "Down, But Not Out"—his motto ever since. This suggestion won a prize of an R. C. A. Victor Radio-Phonograph in the recent National "Believe It Or Not" contest. THE TURACOU BIRD—The turacou, tree-frequenting bird of Africa, is unique in the fact that the red color of its wings is easily dissolved either in soft water or in water and soap. It is possible to wash the crimson of its feathers completely white. The pigment which supplies the coloring of its feathers consists partly of oxide of copper, the only instance where traces of copper have been ascertained in the coloring of birds' feathers.

PERRY BEATS ALLISON

WIMBLEDON, June 25.—(AP.)—Sidney B. Wood, Jr., defending Wimbledon tennis champion, today defeated his fellow-American, Gregory Mangin, 6-1, 9-7, 6-3, to advance to the quarter-final round of the current title play. Wood won the title last year by default from Frank Shields, United States Davis Cup player.

Wilmer Allison, another of the American players and a finalist against William T. Tilden in 1930, was defeated in the fourth round by Frederick Perry, English cup ace, 6-4, 6-1, 4-6, 6-2. Perry put out Allison's doubles partner, John Van Ryn, in the previous round.

Favorites Victors In Greensburg Play

GREENSBURG, Pa., June 25.—Billy Marks, of Kiski, will meet J. A. Robertshaw and Sid Carson, Jr., meets Larry Heller in the semi-final round today of the Westmoreland County golf championship at the Greensburg Country Club.

Marks survived the first and second rounds yesterday by eliminating L. Sasso, 3 and 2, and J. W. Crookston, 2 and 1; Carson eliminated H. T. Ryan, 3 and 1, in the first round, and Jack Barclay, Jr., the defending champ, 1 up in the second; Robertshaw advanced at the expense of L. B. Smith, 6 and 4, and J. F. Lutterall, 1 up, and Heller, the Greensburg club champ, continued in the race by defeating Paul Euwer, 5 and 4, and Tom Underwood, 8 and 6.

KAUFMAN SUSPENDED

PHILADELPHIA, June 25.—(AP.)—Suspension of four wrestlers and one boxer for indefinite periods have been announced by the State Athletic Commission. The wrestlers are Sammy Stein, of Newark, N. J.; Sandor Szabo and Earl McCready, of New York, and Nick Lutze, of Venice, Cal. Pinkey Kaufman, Youngstown, O., boxer, was suspended for unsatisfactory services at Pittsburgh on Wednesday.

RISKO VICTOR OVER WALKER

CLEVELAND, June 25.—(AP.)—Johnny Risko, Cleveland heavyweight, won a decision last night over Mickey Walker, former middleweight champion in a bloody 12-round fight. Risko weighed 198½ and Walker, 171½.

Both Walker's eyes were bleeding and one of Risko's was cut at the end of the action-filled battle. It was Risko's first fight in nearly seven months.

The decision by Referee Matt Brock and two judges was unanimous. More than 14,000 cash customers witnessed the fight, promoters said, the first in the Cleveland Stadium since the Stribling-Schmeling championship bout a year ago.

Chico Cisneros, of Mexico City, won on a decision over Johnny Farr, of Cleveland, in eight rounds. Paul Pirronne, of Cleveland, middleweight, knocked out Gary Leach, of Chicago, in the first round of a scheduled eight-round bout. Bruno Sala, Pittsburgh, Pa., middleweight, won a decision over Joe Dunn, Cleveland, in four rounds.

A. O. H. MEET ON TODAY

By JESS CARVER

The Ancient Order of Hibernians, begorrah, have their annual track and field meet on the books today at Kennywood Park, with a crackerjack entry list of more than 300 and a fine Irishman, Councilman Michael Muldowney, for an official starter.

In connection with the meet, parish schools of the district, one dozen strong, will fight it out for the parish championship. Teams from Holy Rosary, St. Coleman's, St. Philomena, St. Stephen's, St. Francis De Sales, St. Anthony's Orphanage, St. Leocadia, St. Mary, Central Catholic, St. Andrews, St. Brendane and St. Aloysius will compete.

The outstanding feature of the affair will be the open handicap Marathon run, from the Pittsburgh Natatorium to the park. The grind and meet both have the sanction of the Allegheny Mountain Association of the A. A. U. A field of 20 of the best distance plodders in the district will compete. The Marathon will start promptly at 12:30 o'clock.

The Tipoff

Here's a good one—one for your book, if any.

Maj. Ralph Sasse, football coach at West Point, piloted his Cadet eleven to victories over both the Navy and Notre Dame last fall, but the major is going to take football lessons from Rip Miller, head coach at Navy, a former Notre Dame star, and Gus Dorais, who played football with Rockne, now coaching at Detroit. Sasse will attend the coaching school to be conducted by the pair at Assumption College, Sandwich, Ont., which opens Monday.

Jack Hulme, popular gymnasium director, swimming coach and team trainer at Westminster College, will leave early next month by auto for California where he will take in the Olympic games. Hulme plans to camp along the way.

The boys in the I. C. A. A. A. A. track and field championships at Berkeley July 1 and 2 will not be permitted to use starting blocks in the cinder events. The I. C. 4-A. officials have informed the athletes they'll have to dig their own holes as per usual.

PERKINS EVEN WITH JURADO AT 145

BULLETIN.

FRESH MEADOW COUNTRY CLUB, FLUSHING, N. Y., June 25.—Jose Jurado, Argentine star, tied with T. Phillip Perkins for the lead in the United States open golf championship, shot the first nine holes of the third round in 38, three over par, today. Perkins was one over par for the first four holes. Charles Guest went out in 34, one under par.

FLUSHING, N. Y., June 25.—(AP.)—Olin Dutra, the California heavyweight contender for golfing honors, knocked himself right out of the lead yesterday in the second round in the United States Open championship, leaving the battle wide open again, with two more regulation rounds to go today.

Four strokes in front after his sensational first round 69, still going strong for the first nine yesterday as the weather gods finally favored the leaders, Dutra took three "long counts" on the incoming nine and wound up with a card of 35-42—77.

The Californian's 36-hole total of 146 left him one stroke back of a new pair of pace-setters, Jose Jurado, from the Argentine, now a thoroughly established favorite, and Thomas Phillip Perkins, transplanted British star, who lately turned professional as an economic necessity.

PERKINS SHOOTS 69

The slim be-spectacled Perkins former holder of the British amateur title, shot the best round of the day, a sub-par 69, to post a total of 145 that withstood the late afternoon challenges of all except Jurado.

The swarthy little South American apparently perfectly at home under all conditions of play, consolidated his bid by adding a fine 71 to his previous 74 for another 145 aggregate.

Diegel was two strokes back with 73-74—147, one of the few top notchers who failed to show substantial improvement. Hagen, despite a costly seven on the 587-yard sixteenth hole, was only three shots off the pace with a two-day card of 75-73—148.

BURKE, SARAZEN FALTER

Although they still had an outside chance, the failure of the two ruling champions, Bill Burke and Gene Sarazen, to strike faster gaits furnished a big surprise to the galleries. Burke, the defending champion, added a mediocre 77 to his 75 for a total of 152, while Sarazen, having no luck whatever on the greens, posted a 76 for a two-day total of 150.

Vincent Eldred, of Highland, led the Pittsburgh district survivors with 151. Sam Parks, Jr., of the Summit Club, of Uniontown, and Peter O'Hara, of Westmoreland, were tied at 159, and Ted Luther, of Valley Heights, took a 160. The scores of the leaders:

T. Phillip Perkins, New York	76	69—145
Jose Jurado, Argentina	74	71—145
Olin Dutra, Brentwood, Cal	69	77—146
L. Diegel, Agua Caliente, Mex.	73	74—147
Walter Hagen, Detroit	75	73—148
Gene Sarazen, Great Neck, L. I	74	76—150
Harry Cooper, Chicago	77	73—150
Craig Wood, Deal, N. J.	79	71—150
C. Clark, Bloomfield, N. J.	79	72—151

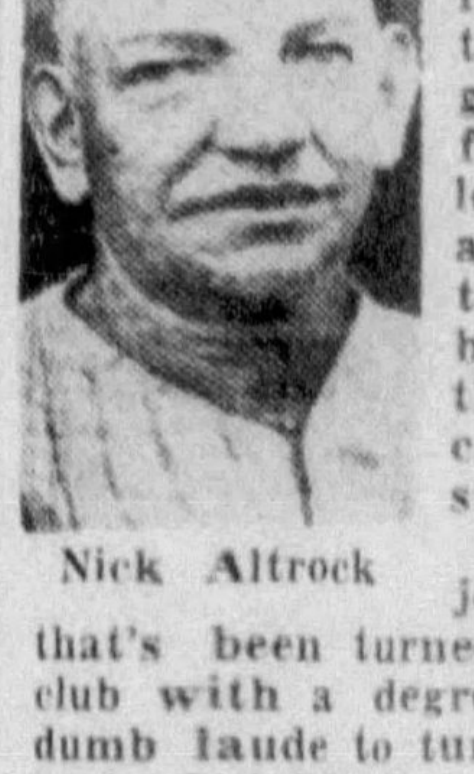
Nick Altrock

Baseball's Humorist

Says:

WASHINGTON, June 25.—There have been quite a few alumni days celebrated lately, and I don't mean old grads coming back to college and playing leap frog. I refer to guys who graduated from one big league team to another and then came back to give their former classmates a swell spanking.



Nick Altrock

It's quite a joy for a bird that's been turned out of one club with a degree of magna dumb laude to turn up to be a very bright boy on another team and do some Phi Beta Kappa batting or pitching. And nothing makes an old professor boil like seeing a former backward pupil return to the campus and hold the prof's 1932 senior class to a couple of scratch hits or maybe lam out a couple of home runs.

It's alumni days like those that make the world seem worthwhile or tough, as the case may be.

WOMEN GOLFERS RESUME PLAY

ANNUAL EVENT CONCLUDED TODAY

By TOM BIRKS

Out-of-town entrants took the play away from local stars in the opening day of play in the Allegheny Country Club's seventh annual invitation tournament at Sewickley Heights yesterday. Louise Fordyce, of Youngstown, O., and Ada McKenzie, of Toronto, Canada, each shooting an 81, led the field.

On the heels of these stars were Peggy Wattles, of Buffalo, the defending champion; Mary K. Browne, of Cleveland, the international tennis star, and Fritzie Steifel, of Wheeling, each with an 83. Bernie Wall of Oshkosh, Wis., looking fairer than ever, and Mrs. C. S. Eddis, of Toronto, Canada, followed with 84's. The players will battle over another 18-hole round today for the Allegheny Country Club trophy.

MRS. CAMPBELL GETS 85

Mrs. Frank Campbell, of Stanton Heights, with an 85, led the local contingent yesterday. Mrs. J. Bernd Rose, home club ace, was unable to compete, an attack of grippe removing the local star from the picture.

Anjeannette Hunter and Betty Abernathy, of Oakmont, probably got an entire season of poor golf out of their systems. Miss Hunter could not control her tee shots and finished with a 92, out of the favored flight. Miss Abernathy went out in 52 and back in 46 for a 98.

Mary K. Browne showing some of the fighting spirit that led her to many victories on the tennis courts came back on the home nine with a sensational 39 to put herself very much in the race. Louise Fordyce would have had undisputed possession of the leading position but for a buzzard 7 on the thirteenth hole.

In the driving competition the visitors also exhibited plenty of class. Mrs. Eddis and Ada McKenzie finished first and second, respectively, while Bernice Wall was third. The Oshkosh girl later won the approach and putting contest.

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

If the weather gods but smile on Pa Pitt today, district racquet fans should behold surfeit of the keenest, cleverest racqueting beheld here in many a moon as men's singles and doubles semi-finalists in the forty-fourth annual Western Pennsylvania tennis championships clash for right to join in titular battle tomorrow to climax nine days of hostilities on the clay courts of the Stanton Heights Golf Club. Large galleries have thronged the temporary Stanton stands throughout the past week of tournament contesting, but the turn-out this afternoon will undoubtedly exceed all prior local net gatherings since the heyday of the old P. A. A. rectangles, where the Cathedral of Learning now rears its stony pate.

Getting under way at 1:30 p. m., when Dr. Dave O'Loughlin, ace of the Winged Head, encounters B. F. Arkie, slashing star of Wheeling, and continuing through 2:30, as Champion Bill Haseltine, unflagging Philadelphia tactician, combats Dr. John O'Loughlin, top ranking luminary of the Steel City, the week-end program promises ceaselessly interesting action till the dinner gong sounds—and perhaps even later. Yesterday's summary:

MEN'S DOUBLES

Third round, lower half—Dr. W. S. McElroy and Dr. D. L. O'Loughlin defeated John Hecker and Stewart Snodgrass, 6-0, 6-3.

Fourth round, upper half—B. F. Arkie and Dr. J. L. O'Loughlin defeated Gilbert Morcroft and Crosby Logan, 6-0, 6-3; Sam Harbison and Charles Lockhart defeated C. E. Hughes and V. K. Glidden, 6-2, 6-1.

Lower half—Dr. W. S. McElroy and Dr. D. L. O'Loughlin defeated H. M. Rinehart and M. C. Rinehart, 6-2, 4-6, 6-4; Frank S. Smith and Leonard W. Reed defeated Dr. E. E. Peterson and James Slocum, 6-4, 5-7, 7-5.

WOMEN'S SINGLES

Semi-final round—Dorothy Anderson defeated Mrs. Jean Artsberger, 6-3, 7-5; Dorothy Jarvis defeated Miriam E. Sullivan, 6-3, 6-3.

WOMEN'S DOUBLES

Semi-final round—Nancy Lee Byers and Dorothy Jarvis defeated Helen Carson and Catherine Cole, 6-2, 6-4.

MIXED DOUBLES

Second round, upper half—Dorothy Jarvis and Sam Harbison defeated Dolly Harris and Leonard W. Reed, 8-6, 0-6, 6-4.

Semi-final round—Margaret Carspecken and B. F. Arkie defeated Dorothy Jarvis and Sam Harbison, 4-6, 6-0, 6-2; Dorothy Anderson and Rufus Hartig defeated Helen Carson and E. T. Hammer, 6-0, 6-2.

Mrs. Wendt Winner Of Field Club Play

Mrs. C. I. Wendt won the women's spring tournament at the Pittsburgh Field Club yesterday. It was a match play under handicap affair. She had a low gross score of 86.

In the first division, Mrs. W. J. Curley took first honors, with Mrs. W. Irwin runner-up. Mrs. W. J. Stebler won the second division prize, with Mrs. C. L. Beares, Jr., runner-up.

The winner of the third division was Mrs. H. A. Kohman, with Mrs. W. Birmingham, runner-up.

Hopkins, Maryland In Lacrosse Final

BALTIMORE, June 25.—(AP.)—The right to represent the United States in lacrosse at the Olympic games at Los Angeles this summer was the prize that brought Johns Hopkins, of Baltimore, and the University of Maryland, of College Park, together at the Baltimore Stadium today.

Four years ago the same two institutions met in battle for the same goal. Hopkins won that contest and went to Amsterdam

SHARKEY TITLE FEUD FLAMES

By SID MERCER
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, June 25.—Indefinite suspension of Joe Jacobs both as a manager and second by the New York State Athletic Commission today had added fuel to the bitter controversy over the transfer of the heavyweight title from Max Schmeling to Jack Sharkey last Tuesday night.

The feud between Schmeling's manager and the state boxing authorities appeared to be dying down to a smouldering fire of recriminations when Jacobs ceased his public denunciations on Thursday, but it flared up again suddenly with a blaze of indignation after the commission's official retaliation was tossed on the embers.

Apprised that his licenses had been revoked, Jacobs opened up once more with his verbal batteries. He began by paying his compliments to William Muldoon, who, with Gen. John J. Phelan, published the ban on Jacobs after yesterday's board meeting.

Jacobs blasted:

"So, 'Czar Nicholas' has banished me again. Well, isn't that just too bad? I suppose I should put a lock on my lips and not say anything. Why don't they bar the newspapermen who have assailed them? They have just as much authority to bar them from fight clubs as they have to take my license.

"But, no. They can't muzzle the press, but they can center their reprisal on Joe Jacobs—the guy next to Schmeling who is entitled to a beef. I must keep still and take it. Well, I'm not going to keep still.

"Max Schmeling will never box in the State of New York unless Joe Jacobs is free to act as his manager and as a second in his corner."

HURLS NO-HIT WIN

Sport Vignettes

Good news is received here by friends of Fred Woolridge, former Pitt swimming star, to the effect that he is expected to recover fully from the fractured vertebrae and skull he received in a diving accident in a Denver pool some time ago . . . His neck is in a plaster cast, and it is believed he will pull through in a year's time.

The action of Josephine McKim, former local star, Georgia Coleman and other mermaids in quitting the Los Angeles A. C., because of a decision to send only Misses McKim and Coleman to the National women's swimming tryouts in New York, July 15-16, as an economy move, merely reflects the general difficulties encountered by athletic organizations everywhere due to the failure of National Committee to raise sufficient funds to defray the expenses of contestants . . . The entire program for the trials has been revised and the scene shifted to Jones Beach, L. I., with the meet being sponsored by a New York newspaper and certificates instead of medals being awarded to the winners, and some of the events eliminated, while the entrants have been informed that the expenses of the qualifiers will be paid only from New York to California and back to their homes . . . Previously it was understood that the winners would be permitted to return to their homes before heading for the Coast, at the expense of the Olympic Committee.

Misses Mae Cutnell and Lenore Kight, two local entrants, who will represent the Keystone A. C. and the Homestead Library, respectively, are affected by the change in plans . . . Miss Cutnell had hoped to compete in the 100 meters backstroke and the 440-yard free style, but both are scheduled the same day, which means that she will confine her efforts to the former event . . . Miss Kight planned to swim in the 100 and 440 meters and half-mile, but will find her program curtailed also.

Wouldn't it be great stuff if the Fourth of July should find our climbing Pirates in first place in the National League standing? . . . Wouldn't it be? Let's all start pulling for that eventuality so we'll have something real in sports to celebrate on the holiday.—HARRY KECK.

Between Rounds

Johnny Cataline wants a return bout with Jackie Wilson, now that the latter's winning streak has been halted by Chico Cisneros.

Fritzie Zivic is on the trail of a third meeting with Steve Senich, of Homestead. He defeated Senich at the Meyers Bowl last Wednesday night, but Senich received the decision. Steve also won over him at Motor Square Garden last winter.

Jack London has established an outdoor training camp for boxers near Zelienople, Pa., and invites all boxers who care to attend at a nominal cost to join it.

Entries close today for the Golden Gloves amateur tournament to be held by the Twenty-seventh Ward A. C., in its North Side arena next Tuesday and Wednesday nights.

Eddie Simms, Cleveland heavyweight, wants to show his wares here. He is a brother of Frankie Simms, and already has beaten his share of good ones. Tom Stanley is his manager.

Eddie Brannon, Negro lightweight, of the Hill, boxes Patsy Hennigan, of Clairton, in one of the six-round bouts on the Greenlee Field card next Wednesday night. Ray Miller and Massey are in the windup and Johnny Willis and Bushy Graham in another 10-rounder. Matchmaker Jules Beck is casting about for an opponent for Charley Baxer in the other preliminary.

The Meyers Bowl ran into financial difficulties with its Kid Chocolate-Johnny Farr bout the other night, when the gate ran only a little more than $2,000, following a postponement of two nights. It is said Chocolate was to receive 55 per cent and pay Farr 10 per cent, which he was to guarantee would reach $1,500. Tony Herrera meets Eddie (Kid) Wolfe again, and Lew Feldman, of New York, boxes Battling Gizzy in two 10-rounders at the Bowl next Monday night. It is unlikely a show will be billed there for the following Monday, which happens to be July 4, holidays having been proved bad risks for outdoor fights in these parts.

Johnny Hayes of Philadelphia, who boxes Ted Yarosz at Hickey Park, Millvale, next Thursday night, has met Joe Glick, Joey Goodman and Manuel Quintero, in addition to Eddie Ran, Vince Dundee and Billy Petrolle.

CRIMSON CREW BEATS YALE

NEW LONDON, Conn., June 25.—(AP.)—Down a narrow, shimmering lane of deep blue water, amid the pandemonium of half a thousand bursting sirens, a bull-chested young giant stroked a tremendously underrated Harvard crew to crushing victory over Yale last evening in the final grand gesture of intercollegiate rowing for 1932.

With every pull of his tireless arms, Gerry Cassedy lifted his husky crew down the historic Thames in the fading sun of a perfect summer evening to whip the highly favored Elis by three lengths, smash their hopes of American Olympic repetition and lift himself among the great names in Harvard rowing.

Not since 1913 has Harvard's varsity triumphed over Yale in successive years and yesterday's victory marked the first time Ed Leader, in his 10 years at Yale, has seen of his varsities beaten in succession. To add to the day upsets, the varsity conquest made it two out of three for the day, as an equally surprising junior varsity beat the Elis by a length after the Harvard freshmen had trailed Yale by three lengths in the opening brush.

Harvard's time was 21 minutes, 29 seconds, well above the record of 20 minutes, 2 seconds set by Harvard in 1916. Yale's time was 21:42. The Harvard victory was its thirty-third in exactly 70 races over the 80-year period. Yale has won 37 times.

DENI GOES WEST

John Deni, P. R. R. all-round athletic star, a member of the United States Olympic skating team last winter, leaves today for Los Angeles where he will compete in the final Olympic walking trials July 3. Deni qualified for the finals by finishing fourth in the eastern tryouts in New York two weeks ago.

Girl Perplexed Because Aunt Wants Her Boy Friend

Justine's feeling low. What's the trouble? Love—and Aunty.

For Aunty, who is not so old herself, has fallen for Justine's boy friend, and she's playing all the tricks to get him.

So what's a poor girl to do? It's pretty serious for Justine, and—But we'll let her tell it herself.

"Dear Sally:

"Reading your daily column has become quite a habit with me. I have found the letters sent you both tragic and amusing, and I have enjoyed your answers, but until a few months ago I never had any need to write you myself.

"Up until then I was just a carefree, happy-go-lucky, fickle (I admit it) and extremely modern creature; but at the present time a problem confronts me that completely changes everything, so here I am, along with the rest of them. I do hope that you can help me. I need it.

"I am living with my grandmother and my aunt. My aunt is 28. I am 18. I am considered attractive and well-built, and I do have a pleasing personality, too. I have always been popular. Now the trouble is that I am obliged to include my aunt in our set, as she is not married and likes to go out. And that is what is making this problem.

"Last summer I met a man who appealed to me more than any other one I had ever met. He is 28, well-educated, well-bred, and has traveled extensively.

AUNT IS JEALOUS

"I went out with him numerous times throughout the summer, and since, and I grew fonder of him every time I saw him, until now I am really in love with him, and his attitude toward me gives me the impression that he cares for me, also.

"Well, my aunt has just returned from a long business trip, and naturally has become acquainted with him. Unfortunately, she has also fallen in love with him. She has become very jealous of me, and has tried in various ways to prevent me seeing him.

"I don't know what to do. Is there any solution of this problem, that will leave everyone concerned unhurt and happy? I don't want to hurt anyone, but I don't want to lose him, either. Please help me. "JUSTINE."

FOR MAN TO DECIDE

Of course you don't, honey. I know just how you feel, and I'm for you; and if Aunty is trying to keep you from seeing this man, she is being very unfair.

What'll you do about it?

Well, about all you can do is to be your own gay, friendly little self, and then let the man decide which one of you he wants. For, after all, it is his choice. He's the one who must do the picking; neither you nor aunty; and if he's regular, he'll do it.

Don't worry too much about Aunty's competition. If she tries to wish herself on him, and he doesn't care for her, she'll soon wear out her welcome. If he does care for her, there is nothing you can do about it except to grin and bear it, and learn to love someone else.

Either way, either you or Aunty will get a bump; but don't feel too badly over it, honey. Bumps are just part of living. Meet them with courage and like them. That's the way to happiness, and the only way. So keep your head up and don't let it get you down.

Heart of a Wife -:- Continuation of Love's Reawakening

Madge to Entertain Three Youngsters in Home

I never have found out how Dicky meant to finish the half humorous threat concerning the advent of Lee Chow and Hugh Grantland that was interrupted by Katie's summons to the telephone. There was something so breathless, so imperative in my little maid's manner that I guessed there must be something stressful in Lillian's summons.

Mindful of the necessity of placating Dicky, however, I hesitated, although I was most anxious to get away. I distinctly did not want him to finish the sentence he had begun. On the other hand, I did not want him to think I was evading the issue.

MADGE PERTURBED

I wondered, however, if he might not also be glad of the interruption, when he cut short my hesitancy with a hurried admonition to "run along, for when Lillian wants something in a hurry there's usually a reason for it."

Without a protest, I followed my voluble little maid out of the room, and to the telephone in the hall with its dangling receiver.

"You tink eferyting all right?" Katie said anxiously, and I found it hard to make my voice casual and reassuring as I said "Of course."

There was upon me the obsession of evil news, which is always mine at a telephone summons, until I know definitely that the tidings which it brings is innocuous. So It was with trembling fingers that I took up the receiver and waited for Lillian's message.

"Lo, Madge?" I could tell nothing by her voice, for it was composed as always.

"Yes," I made a tremendous effort to keep my voice as steady, as calm, as hers—and failed miserably. That Lillian realized my anxiety, I knew, when she said quickly:

"Thank Heaven" I intoned, and then, with a little laugh at my own perturbation, I added "Now go on with the story."

ASKS FAVOR

"I can't tell it to you now," she said. "It will have to wait until we get home. I simply want a favor of you which I ought to be shot for asking, but I have no alternative."

"Then why delay the asking?" I asked promptly and cordially.

"You dear," Lillian's voice was warm now. "I always can count on you. But tell me, first, how is the wounded man?"

"Distinctly better," I answered, "and those men outside—you know what I mean—wrote a letter to him the other day saying they would stop all their activities if we would promise to arrange an interview between their head man and the friend from the East whom we are expecting soon. Do you understand what I'm trying to get at?"

"I penetrate your camouflage perfectly," she said, "and I am much relieved. That makes it easier for me to tell you what I want. Is the sick man very susceptible to noise?"

"Not at all," I said. "Fortunately for him and for our four lively boys, he is quite deaf. I don't mean that Katherine has to shout at him to make him hear, but the noise of the phonograph or the radio, or of the boys playing, does not appear to disturb him in the least."

"Well, then,"—Lillian's voice held a distinctly relieved note—"may I bring Carolyn and Ronald and Bob Trevellen, Ronald's chum, down with us tonight? Will it be possible for you to put them all up for two or three days?"

I had a second of panic. With Lillian, Marion and Mary back in their rooms, the house was full. I did not see where I could put a single extra person. Then with a remembrance of Helena Brixton's hesitation when I told her of Lillian's coming, and my mental scoring of her for her inhospitality, I spoke quickly, enthusiastically!

HESITATION NOTICED

"Of course, you know I can put them up. I could manage even if they were old people; but youngsters—you can hang them on hooks."

"You're sure you'll be able to manage?" There was doubt in her voice, and I knew that her quick perceptions had caught that momentary hesitation of mine.

"If you doubt it, I'll tear this telephone out by the roots and throw it at you with force enough to have it reach you up there in camp."

"Aim for the ocean, darling," she gibed, "then at least you'll have a chance of hitting me in the mountains."

There was that in her voice which told me that I had assuaged whatever momentary hurt I had given her.

"Don't worry about my aim," I told her. "I'll take care of that. Just tell me what time to expect you."

"We're driving down," she said, "and I'm not going to let them speed so don't expect us much before dinner time."

"Then please engage two physicians for 2 o'clock tomorrow morning," she added with a little laugh, as she hung up the receiver.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Tiny warts, appearing like threads of flesh, pop out on neck or shoulders. They can be removed without any danger or damage by means of the electric needle. Ordinary flat warts disappear when treated daily with applications of castor oil.

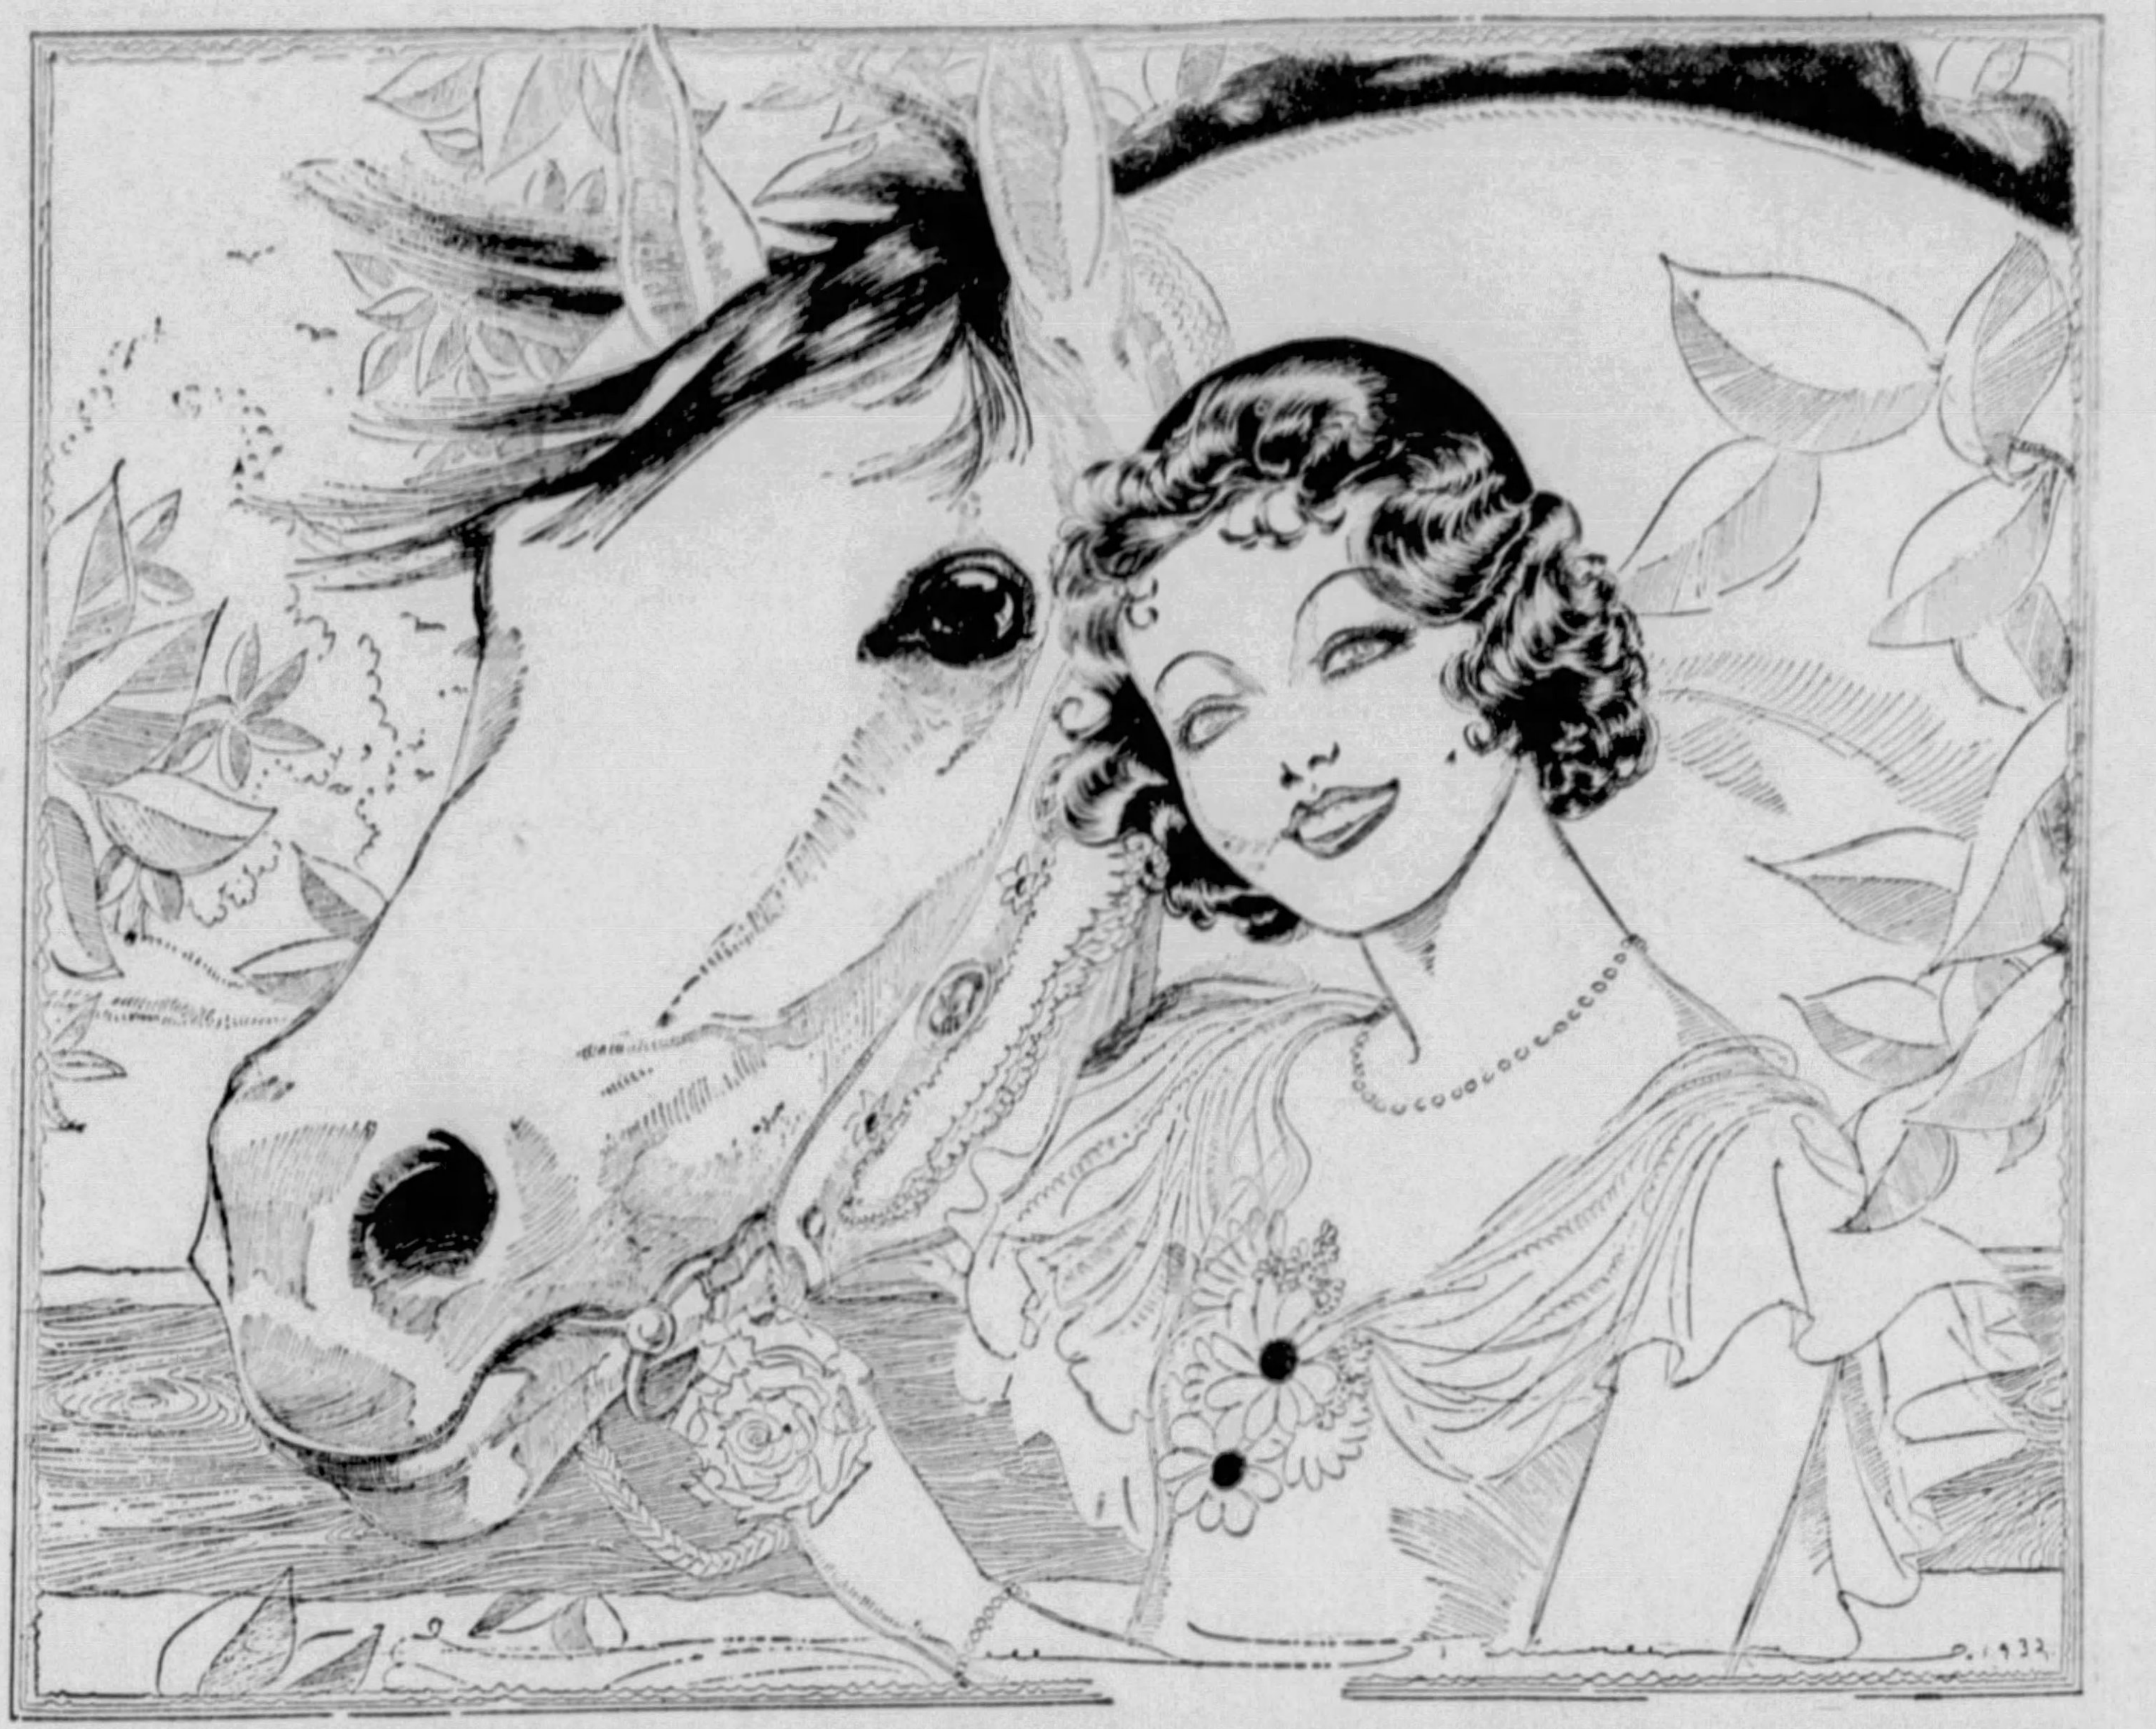
Ointment of zinc oxide is useful to have in the beauty kit. It is the best cure known for a nose that has a maddening way of getting rosy. It can be used successfully for removing stains under the nail eaves. Shove it under with an orange wood stick. Let it remain for five minutes, remove with the stick, scrub nails well with soapy water and brush.

Just what produces fever blisters nobody knows for certain. It is best not to tamper with them since it is easy for the finger tips to spread infection. They get along best when they have no attention.

There's a feeling that hot air blowing like blasts from a fiery furnace on to the finger wave isn't good for human wool. It isn't. Heat should be moderate even if the victim must spend another 15 minutes getting her lovely undulation baked. Now, more than ever, the royal topcrest needs oil treatments the night before the weekly shampoo.

"CLASS!"

Drawn by Nell Brinkley



The man who is a fanatic on beauty will see something delightful and lovely in both the beauty of an aristocratic horse, and in the beauty of a thoroughbred girl.

The man who sets a fine horse above the world, will see the beauty there, but will be less impressed by the mere beauty of woman.

And some of the rest of us who are not specialist-fanatics, find beauty in the aristocracy of horses, the beauty of high-bred girldom—but also, and there's a joy, we see it in a great deal of the rest of the world; horses less aristocratic, girls less marked with race, grandmothers with wrinkles, little boys with long legs, babies with round eyes, young mothers, fathers in shabby clothes—marked with labor, little girls with curls and red sweaters, ambitious youngsters, the passing cloud, the thrush with his antique-gold velvet back.

What a pleasure the world is to one like that! The blooded horse!—nothing more thrilling—but the plough-horse, heavy and kind, with eyes just as soft as the Arab, even if the fire is not there, he is beautiful, too. A really beautiful gentlewoman, slender and poised, is something to watch and take delight in—but a girl across from me on the bus, Polish-peasant, perhaps, with a big baby on her knee, has eyes like a Murillo Madonna—she is beautiful, too.

A little boy I know—very well indeed—looked up at a glistening, silvery pure-bred horse, dark-eyed, sooty-maned, and breathed, "Oh, Mother—CLASS" But he likes a hop-toad, too! He loves—thank Heaven—all the world—and particularly the live-world of animals, humble and high.

He has been told this—"The Arabs say: 'Weal is knotted in the forelocks of noble horses until the day of judgment.' And 'weal' will come to a little boy until the day of judgment, if he is kind to animals, both noble and lowly."—NELL BRINKLEY.

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

Graduation Party

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am graduating from high school and I would like some advice.

1. To whom do I send announcements?

2. Are paneled cards in good style?

3. What style engraving do you recommend for a 17-year-old girl's calling card?

4. Do you consider the style enclosed in good style? I do not like the heavier types of engraving.

5. I have an older sister. Am I "Miss Carol Swenson" or "Carol Swenson?" My sister prefers that I use just my first and last name. S.

1. It is gracious to send these announcements to your list of relatives and close friends, those who will, of course, be most interested in the announcement of such an important event in your life. Do not be tempted to make your list too inclusive, sending the announcements to casual acquaintances.

2. Paneled cards have never been accepted as good form. Personally I think that they take away all charm and grace from a visiting-card. I hope you choose the conventional plain card.

3. I think that the choice rests between Script—which is always correct, and very much less expensive than any other style of engraving—and the beautiful shaded antique Roman, graceful, youthful and very fashionable.

4. I don't think that this style of engraving has any distinction or grace. A visiting-card is of such importance that it should be done conventionally, in a style of engraving that is conventional and traditional. Then it is beyond criticism . . . and this our cards should be.

5. You should use the form that is on the card that you sent me . . . the first and last names with the title of Miss.

Who Writes First?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Tell me, please, who writes first, the man or the woman? Does the one going away first have the prerogative? F.

The man writes first. He first asks the woman if he may have the privilege of writing to her, and then, if she grants this, naturally he would be the one to write first.

How to Keep Well -:-

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Best 'Rock a Bye' for Your Baby Is Proper Food And Comfy Clothes

For the first few weeks of a baby's life, the infant should sleep from 20 to 22 hours out of every 24. From the third to the sixth month, 12 hours of sleep at night and a two-hour nap morning and afternoon, should be the rule.

Dr. Copeland.

If a baby cries at night any time during the first three months, it probably is suffering from indigestion or from colic. These digestive disorders may be due to several causes. Among these are:

2—Overfeeding.
3—Incorrect formula.
4—The mother's milk may be unsuited or insufficient.

Irregular feeding is harmful. A baby overfed in the daytime probably will cry all night. There should be regularity in the feeding, and the infant should be awakened for this purpose at regular intervals of three or four hours during the day.

If the baby wakens during the night, one night feeding is permissible up to the age of six months. Permitting a baby to sleep on its mother's breast and to nurse most of the night is harmful both to the child and the mother.

When a child cries it is not always a signal for food, and it is a bad habit to let a child nurse every time it cries. The delicate stomach of a baby cannot take care of more than its required amount of food.

A baby should be nursed not less than 15 minutes nor more than 20 minutes, and at regular times. If it is not breast-fed, the formula should be prescribed by a physician, and any changes in diet should be under his supervision.

Colic is a common ailment of babies up to the age of six months, and the symptoms of colic usually alarm the young mother. The baby will cry out loudly, draw up the legs, kick and grow red in color. Holding the baby over the mother's shoulder and patting it on the back sometimes causes the gas to be expelled, giving the little one relief. When the baby has an attack of colic the feet should be kept warm, and warm applications to the abdomen should be used. A warm bath is often helpful.

Breast-fed babies sometimes suffer abdominal pain because the mother has eaten gas-forming foods, such as cabbage, cauliflower, turnips, baked beans, etc., making the breast milk disagree with the very sensitive stomach of the baby.

Constipation should be corrected in both the infant and the mother. This condition is a common source of trouble to both.

Nasal obstructions, either from an acute head cold or from adenoids, will cause wakefulness, and should be corrected.

A baby should sleep in a well-ventilated room, and should have proper bed clothing, neither too heavy, nor yet insufficient. It should not lie in damp or unclean clothes at any time. Give a normal baby proper care in feeding and clothing and usually it will not be restless or wakeful.

In brief, make the baby comfortable and feed it regularly and wisely, then both you and the baby will have peaceful nights.

Answers to Health Queries

W. G. B. Q.—What will remove pimples?

A.—First correct the diet, by cutting down on sugar, starches and coffee. Eat simple food and avoid constipation. Send self-addressed, stamped envelope for full particulars, and repeat your question.

* * *

A Reader. Q.—Is tuberculosis curable in the intestines or joints? I am very much under weight.

A.—It depends upon the particular case. I would suggest that you build yourself up. For full particulars, restate your question and send a stamped self-addressed envelope.

Contract Bridge -:- HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

Psychics and Insufficient Bids

Experts lay down the principle that psychological bids are sound surprise tactics against opponents when the user of such bids has a long and safe escape suit to which he may run if doubled in the bid originally made. Perhaps after reading today's story, they will add the proviso: "—if your partner does not make an insufficient bid, which bars you from playing in your escape suit."

East—Dealer.

North:
♠10 4
♡9 7 4 2
♢K 7 2
♣Q J 5 4

West:
♠8 2
♡K 10 6 3
♢AQ10 8 3
♣8 3

East:
♠6
♡A Q J 5
♢J 9 5
♣AK10 9 6

South:
♠A K Q J 9 7 5 3
♡8
♢6 4
♣7 2

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
			1♣
1♡ (1)	2♢	Pass	3♢
3♠ (2)	D'ble. (3)	4♡ (4)	D'ble.
Pass	Pass	Pass

(1) Paving the way for the surprise maneuver.

(2) Disclosing the escape suit.

(3) West is fooled. He thinks South is stronger in hearts than in spades and hopes to force a return to hearts, or else hide the supposed strength of West in spades by his Penalty Double.

(4) The fly in the ointment. South now is barred from further participation in the contracting, and North must make his bid sufficient. This he does by bidding four hearts, which is doubled by East.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED
Mrs. Culbertson will be glad to answer any specific question on bidding or play sent in by readers. Address her in care of this newspaper, inclosing a two-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope.

In actual play, South won but a single trick, as East and West picked up South's singleton trump and successfully finessed the club suit through Dummy, permitting West to discard spades after Dummy's trumps were drawn. South was thus set 3,400 points, while his contract of three spades, doubled, could have been made easily.

The price of the psychic, plus an insufficient bid, was very high, indeed.

Today's Question:

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1♠	Pass	2♢	Pass
3♡	Pass	4♣	Pass

♠AKJ75 ♡AQJ98 ♢K6 ♣4

Answer: Four hearts. Strictly speaking, this suit is not rebiddable, but it is essential to convey to North the holding of two five-card suits. North may still hold secondary support for either spades or hearts, which he was unable to show on account of the danger of raising a possible four-card suit.

Household Hints

Add sugar to green peas, and a pinch of bicarbonate of soda to keep their color. Taste the peas when you are shelling them. Some require more sugar than others.

An excellent remedy for burns and scalds is glycerine and borax mixed with linseed oil. A little rubbed on the inside of windows on washing day prevents them steaming.

Apples can be peeled easily if they are first steeped in boiling water for a minute. Tomatoes should be placed in a colander and boiling water poured over them before they are peeled.

RANKIN CHECKS 3RD SPAN FIRE

For the third time in 24 hours Rankin firemen were summoned to extinguish a fire on the West Braddock Bridge over the Monongahela River last night.

The third blaze, which resulted in slight damage, broke out in the center of the span. The approach of the bridge caught fire Thursday night from the explosion and fire that destroyed the two-story frame home of Frank Getz, at 311 West Braddock avenue, Rankin.

Following the blast, Police Chief Michael Jordan and County Detective Joseph Bodnar arrested Getz, his wife, Rose Getz, 35; John Adrina, 37, of Burton street, Swissvale, an alleged ex-convict, and John Mihalchick, 32, of Hanover street, Swissvale.

Mihalchick was said by detectives to have confessed that the building had been saturated with kerosene and gasoline and set afire. He implicated the three under arrest and another man who is being sought.

ARTILLERY UNIT CELEBRATES

The 107th Field Artillery, Pennsylvania National Guard, last night celebrated the annual "Regimental Day" at the Hunt Artillery Armory, Emerson street.

The exercises, viewed by more than 1,000 spectators, included a military review and drilling exhibitions. In the reviewing stand were Gen. Edward C. Shannon, lieutenant-governor of Pennsylvania; Col. Eric Fisher Wood, commander 107th Field Artillery; President John S. Herron of City Council; Col. William A. Dunlap, commander 176th Field Artillery; Maj. Walter J. Hardy, signal officer, 28th Division; Col. Edward M. Island, commander 103rd Medical Regiment.

MANUFACTURING PLANT

For Sale or Lease, as a whole or in parcels to suit the purchaser. A completely equipped manufacturing plant on a plot of ground 120 ft. x 180 ft. Located in a small town 50 miles from Pittsburgh, shipping service on two railroads, plentiful water supply, cheap fuel and labor are available. The plant is equipped as a complete heavy duty forge and machine shops with full complimentary equipment of boiler, steam hammers, cranes, forge fires, electric blowers and necessary tongs, forms, dies and small tools. The machine shop is equipped to operate by electric power and includes lathes, shaper, drill presses, bolt and pipe machine, power saw and small planer.

In addition to the three frame buildings containing the equipment described above, there is also erected on this plot of ground a two-story brick store room containing approximately 2,400 square feet of floor space and a one-story frame warehouse containing 2,400 square feet of floor space. The plant is readily accessible, being located at the intersection of two paved streets and has 180 feet of siding facilities on two railroads.

To any person or company interested in this location, buildings and equipment, the owner will make very attractive terms. Address communications to OWNER, N 268, in care of PITTSBURGH SUN-TELEGRAPH.

Lynn and Tom Decide to Get Married After Quarrel About Party

CHAPTER XVI.

Tom made his way to the room set apart for the male guests, Jennie and Lynn, arm in arm, went upstairs.

"Good time, Jennie?"

"Swell. I'm going to pose for Mark Manners. I'll pick up some loose change that way. How about you?"

"Me? Oh, the party? I loved it."

"Watch out for Tom. Warpath, fire water, feathers and all," Jennie warned as they went downstairs.

Synopsis

Lynn Harding, young and pretty, is ambitious for a career in the Seacoast Bank and Trust Company. She loves Tom Shepard, secretary to one of the vice presidents, but will not marry him, feeling they both must make their careers first. Then Lynn meets David Dwight, a prominent lawyer, through Sarah Dennet, her chief at the bank. Twenty years ago he had been Sarah's fiance. When he married a woman of wealth and position, Sarah was broken-hearted, but she finally found contentment in her work. Dwight is attracted to Lynn and invites her and Sarah to his apartment for dinner. Lynn's roommate, Jennie Le Grande, a model, warns her that Dwight is dangerous. Later Dwight meets Lynn and asks her to lunch just as Tom appears. Dwight is relieved to learn that Lynn is not planning on an early marriage. He plans a party and invites Lynn and Tom. Lynn is surprised when Tom accepts. At the party Tom is not at ease. Dwight breaks in while Lynn is dancing with one of his guests and leads her out onto the terrace. He is treading carefully to attain his end. He kisses Lynn on the forehead. Tom sees them together and is furious.

Now Go On

"Taxi," said Tom, on the pavement.

"Mr. Dwight's car was to——" began Lynn.

"Taxi," said Tom firmly.

They reached the doors of the apartment house. Jennie whispered to Lynn as they waited for Tom to pay the driver, "I'll do a nose dive into the bedroom and shut the door."

Facing Tom in the living room after he had plodded heavily up the stairs with them and Jennie had vanished ostentatiously, closing the bedroom door, Lynn asked, "Oh, Tom, what's the matter?"

"What do you mean, what's the matter? Nothing's the matter; nothing at all. What should be the matter?"

She moved her hands in a gesture of despair. "Please, Tom, don't take that attitude. You're angry about something."

"I'm not. I'm not angry at all. Why should I be? What's on your mind? Got a guilty conscience?"

"Tom!"

"Look here, Lynn, you make me sick!" he shouted. "The whole party made me sick. You, most of all, cavorting around. I suppose you think you were the guest of honor. Honor! You make me laugh. And then necking out on the terrace with Dwight. Dwight, he's a fine guy, isn't he? What's the big idea, anyway? Rich lawyer throws party for bank employe. That sounds swell, doesn't it? I suppose he did it out of a fatherly interest!"

That went home. She accused him furiously, "You're drunk!"

"What if I am? I had to get some thing out of it, didn't I? I tell you I saw you out there cuddling up to the big shot after —after our dance together. Love! Women make me sick," said Tom.

She was unhappy with the swift crushing unhappiness of youth; she was also murderously angry. She cried, "You—you're being disgusting and unfair and vulgar. I—go away!" she commanded, and dragged the little ring from her finger and threw it on the floor.

Yet 10 minutes ago she would have sworn that if asked to explain her recent proximity to David Dwight, if asked to explain even the so-innocent kiss, she could have done so sincerely, with all her heart; although, she would have said, it needed no explanation.

She turned on her heel; staggered with fatigue, emotion, disappointment; yes, disappointment. She swung around, said sorrowfully:

"It was such a nice party. Now you've spoiled it; yes, you've spoiled it"

Tears poured suddenly down her face, a crystal, miniature flood. Her face was childishly distorted with crying; she stood there, desolate, forlorn, crying bitterly, sobbing in small gulps.

This was no competent young woman capable of earning $1,900 dollars a year. This was not Dwight's "guest of honor," nor yet his friend who had stood with him upon the rooftops and talked of love and skyscrapers and friendship. This was a child whose builded blocks had toppled about her; who was crying about them.

The spirit had gone from her, the anger and the flame. Incalculable girl, garnets swinging at her ears, white frock billowing about her, standing quite still, crying. Devastating effect . . .

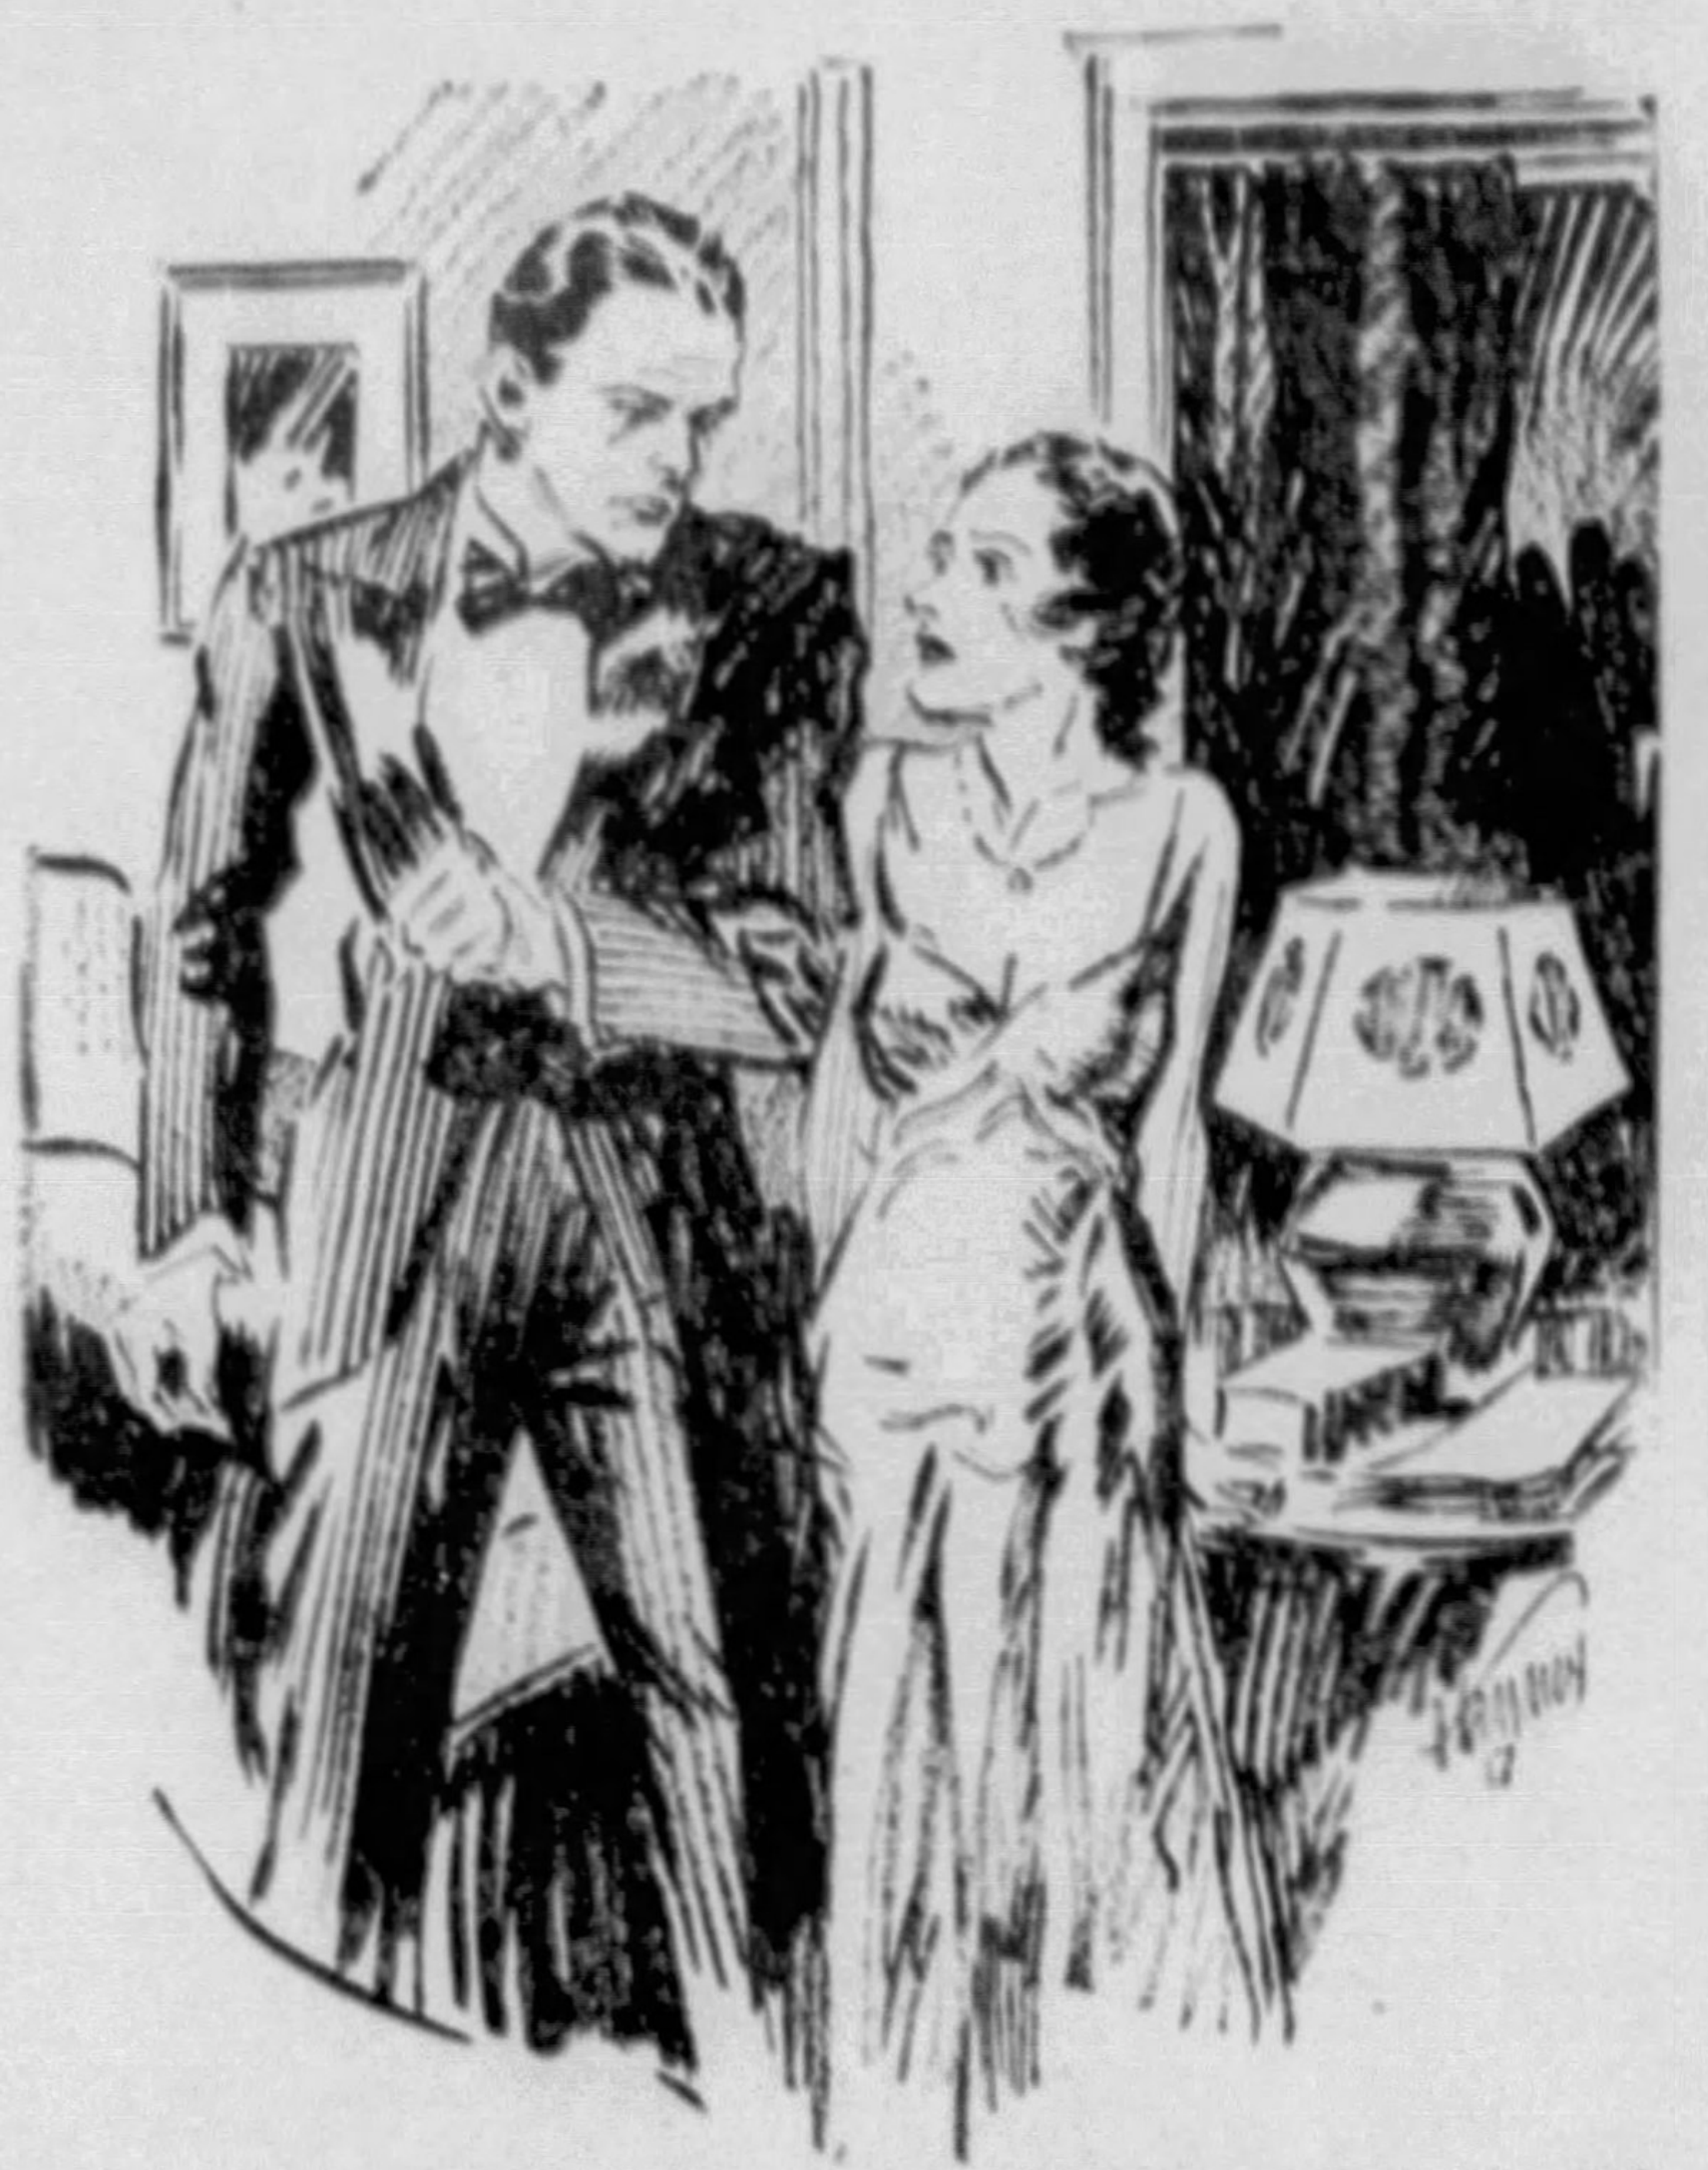
Tom took two steps. White frock disappeared; girl disappeared. "I love you—too much," he said, "I'm a fool. Forgive me."

At their feet the ring lay, a simple circle, a complicated circle, starred with a tiny diamond, and symbolizing eternity.

"Tom, I do love you. You didn't mean what you said." She wept into his crumpled shirt front.

"Of course not. Look here, this can't go on." He stopped, appalled at the sacrifice of pride, of principles, that he was about to make. Nonsense! Here she was, close in his arms, warmer than pride, more desirable than principles. "We'll get married, Lynn, as soon as possible. You—you can go on working, darling, and we'll be so happy."

"Tom!" She drew away from



"I suppose you think you were the guest of honor," Tom shouted.

him a little, searched his face for truth. Truth was there, written on grave features. The liquor still sang in his blood, but his mind was clear enough. He swept her back into his embrace, kissed her.

Jennie appeared in negligee. "Lord, I'm sorry; thought you'd gone."

Lynn was radiant. After all, weeping had left no scar; nothing had left scars. "Jennie, we've decided to get married."

"Is that news?"

"No, but soon. I mean, I'll keep on working."

Jennie was glum. "Nice for you, maybe. What about me? Back to the furnished room or driven to the streets. Tom, for Pete's sake, go home and let us go to bed. Can't you set the date tomorrow; I mean, later today?"

But they had no eyes for her, clasping hands, laughing with a gentle madness, happy, secure, the future irradiated and clear before them.

Tom had gone. He had closed the door, not gently, as a door is closed upon faint hopes, but with an exultant slam which reverberated through the entire apartment.

"Quiet little fellow, your future husband," Jennie commented, yawning, from the bedroom.

"He's happy," Lynn was wandering about in the living room, getting ready for bed. "So am I. I knew he'd be sensible and give in," she announced.

"Oh, yeah? Well, here's something else you'd better know, too, and the sooner the better. He'll never stop reminding you that he did give in. When anything goes wrong, he'll say, 'Remember I was against this and you made me do it!'" was Jennie's sardonic warning.

"Oh, not Tom!" Lynn, in robe and nightgown, cantered into the bedroom and sat down on the edge of the bed. "Besides, what else could we do? We couldn't go on like this forever."

"No, I suppose not. Well," said Jennie glumly, "I suppose you'll be pulling out of here any day; next week or—"

SUN-TELEGRAPH-WARNER THEATERS JUNIOR KOMIC CLUB

All the youngsters who attended the regular weekly meetings of the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club, held today in the 17 Warner Theaters, enjoyed more than two hours of good, clean, wholesome fun and entertainment.

As each child entered the theater they were given No. 2 in the series of amusement tickets for the Junior Komic Club picnic, which is to be held at Kennywood Park on July 14.

Several hundred boys and girls attended the meeting at the Memorial Theater, where the first annual dog and "mut" show was held by the youngsters. Dogs of all descriptions were "shown" by their proud owners and as each dog was led across the stage it received rounds of applause from the audience.

At the Enright a Charlie Chaplin contest was conducted by Bill Zeilor, the manager, with prizes for the best imitations of the Chaplin habits, movements and dress. As added attractions the members were also shown a Charlie Chaplin comedy and the movie that was taken last week of the chapter's members.

The children attending the Davis Theater were entertained by the Arsenal Minstrel troupe. A group of youngsters, all members of the Arsenal Chapter of the Junior Komic Club, have proven such a success that the managers of the other Warner Theaters prevailed upon W. T. Otey, manager of the Arsenal, to allow them to appear at their meetings. The appearance today at the Davis marked the eighth club, other than their own, where they have appeared.

The youngsters in the Arsenal minstrel are: Alberta Fundi, Minnie Fundi, Mickey Sipple, Veronica Walsh, Betty Richard, Lois Richard, Russell Neggl, Steve Delost, John Hilliard, Al Gressler, Howard Morris, Josephine Baran, Blanch Covelski, Josephine Lange, Jean Lesnick, Francis Kane, Bernedine Gressler, Laura Jacobs, Betty Racki, Virginia Stack and Ross Zinn.

If you are not a member of the Sun - Telegraph - Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club, send your name and address, name of your parents, school you attend, date and year of your birth, to the Secretary, Junior Komic Club, Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa., and a membership card and button will be mailed you.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

God Knows

God knows the urge to climb
That moves the eager feet;
The thought which finds sublime
And distant goals so sweet;
The noble will to rise,
By sacrifice and loss,
To greet the purer skies,
To lift the heavier cross.
Men may have only seen
The weak and futile hope;
The gulf that lies between
The goal and hands that grope.
Men may have watched in scorn
The empty life and bare;
The seeking heart forlorn;
The ultimate despair.
Yet, strangely, at the last,
These valiant lives disclose
Their triumphs, wrung for vast Defeats, for still God knows.

OH, WE SIMPLY CAN'T SPARE GEORGE RIGHT NOW FOR EVEN A FEW MOMENTS. I'LL TALK TO THIS MAN.
OH YES MR. WAMPUM, YOU NO DOUBT ARE THE FORTUNATE HUSBAND OF OUR MRS. WAMPUM WHO—
WHERE'S BUNGLE? ARE YOU HIS PAL? WELL TELL HIM TO STAY AWAY FROM THAT CONVENTION.
BUT MY DEAR WAMPUM, THE COLONEL IS—
I'VE ASKED SIBYL TO STAY HOME. SHE REFUSED. THEREFORE IF BUNGLE GOES I'LL GO TOO. AND DO YOU KNOW WHAT I'VE GOT IN THIS CASE? LOOK! AT IT'S PRETTY LITTLE NOSE!
A.....A.. SAWED-OFF SHOT GUN! WHY MY DEAR WAMPUM, WE CAN'T HAVE THAT.... ANY SCANDAL IN THE PARTY.... JUST NOW ANYHOW! THINK, MR. WAMPUM! THINK OF—
I'VE ALREADY THOUGHT ENOUGH. IF BUNGLE GOES ON THAT TRIP..... POWIE! AND I GUESS YOU KNOW WHAT POWIE MEANS.

Utility Rates Probed

Public Service Commission Finally Takes Aggressive Action on Electric Charges,

At last the Pennsylvania Public Service Commission has started to take action on its own initiative against excessive electric rates charged residential consumers. An investigation of the Duquesne Light Company and the West Penn Power Company got under way this week as part of a state-wide study of the rate structures of leading companies. It has taken many years for the commission to realize that it must be aggressive to carry out its work properly. In the past it has merely waited for cases to be brought before it.

One of the most encouraging bits of news this week was the calling of a special session of the Legislature. Before issuing the call, Gov. Pinchot made sure that results would be obtained. He compelled the state's political leaders to come to definite agreements on the steps to be taken. A comprehensive relief program has been drawn up and its passage is practically assured.

Arrest in Oklahoma of a man who recently escaped from Central Police Station has caused Public Safety Director James M. Clark to comment that appearances indicated the fugitive might have ''greased'' somebody, and intimated that he possibly had ''inside'' help. That is disquieting, and it is to be hoped Director Clark's investigation will reveal who—if anybody—is to blame. The man will not be brought back here until he serves a term in Massachusetts, where he also escaped jail, a trick he has performed, too, in Illinois.

Council has instructed the Public Works Department to notify the county that the city is willing to turn over to it several city bridges, including the Smithfield street span, which would be repaired by the city prior to the transfer. The estimated cost to put it in good condition for 25 years is $225,000. That looks like a good bargain for the county, which should have charge of the maintenance of such intra-county arterial structures.

Mayor Kline's head must have been whirling a little the other day. He received some praise—for a change. The deserved commendation came from Arthur E. Braun, member of the operating committee of the Allegheny County Emergency Association and was given for approval of the sale of $800,000 relief bonds.

It is the age of thrills! Wrecking of a couple of ancient locomotives that would have to be scrapped, anyway, in a head-on collision, as a holiday spectacle, is passe. As a Fourth of July attraction a nearby Ohio town is advertising an airplane ''crack-up'' by a daredevil pilot swooping from the air to the ground.

Plans are proceeding for the convention of the state department of the American Legion, to be held in August. Of all the conventions that are held in Pittsburgh, none should be more welcome than those of the ''boys'' who wore the blue and the khaki. Next year the valiant remnant of the heroic veterans of the Civil War in the state, represented by the G. A. R., will meet here.

County Commissioners have been furloughing county employes and reducing the salary of those who remain, a late cut reducing the pay of engineers in the Bureau of Bridges. It is tough on the employes, but the necessity of balancing the budget is paramount at this time, and that means that employes must balance their own—on a reduced scale.

Awarding of prizes to Boy Scouts for their work in a city-wide traffic count reminds us that here we have a small mobile civilian army that can be relied upon, judging from the willingness with which the boys responded for this work, and the diligence with which they carried it out. The organization is one of which all can be proud, since its first aim, aside from the intrinsic one of character-building, is service.

Box City and Shantytown are to have a municipal rival—a Tent City. It will be located on the city farm at Mayview, and it will be of a size to give shelter to 500 men. We vision it as being so attractive that some men who relish camp life may be tempted to pretend they are unemployed just to get into it.

Pictures of President Hoover and Vice President Curtis, Republican standard bearers who will be the center of heated controversy from now until the November elections, will be featured in tomorrow's rotogravure section of the Sunday Sun-Telegraph. And do you know any of the graduates of Fifth Avenue High School or Allegheny High School? Their pictures will also be in the rotogravure section.

With the passing of John Walker, Pittsburgh has lost the last of the iron men who blazed the trail of this city's greatest and assured its present dominant position in the steel industry. Mr. Walker helped organize one of the companies which later became an important part of the United States Steel Corporation. His death follows closely on that of Julian Kennedy, the man who enjoyed doing the impossible in the design of steel equipment.

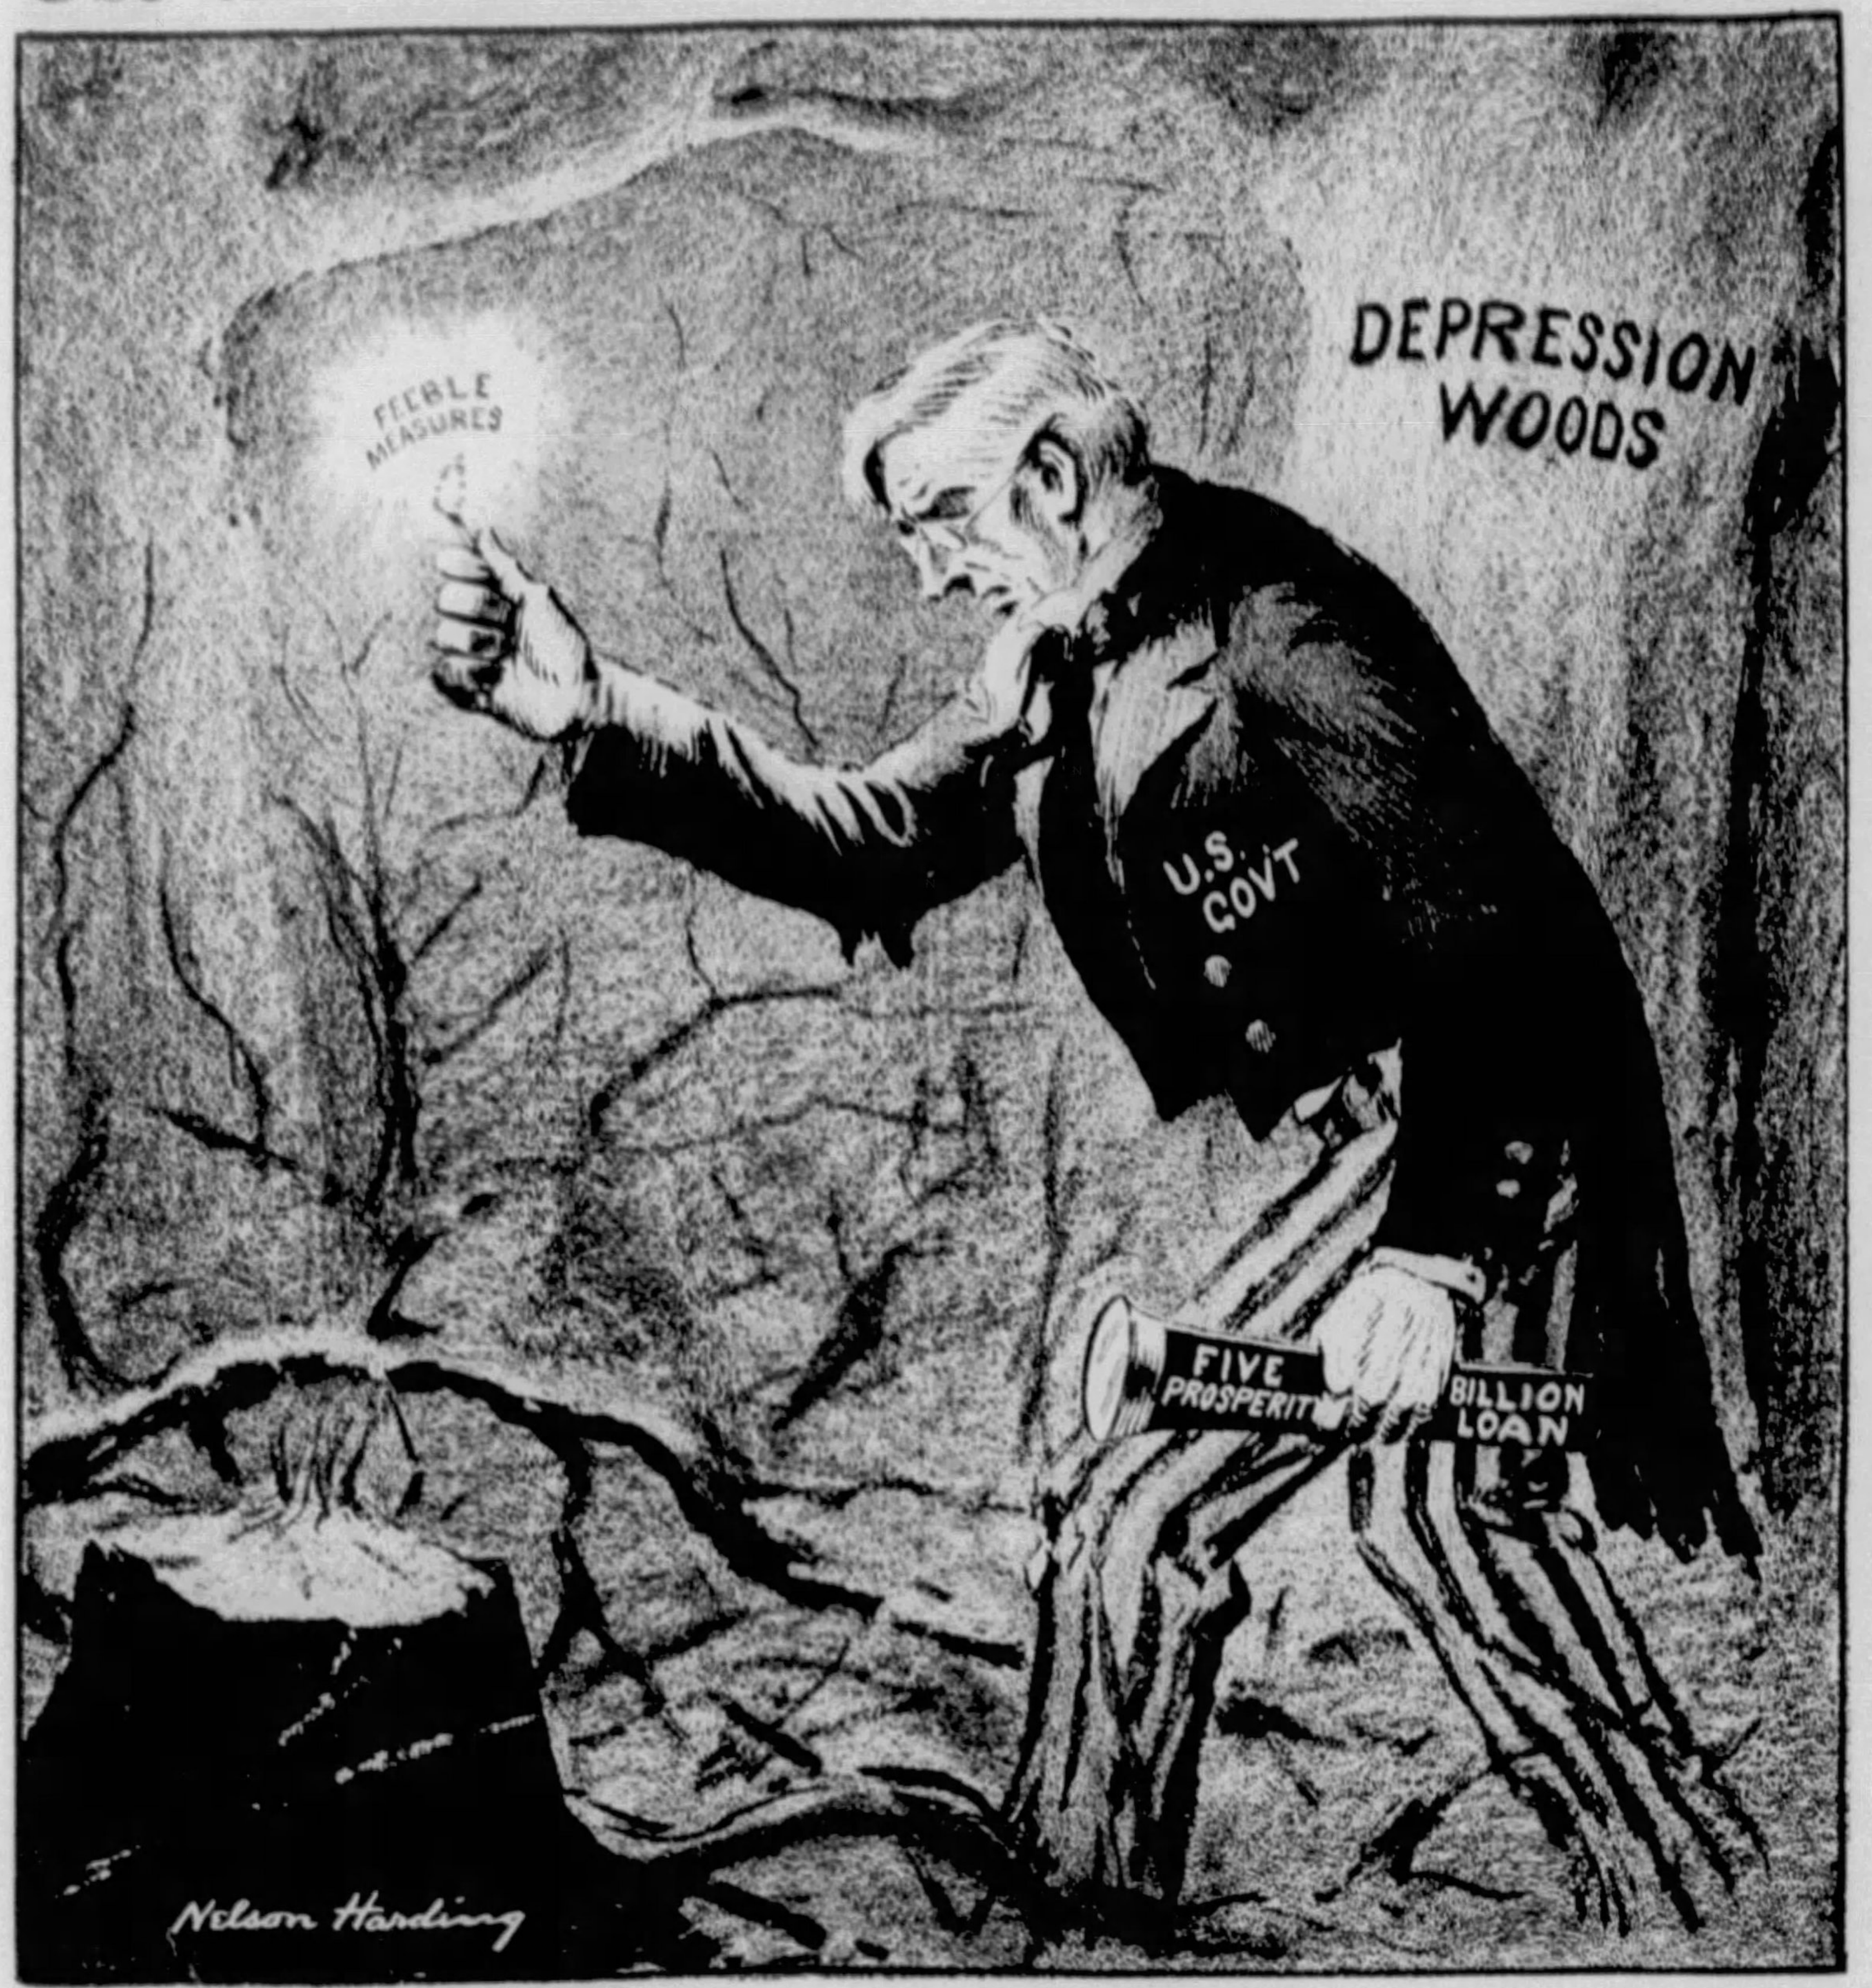
Stamp collecting has gained a popularity never before achieved. Yesterday more than 10,000 letters were mailed through the Pittsburgh Postoffice bearing the commemorative Washington Bicentennial—Fort Duquesne cachet sponsored by the Sun-Telegraph. They were addressed to every nook and corner of the United States, and many went to foreign countries. These letters were stamped and self-addressed by collectors and forwarded to the Sun-Telegraph for remailing on the anniversary of Washington's departure from Fort Louden in 1758 to join forces with Gen. Forbes for a campaign against Fort Duquesne.

The Federal Reserve Board does not intend to let business get worse if it can do anything to check the downward trend. For weeks it has been pumping new money into circulation by buying United States government securities. This is increasing bank deposits. Eventually this money must be loaned to aid the recovery in industrial activity. The Reserve System has successfully withstood unprecedented foreign withdrawals of gold. This week it took a further step to ease the money situation when it cut the rediscount rate to 2½ per cent.

Were "the good old days" really good? The American Weekly, to be distributed tomorrow with the Sunday Sun-Telegraph, discloses the fact that we lead more wholesome and happy lives today than ever before. The American Weekly shows that our ancestors lived lives that were dirty, dull and dangerous beyond belief. No one was safe either alive or dead 100 years ago.

Use the Torch!

By Nelson Harding



By the feeble light of matches
You will never find the trail
Through the forest. In the darkness
Such faint light will not avail.

Why use that dim flame, producing
Indecision and delay,
When you have a brilliant flashlight
That will plainly show the way?

Marry-Go-Round

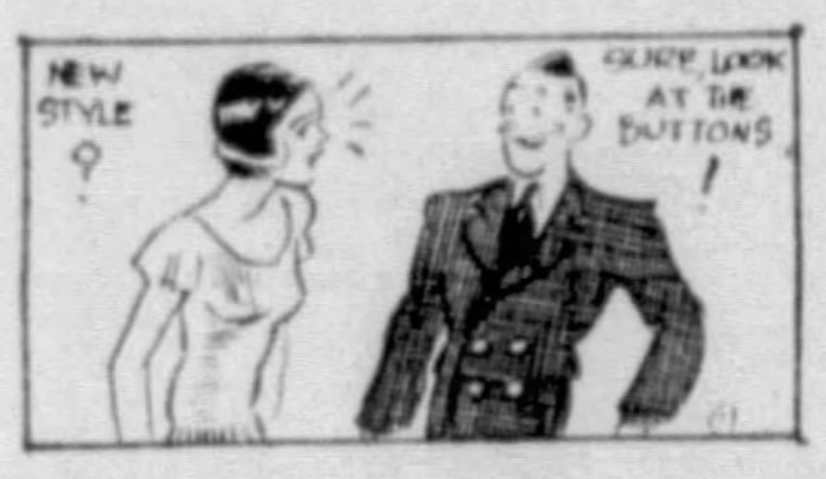
By HELEN ROWLAND

Mixed Grill

Lots of modern men seem to think that love should be one long fairway, but that marriage is just a "sand-trap."

* * *

Why marry? Oh well, you can always find somebody to share your money and your pleasures with you—but you've got to have somebody TIED to you, to share your burdens and troubles and secrets and sorrows. That's ONE reason why!



NEW STYLE ?
SURE, LOOK AT THE BUTTONS !

A man's idea of keeping up with style is having the buttons put on his coat in the latest way, each season.

* * *

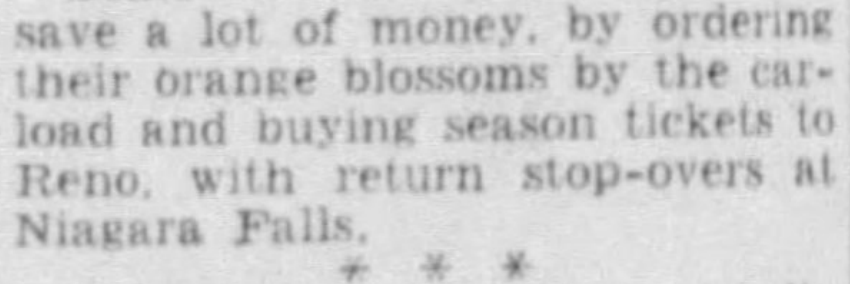
Some modern women might save a lot of money, by ordering their orange blossoms by the carload and buying season tickets to Reno, with return stop-overs at Niagara Falls.

* * *

The first thing that Amelia Earhart did, after flying the Atlantic was to run down to a millinery shop and buy herself a new hat. A woman is ALWAYS a woman!

* * *

"A man is known by the company he keeps." But a woman is never really KNOWN by anybody except the beautyshop attendant, who takes her in looking like the wrath of Heaven—and sends her out looking like some man's "dream."



HOW MUCH DO YOU LOVE ME DEAR ?

Perhaps the worst fate, for an idealistic girl, is to go through life looking for a Lancelot or a Don Quixote and to succeed in finding only a Don Juan.

* * *

When a woman glances up from the bargain-sheet, to ask her husband how much he loves her, he usually pauses for a moment to consider how much he can AFFORD to love her.

* * *

It requires all a debutante's self-control to look fashionably bored and cynical, when she is having the time of her life.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, June 25.—One thing about the adjustment—depression to the crepe hangers—is the elegant break we get in service. I remember when you had to be just like that with James J. Hill, or E. H. Harriman, to land a reservation on a fast train. And unless you were one of the Goulds, conductors snooted you.

Pardon my hiccups, but telephone for a railroad ticket for no farther than Poughkeepsie today and the chairman of the board in silk hat will arrive with it in person within the hour. And about getting a cafe table. Head waiters always made me feel like one of those anxious little boys in large spectacles with mamma.

When I hove into sight they'd dust off a chair behind a palm smack up against the bass drum. My pals! You'd think I was in full scratch with a new setting of itch. But, as of even date, I can get the same attention as Russ Colombo squiring Garbo in any eatery in town.

And, O, my only Aunt! what a change in theatrical box office men. The pawn-broker's eye they used to give Mr. M. My voice always trailed off into a slate pencil screech asking for two on the aisle. I never got better than Z, where I'd converse around the post with my wife.

The other evening I dropped around to the boxoffice of a hit show and with my usual postoffice chattiness inqured: "What have you"—here the usual upshoot into tenor—"in the way of two good seats?" As quick as a wink he snatched a pair from the rack in B on what Cousin Elvira called the "izzle."

I think I could have stood in the wings and taken the star out for supper, but I don't gallivant around with show women—not since the crash. This piece is going goofy. Still everybody is establishing new lows—so here goes one in columning.

* * *

At the tailor's just before we rode into the big wave, you couldn't have a suit made in less than three weeks. And even that was a vague promise. If the coat split up the back when you sat down they'd make you feel unreasonable by arguing how tight the buttons were sewed on. (Memo to biographer—in the blackest hours of the depression he was always clowning and getting off things.)

* * *

As for getting credit these days, just leave your name. The address isn't necessary. Yet ten years ago when I tried to open an account at a department store, they even peeked under my eyelids, took samples of my dandruff and tested my knee jerks.

* * *

But the most fun is stopping at those hotels that welcomed you with a step-ladder handshake. The clerks in such places always gave me a good start toward pleurisy. But have they "clumb"—it's the Ozarks in me—down. Many are the times, (what perfect control of the tenses!) I've stood with aching arches while they adjusted ties, slicked up their nails or made a fuss over someone who just registered from Woffingham, Shirley Church Road, Addington, Surrey. I got so I'd take along tatting or a bureau drawer to tidy up while waiting. Today ask for a room and they'll give you a wing of the hotel as quick as that and toss in a match trick to boot.

I have an idea that if you stopped into Dunhill's, where the "clerks" wear linen dusters and spread the a from here to here, you could have Mr. Dunhill in person wait on you and perhaps you could call him Alf.

* * *

After years of facing the high and mighty crotchets trying to make a few purchases here and there I'm glad some of us old shopping hazzards can turn finger snappers. I've been skewered on icicle stares for so long that I got so I ordered everything possible by mail or telephone. After practicing up a few days, I'm going to walk right into Tiffany's and price a collar button or something.

* * *

So far as I can see there's only one hard-boiled mug who has not softened up in the world crucible. That's the New York banker. He still runs cold with ice water. God's Frozen People! But he will thaw out. Everybody has to put on a thaw these days with Mrs. Whoozis doing the dishes in her Newport place. Just the other day one of those high-muckalorem door openers gave me a bow. It was just a hurried little nod, but it goes to show what is happening among us proletariats for the goodness sakes alive.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

Often you feel you're missing something—find yourself, don't you, envying other people who seem to be getting a lot more out of life?

Lucky creatures! You wonder how they do it. You wish you had their breaks. You, too, would like to live.

THEN WHY DON'T YOU?

Why do you pass up most of life?

Why do you insist on being half dead?

"But I don't; and I'm not!" you cry indignantly.

Oh, yes, you do; and you are!

Never a day but you deliberately throw away part of your life. Your body seems to be alive. You talk, you walk, you work; YET YOU ARE, FOR A GREAT PART OF THE TIME, ACTUALLY DEAD, AND FOR ALL YOU GET OUT OF LIFE, YOU MIGHT AS WELL BE ATTENDING YOUR OWN FUNERAL!

There's an interesting advertisement running in the current magazines. It shows the picture of a woman. One half of the woman wears the simple, snappy costume and hair cut of 1932. The other half is swathed in the crips and pompadour, the puffed sleeves, pinched waist and ruffled bell skirt of 1902.

There she stands, pretty, healthy, seemingly wide awake, BUT ONLY HALF ALIVE. Her body exists in the world of today, but the really vital part of her—her thoughts, her emotions—inhabit the clothes of today, but her spirit wears the misty, gray memories of yesterday.

SHE IS HALF GHOST!

There is a great picture and a terrible sermon.

You wonder why you are losing so much of life? That is why.

BECAUSE YOU ARE REFUSING TO LIVE SO MUCH OF LIFE.

YOU, TOO, ARE HALF-GHOST.

It is so easy to refuse to live life; so easy to become a ghost!

Every time you run away from the job of today and wander in memory, YOU REFUSE TO LIVE.

Every time you evade reality and drift in day dreams, YOU CHOOSE TO DIE.

Every time you abandon yourself to sentimentality instead of facing facts; entrench yourself in a prejudice instead of going over-the-top after a new idea, or evade action by some convenient alibi—YOU ARE THROWING AWAY A CHANCE TO LIVE; YOU ARE PREFERRING DEATH.

And this is true, even when your evasions seem most noble. Grief seems noble. Heartbreak seems noble. Remorse seems noble. So does self-sacrifice.

Yet prolonged grief and remorse can blot out life as surely as a bullet; and senseless heartbreak and sacrifice can wreck life as surely as poison.

DON'T REFUSE LIFE!

DON'T CHOOSE DEATH!

LIVE ALL OVER!

LIVE ALL THE TIME!

LIVE NO MATTER HOW HATEFUL IT IS!

CUT OUT EVERY COSY ESCAPE UNTO DEATH!

STOP ATTENDING YOUR OWN FUERAL!

STOP BEING HALF GHOST!

(Copyright, 1932, King Features Synd., Inc.)

Wise Words

They are proud in humility, proud in that they are not proud.
—Burton.

A thing of beauty is a joy forever,
Its loveliness increases; it will never Pass into nothingness.—Keats.

The solitary mortal is certainly luxurious, probably superstitious, and possibly mad. The mind stagnates for want of employment, grows morbid, and is extinguished like a candle in foul air.
—Johnson.

Isn't It So?

A sense of humor is one way to Heaven.

An obstinate heart shall be laden with sorrows.

The command to do with our might what our hands find to do needs for most of us an increased emphasis on the personal pronoun.

Interpreting Borah's Broadside

By Claude G. Bowers

Author of "The Struggle for Democracy in America," "Founders of the Republic," "Jefferson and Democracy," "The Tragic Era" and other important works, now writing for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

There is no member of the Senate or person in public life for whose intellect and eloquence I have a higher regard than Senator Borah's. He is a rigid individualist, impossible to work in harness. This makes him a trial and torment to party managers and strategists; often a puzzle to the people; and no public man could long sustain himself with such utter independence without having the unique position of Borah in the devotion of his constituency.

His notable speech in the Senate, in which some think he has bolted his party because of its confusing plank on prohibition, has the appearance of a crossing of the Rubicon. He says in an interview that he will not support Mr. Hoover on the platform. That smacks of a bolt.

But we are not at all sure about it.

In a sense Borah has contributed mightily to the strategy of the cunning politicians who framed the plank to catch 'em coming and going. As we suggested in these columns, the evident purpose of the strategists was to so frame a declaration on prohibition that it could be called "dry" in dry territory.

How excellently Borah's speech works in with this plan!

Borah's Speech Can Be Peddled

The real wets wanted a straightforward, explicit, unequivocal declaration for repeal; Mills, representing Mr. Hoover, who wanted nothing of the sort, forced something quite different on the convention. The evident hope was that the wets would hail it as a wet plank and the drys as a dry plank. Thus we were to have the same sort of interminable debate on interpretation that always follows Mr. Hoover's own declarations. This would have permitted the policy of 1928—a blowing hot and cold, a playing fast and loose.

But the adoption of the plank was met with general ridicule and denunciation from the foes of prohibition.

This speech of Borah's can be peddled about in New York, Illinois, Massachusetts and New Jersey as proof that the Republicans have put on the armor for repeal

* * *

Will Mr. Borah Bolt!

This makes all the more imperative an honest, frank, straightforward interpretation of the plank by Mr. Hoover in his speech of acceptance. He cannot slur it over now. Nor use weasel words. Nor pussyfoot.

Thus Borah has done one thing that may prove embarrassing to Mr. Hoover, who has a constitutional antipathy to plain, unmistakable speech.

Will Mr. Borah bolt? He never has. This is not the first time he has violently disagreed with party policies, but invariably he lines up. We never have been able to understand his ardent championship of Hoover against Smith four years ago. Fundamentally, and on most social and economic issues, he was more in accord with Smith. Was prohibition the determining factor in his action? It is said that he had assurances from Mr. Hoover regarding farm relief that were lightly repudiated after the election.

There scarcely is a single policy of the administration that can justify Borah's support of Hoover in this campaign. But we shall see what we shall see.

One paragraph in his speech bears out everything that we said in Chicago:

"There were about three hundred and some-odd federal officials in the convention, and many of those must be counted as having voted as they did, not because of their convictions, but because of what they deemed political expediency."

That is true; and since straight repeal was defeated by less than 300 votes, we have a verification of our contention that federal job holders, under the lash of Ogden Mills, forced the equivocal plank into the platform.

Another Phase Of His Speech

But we are more interested in another phase of Borah's brilliant speech. Thus he said:

"Without questioning anybody's sincerity or challenging anybody's patriotism or stopping to analyze the platform itself, I choose to leave aside a document with which the exception of one plank fell dead at the feet of the American people, eliciting scarcely a favorable comment from the party press, and arousing not the slightest concern or attention from the people generally."

Here we are, in the midst of the most serious crisis in history, with millions ruined, millions jobless, millions hungry, millions bankrupt, with business prostrate, with financial institutions in danger, and yet no one would suspect from anything uttered in the convention or written into the platform that these are other than normal times.

* * *

Our Complaint Against Borah

And this is our complaint against Borah. He knows all this, evidently feels all this; and we should have felt he had rendered a greater service had he not left the platform generally "aside." In heaven's name, why leave that phase aside? That is the phase that threatens our political and social institutions. Is it possible that he thinks the ruination of the farms, the peril to business institutions, the slow starvation of American children are of less importance than the question of whether a man shall drink a glass of beer or not?

We know that he is not unmindful of this phase of the crisis; but we are unable to understand why he puts all this "aside."

The people are not going to put it aside. This he sees and says:

"It is clear to me that the Republican campaign will not be fought around the singular document which came from the convention. Long before the strenuous October days arrive the realities of the campaign . . . the increasing demands of the situation will cause this platform to be shoved aside as wholly inadequate and wholly unresponsive to the necessities and demands of the people."

And that is true. The people will determine the course of this campaign. And the fight will revolve around the real issues.

Democrats Must Meet the Issues

If the Democrats are wise next week they will not lay themselves open to any such criticism as that which Borah aims at his own party. A vague, weasel-worded platform of inanities and platitudes, merely skirting the edge of the real issues that economic blunders have forced on almost every home, would be the last word in asininity from the part of the opposition.

Inevitably and properly, prohibition will play its part in the drama of next week; but to permit it to overshadow or absorb the issues of bread and butter, of jobs and trade, of relief and reform, would be to convince 60,000,000 Americans that neither party has the courage, the character or the capacity to lead the nation out of the morass in which we find ourselves.

If the Democrats have brains that would not rattle in a mustard seed, they must set their feet solidly on the tragic realities and meet the issues that tragedy has forced upon the people.
